DYNAMITE PRISONERS IN LOS ANGELES JAIL

J. J. McNamara There First Learns of the Arrest of His Brother and McManigle.

MERELY A PLOT, HE SAYS

Younger McNamara Identified by Woman as Bryce—Almost Overcome by Weakness at the Prison.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 26.—After one of the most remarkable trips ever made by officers with prisoners John J. McNamara, Secretary-Treasurer of the International Bridge and Structural Ironworkers' Association; James B. McNamara, his brother, and Ortis E. McManigle were placed in the Los Angeles Jail to-night to await trial on charges of responsibility for the blowing up of The Los Angeles Times plant. They had been brought from Indianapolis and Chicago in separate railway compartments and are occupying separate cells, surrounded by extra guards.

It was only on his arrival here that John J. McNamara learned of the arrest of his brother and McManigle. It was only this morning on the train that James B. McNamara learned that McManigle had made admissions to the Burns detectives and the Chicago police that implicated him in various explosions. McManigle was certain of the action to be take against him only when he arrived in Los Angeles.

John J. McNamara, after he had been put in his cell, made his first statement since his arrest. He said the charges against him were part of a plot against unionism, and complained of his sudden removal from Indianapolis.

Crowds in Los Angeles Quiet.

Perhaps because of the mystery which has attended the journey of the prisoners the interest in their arrival here was very great. Thousands gathered in the vicinity of the Santa Fé station before noon to-day, although every one knew that the overland limited on which the prisoners were believed to be was not due for another two and one-half hours.

It was shortly after 2 when word was telephoned to some one in the crowd about the station that the train had been stopped at the station in Pasadena and James B. McNamara and McManigle had been put in an automobile and taken to the county jail. At the Pasadena Station there had been a curious throng but an orderly one, and there was not a sound from it when the prisoners left.

The news of the trick made the crowd about the station here scatter and run for the jail. People gathered on the lawn of the Court House, packed the windows of that building, and crowded on the stairways leading up from the street. It was twenty minutes of three when the car containing McManigle and James B. McNamara appeared. The crowd greeted it with a cheer, but whether that was a sign of relief at the end of the waiting or was intended for the detectives or even the prisoners no one could say.

Two minutes later the automobile bearing John J. McNamara, Detectives Guy Biddinger of the Chicago office, S. J. Smith of the Burns forces, and Hosick of Los Angeles rolled into sight from the opposite direction. The union official was taken off at Raymond Station. Again there was a slight cheer and some hissing, but a cordon of police moved forward and the noise stopped.

The crowd was still until the automobile was emptied, and the prisoner was standing at the gate of the jail. Then there came a surge forward, and before the police could interfere McNamara was surrounded by a mass of gaping faces. All they wanted, however, was to see, and the attempt at rescue that had been feared did not come.

First Learns of Brother's Arrest.

It was in the office of the jail that the elder McNamara first learned of the arrest of the others. He had been put aboard the same train at Fort Dodge, Kan., but was kept in another car. He was kept from talking with anyone or reading the papers. Even when the train reached Pasadena and his brother and McManigle were transferred to the automobile, he did not learn of their arrest.

As he entered the office of the jail he was suddenly confronted by the sight of his brother. He is evidently very fond of his frail relative. At the sight of the other prisoner surrounded by a half-dozen detectives he was plainly shocked. His face paled perceptibly and he asked for a chair with a gesture of his manacled hands. In a few seconds, however, he recovered himself and his face cleared. After the first glance he did not look toward his brother until the latter left the office in charge of Jailer Gallagher.

Younger McNamara Weak.

When the prisoners had been locked up it became known that this morning, when the train was at Barstow, Cal., James McNamara learned of the story that McManigle had made revelations to detectives and implicated his former "pal," the Secretary of the union, and others. The effect of this information was to break down the stoic reserve which he had shown since his arrest in Detroit. When he reached the County Jail he was almost exhausted, but maintained his outer air of composure. His face was white and he coughed incessantly. His fingers, yellowed by tobacco, for he rolls and smokes continually, flickered and twitched about his rather weak mouth, and twice as he stood before the desk he staggered and had to be held. He made no complaint, and refused to make any statement even after the Sheriff gave him permission.

McManigle evidently does not know that his revelations have been made public. He kept up an air of bravado—far more so than that of either of the others. In the train this morning, when addressed by a newspaper man and asked whether he would permit his picture to be taken, he said: "If you bring a camera in this compartment I'll throw it out of the window and you after it." Otherwise he attempted to give the impression of good humor and confidence. He is evidently worried, for he is reported to have said to one of his guards this morning: "So it was the Los Angeles jobs you fellows wanted us for. I thought it was when you pinched us in Detroit."

Ample Defense, Says McNamara.

John J. McNamara talked of his case in his cell this evening. His appearance was prepossessing. Under a broad forehead are widely spaced eyes, with clusters of little wrinkles about their corners. His mouth is large and well formed, and his head is well formed and large, almost massive. He was well and quietly dressed in dark, snugly fitting clothes. He was pale and looked slightly haggard. His statement was quick and direct.

"I have nothing of real importance to

Take Palmas Island, Regarded as Part of the Philippines.

MANILA, Thursday, April 27.—Delayed advices received here via Jolo report that the Dutch have taken possession of Palmas Island, sixty miles southeast of Mindanao.

The Dutch lowered the United States colors and substituted the flag of Holland.

It is understood here that Washington does not intend to protest against the action of the Dutch, the United States Government regarding the island as valueless.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—A native chief found proudly wearing a cap, evidently the gift of a Dutch Captain, raised the issue of sovereignty over Palmas Island about two years ago, and the State Department hurriedly consulted its maps and records, but the whole question died almost immediately.

The Washington Government has no particular desire for the Palmas group, although it has been deemed a part of the Philippine Archipelago. Where the Palmas natives live, without an American among them, there is nothing to interest this Government, and neither the United States nor Holland has ever felt called upon to leave anybody in authority on Palmas. Probably half a hundred Filipinos constitute the entire Palmas population.

An official stated to-night that aside from sentiment it made no difference whose flag floated there. Communication with the islands is very infrequent, and the United States has not sought to keep in official touch with the Palmas people.

Palmas Island, so small that it does not appear on some maps of the Philippines, lies just inside the lines given on the map prepared by the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department, showing the boundaries of the Asiatic possessions of the United States. It lies about east of the extreme southern point of the Island of Mindanao and about midway between that point and Haycock Island.

Palmas is northeast of the Celebes group and northwest of the Muluccas, both of which are Dutch possessions.

LEAK IN AQUEDUCT TUBE.

One Hundred Laborers in Hudson Bore Narrowly Escape Flood.

The tunnel under the Hudson River at Storm King, which is being constructed by the city in connection with the Catskill Aqueduct, has received a serious setback through an unfortunate explosion of dynamite, which occurred Saturday afternoon. In starting the tunnel the engineers first sank a 1,150-foot shaft perpendicularly near the east bank of the Hudson. When well below the bed of the river they began the horizontal bore, and had reached a point 250 feet westward under the river on Saturday.

During the afternoon a blast was set off. The force of the explosion slightly parted a rift in the rock of the river bed. The 100 laborers in the tunnel saw water streaming down the sides of the tunnel, and, without stopping to investigate, they rushed back through the 250-foot tube to the hoists and were hauled to the surface as quickly as possible.

When the city engineers made an investigation they found that the horizontal tunnel was full to the roof with water. Pumps were set in operation and have been working night and day ever since. At first no progress was made against the water, but yesterday afternoon it fell seven inches. It is hoped that silt from the river bed has filled up the rift and that all the water in the tunnel can be pumped out and the break repaired. Otherwise the tunnel, which, according to city employes yesterday, has cost the city close to $1,000,000, will have to be abandoned.

WARNS FRATERNITY MEN.

President Schurman of Cornell Says Too Many Fall in Their Work.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 26.—Another warning to the fraternity men at Cornell University to do better work in their class rooms is sounded in President Schurman's report on the comparative scholastic standing of the fraternity and non-fraternity men for the year 1911. President Schurman points out that of the eighty-eight men dropped in February, as the result of the midyear examinations, the fraternities furnished 40 to 45 per cent., whereas the number of male undergraduates belonging to fraternities constituted but 29 per cent. of the entire male student population.

The figures are about the same as last year, and Dr. Schurman says that is not a good showing for the fraternities. He is glad to commend fifteen fraternities, whose names he gives, which did not lose a single man for poor scholarship last year.

Of the 3,587 regular students, excluding graduate students and women, 1,048 belong to the fraternities, and 2,539 do not. Forty fraternity men and forty-eight non-fraternity men were dropped. The distribution among classes shows that the sophomore year is the dangerous one for fraternity men.

WED IN TAXICAB.

Maddigan Had to Catch a Train and the Minister Was Obliging.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, April 26.—Roy J. Maddigan of New York, a well-known athlete, and Miss Marion Kriebel of Walnut Hills were married to-day in front of the home of the Rev. George A. Thayer. Maddigan went to the home of Miss Kriebel to escort her to the minister's home for the ceremony before taking a train. When they reached the preacher's house he was coming out. Maddigan produced the marriage license, and the couple were married standing in the taxicab.

Mrs. Louise A. Lent stood up with the bride. Two minutes later Mr. and Mrs. Maddigan were rushing down the street for the station, and reached there in time to board the train for the West. The bridegroom is employed here by a radiator company.

SUMMER UP THE HUDSON.

The Black Snakes Are Moving and John D. Archbold's Yacht Arrives.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., April 26.—Abel Weeks of Castle Ridge reported to-day that he had seen several black snakes crawl out of their holes. He says this is a sure sign that Summer has arrived and that the snakes are awake from their Winter nap.

John D. Archbold's yacht Vixen II. came up from the city to-day and will go into commission to-morrow, when Mr. Archbold will begin to travel to and from his office in New York by water.

Mr. Archbold always travels in this way in Summer. He owns one of the fastest yachts on the Hudson.

CROWDED EVENING FOR TAFT IN TOWN

CHEERED BY THOUSANDS

69th Veterans, 71st Guardsmen, and the Blind's Sympathizers—Politicians Had Their Inning Last of All.

President Taft came from Washington yesterday to spend thirty-six hours in this city. The President came here chiefly to open the fair of the Blind Workers at the Metropolitan Opera House, but most of his evening was taken up with other functions, receptions, and dinners. He is due back in Washington on Friday morning, and until his arrival at the White House he will have scarcely an idle moment. He began last night when he attended a reception and a private dinner, then opened the Blind Workers' Fair, reviewed the Seventy-first Regiment, attended a dinner of the Sixty-ninth Regiment Veterans, and then hurried on to another dinner of the Hungarian Republican Club. It was well after midnight before he rested.

The President arrived here at 5 o'clock, coming from Washington over the Pennsylvania Railroad and disembarking in the Pennsylvania Station at Thirty-second Street and Seventh Avenue. He was accompanied by Major Butt, his military aid, and attended by four Secret Service men. Although it had been known that the President was coming, the hour of his arrival had been uncertain, so there were comparatively few persons awaiting him at the station. These tendered him a cheer, waved their hands, and bowed. The President acknowledged the greetings, but hurried through the station to a waiting automobile, in which he was whisked to the Waldorf-Astoria.

Second Deputy Police Commissioner William J. Flynn, formerly in command of the Secret Service in this district, was waiting at the station with three detectives from Headquarters. There were several army and navy officers present also. They all acted as an escort to the President on the short trip throught the station to his car. There were forty policemen on hand also, but as the crowd was not large they were not needed.

The President's trip to the Waldorf-Astoria was to receive the jeweled badge of the Order of Foreign Wars, to which he recently was elected. The presentation was made in the grand ballroom.

Commander Amory S. Carhart made a short speech, and the President responded briefly. The affair was more of an informal reception, however, than a formal function. There were no other speeches, and after he had expressed his appreciation of and thanks for the honor the President moved about the room shaking hands with the 300-odd guests, among them many military and naval officers.

The reception was short perforce, for the President, before opening the fair of the blind workers in the Metropolitan Opera House, was to dine at the home of Miss Winifred Holt, the friend of the blind, at 44 East Seventy-eighth Street. He arrived there at 6:20 o'clock. The dinner party consisted of twenty-nine persons, among them the following:

Gov. Dix and Mrs. Dix, Henry Holt, Mrs. Philip Lydig, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. Egerton L. Winthrop, Henry W. Taft, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Satterlee, Roland Holt, Mr. and Mrs. R. Fulton Cutting, Miss Robinson Smith, Mr. Hillis, Secretary to the President; Miss T. Fiske Rogers, Commander de Kay, Major Butt, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Warburg, E. E. Allen, Miss Helen Gould, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Richard Irvin, Joseph H. Choate, and Mrs. E. R. Hewitt.

After dinner the President went into the Metropolitan Opera House, where he opened the Blind Workers' Exhibition, the chief object of his visit to town. He spoke to a crowded house on the importance of teaching the blind to live happily and usefully through work, saw blind boys and girls in athletic games, and passed out through a double line of sightless folk, with many of whom he exchanged greetings.

He sped on by automobile to review the Seventy-first Regiment. The armory at Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street was decorated with the National colors and with colors of the regiment which had been carried through various engagements. So great was the crowd that sought this opportunity to see the President that the doors of the armory were closed at 8:30 o'clock. The building was filled to its utmost capacity then.

Pending the arrival of the President a reception and review of veterans of the regiment who fought through the civil war was held. Gen. Edward A. McAlpin, head of the veterans' organization, was absent, however, owing to illness.

The President arrived at the armory at 9:15 o'clock. The regiment was already in formation on the floor. President Taft was escorted to the box reserved for him by Col. W. G. Bates of the Seventy-first Regiment, and his staff, in full dress uniform. In the box was Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Taft, Gen. F. D. Grant, commanding the Department of the East, and his wife; Congressman Herbert Parsons, Rear Admiral Richardson Clover, U. S. N.; Major Butt, and Francis P. Bent.

When the President and his party entered, the spectators, more than 3,000 of them, rose in honor of the Chief Executive's entrance. Mr. Taft recognized the greeting with his accustomed happy smile and sweeping bow. Upon his taking his seat, the regiment was marched before him in company formation, preceded by the band. Then Col. Bates presented to the President a number of friends and many officers of the Seventy-first Regiment in the Colonel's rooms.

Thence the President and his party were driven to the Hotel Astor to the dinner of the Fighting Sixty-ninth. He reached the Astor at 10:02, and every diner of the more than 700 present sprang to his feet when the President, smiling broadly, appeared between Supreme Court Justices McCall, the toastmaster, and Dowling, one of the later speakers. Three cheers were given for "Bill" Taft at the call of a dozen voices in the room, and then Justice McCall said:

"It is the custom in this country wherever American citizens are assembled, no matter what their religious belief, no matter what their political affiliations, to drink first of all a toast, standing, to the President of the United States."

Instantly the diners were again on their feet, the President rising also and bowing right and left while the toast was drunk. The band played the "Star-Spangled Banner," and all, including the President, joined in singing it.

There were many cries of "Bill Taft, you're all right," and when Justice McCall, who was aided by Col. Louis D. Conley of the Sixty-ninth, in active service, in pounding the table, could make himself heard, he said:

"The Chief Executive of the United States needs no introduction." He concluded by bowing to the President, who rose, again drawing a fire of flag salutes and cheers from those in front of him.

The President seemed in the highest spirits. His reception had been as cordial and enthusiastic as even the Irish could

MYSTERY OF NO. 204 TOO MUCH FOR LOEB

Appraisers Also Unable to Explain the Disappearance of a Bale of Tobacco.

NO RECORD OF ITS GOING

Now the Importer Is Told He Must Not Only Stand the Loss, but Pay Duty on It as Well.

In the offices of the Appraisers' warehouse, at Chistopher and Greenwich Streets, as well as in the offices of Collector Loeb himself, "The Mystery of No. 204" has been under discussion, off and on, for several months. It involves circumstances which have never happened before in the history of the United States Customs Service.

"What is your business with the Collector?" was asked of THE TIMES reporter who went yesterday to discover the secret.

"204," he calmly replied.

The man at the door knew what was meant and let the reporter into the inner chamber. There he encountered two assistants to the Collector, who smiled when they heard the request.

"We admit 204 is missing, but that is all that we can tell," said one. "The Collector knows no more about it. It is simply lost, strayed, stolen."

C. A. Oberwager, a lawyer, at 208 Broadway, however told the facts of the mystery. No. 204, he said, was an eighty-three-pound bale of tobacco which, notwithstanding the scrutinizing watch maintained in the Appraisers' warehouse, from which no package of the smallest type can leave without being checked and approved of, was nevertheless carried out. It must have been handled by at least two men and carted away in a truck.

"It's a long time ago," he said, "and I should think they ought to have it solved by this time. But they haven't, and the only thing that we could do, they told us, was to stand the loss and pay the duty on it. Can you beat that for a Government deal? I am going to draft a bill to be introduced into Congress and which will do away with such arbitrary proceedings.

"On Sept. 4 last M. S. Arrue, a tobacco importer of 1 Front Street, received a shipment of six bales of tobacco from Cuba. He paid the duty on all of them, but one was taken to the Appraisers' Stores for examination. That was No. 204. When Mr. Arrue went to get the bale the storekeepers couldn't or wouldn't deliver it. He wrote to Henry M. Clapp, a Special Deputy Appraiser, saying that they would not deliver No. 204 to him at the Appraisers' Stores, and that started the investigation. Mr. Clapp did not reply until May 25, when he referred Mr. Arrue to the Collector of Customs because, he said, his investigation showed that the bale was not received or examined at his office.

"Then Collector Loeb went after the mystery and, in his usual way, he did it thoroughly. He wrote a long letter to Mr. Arrue, dated Feb. 6, 1911, in which he explained everything except the mystery. Parts of this letter read:

> I regret to report that it appears, after a careful investigation of the matter, that this bale disappeared while in the customs custody, but a careful investigation by the Deputy Collector in charge of the Public Stores and a representative of the law division of this office, failed to establish with certainty the responsibility of this loss.
>
> I regret that this office has been unable to entirely stop the robberies in Public Store packages, but every effort is being made to apprehend those concerned therein, and any one caught pilfering the packages in the future will be criminally prosecuted.
> Claims for the value of the bale ($100) and the duty, ($25.24,) as there is no available appropriation from which reimbursement can be made for any goods lost while in customs custody, and as the loss did not occur through casualty, cannot be refunded.

"Notice that he says that theft is not a casualty," the lawyer continued. "We didn't care so much for the loss of the tobacco, but we certainly did feel like protesting the payment of duty on goods which we never got and for which the Government was responsible.

"Consequently I went to Washington and saw James F. Curtis, First Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of the Customs Division. He referred me to Charles B. Montgomery, Chief of the Customs Bureau in Washington.

"My talk with Mr. Montgomery led me to draft a bill which I intend to bring before Congress. Mr. Montgomery told me that his department had often asked Congress for a fund to provide for loss from theft from the Public Stores, but that Congress had every time refused to consider it. He told me that small thefts were not unusual, but that never had he heard of a big bale of tobacco being stolen. He said that he had talked with Mr. Loeb about the 'mystery of 204,' and Mr. Loeb simply could not get it through his head how such a bulky thing as a bale of tobacco could be carried away without anybody seeing it."

Mr. Oberwager said that his bill was already well under way and that it provided for reimbursement from loss by theft, robbery, fire, and destruction by the elements of all merchandise in the Government's care. He said that theft was commonly considered as a casualty in commercial business and should be likewise considered where it concerned the Government.

MORE PAY FOR MILITIA.

Bill Drafted to Make National Guard as Efficient as Regular Army.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—After the recent meeting here of leading members of the National Guard Association for the purpose of furthering the Federal Pay bill, a committee of the association and representatives of the War Department have reached an agreement on a revised form of Federal Pay bill for the organized militia of the country. It is expected that this bill will soon be introduced in both houses of Congress.

The purpose of the proposed legislation is to raise the National Guard to the regular army standard of efficiency and to pay officers and men a certain percentage of the regular army pay for attendance at drills.

CORPORATION TO RUN CO-OPERATIVE STORES

Formed with $1,000,000 Capital, and Seven Thousand Merchants Are to be in It.

GOODS TO BE SOLD CHEAPLY

And Customers Will Get a Pro Rata Share of Profits in the Shape of Dividends—Patterned on English System.

A million-dollar co-operative society incorporated under the laws of New York and to be known as the United Stores Association was organized yesterday in offices in the Stiner Building, Broadway and Thirty-first Street. Three hundred agents sent out among the New York merchants immediately, it was said, reported last night that the plan of taking one out of every nine merchants in the city into the association was meeting with favor. The Directors' prospectus calls for a membership of 7,000 associate dealers, representing all the trades and every known article included in the necessaries of life.

Thomas J. Foster was elected President of the association, P. F. Egan, ex-Minister to Chili, Vice President; Walter S. Pope, Treasurer; Charles D. Reohr, Secretary and Assistant General Manager, and C. M. Wessels, General Manager. Others of the Directorate are Roland Onffroy, an ex-member of the Chambers of Commerce of San Francisco and Seattle, who was made Chairman of the Executive Committee; C. Paul Hagenlocker, who was made Chairman of the Finance Committee; E. F. Olmsted, formerly Manager of a cereal company, Publicity Director; George W. B. Fletcher of Philadelphia, and G. W. Kenyon.

On the windows of the newly organized company and over the doors are painted in striking colors the letters U. S. A. All day yesterday the officers of the organization were annoyed by troops of young men who entered and said that they wanted to join the army, thinking that the signs displayed the presence of a newly opened recruiting office of the United States Army.

The object of the "people's trust," as it is called, is to enable about 7,000 responsible retailers in New York to buy together, advertise together, deliver together, with a view of reducing the cost of doing business, and then giving to purchasing members a share of the dividends, payable annually, and based on the amount of their purchases. The plan is based on the English co-operating scheme, but is different in so far as the purchasing members in the American scheme do not become stockholders, simply participators in the profits to the amount of their purchases. They will be charged a nominal fee of $2 to become members of the organization. It is the first time real co-operation has been attempted in this country on an extensive scale.

Besides the dividend, each associate is to receive the benefit of an accident insurance policy, adaptable especially to the needs of the poorer classes; a monthly magazine, devoted exclusively to the interests of the association and its members and a free bureau of information and employment, maintained for the benefit of the members.

Out of the 750,000 families in New York the association hopes to enroll at least 300,000, each spending an average of $400 a year in the store of the association. On this estimate the association, declaring a 6 per cent. dividend, would pay out annually to its members $7,200,000. The statistics of the more developed English system last year showed that $800,000,000 worth of business had been done, and that $84,000,000 had been returned to the people in cash, and the estimate, in view of the success of the plan abroad, is not considered excessive.

An official of the new corporation said last night that he believed that this movement was the only logical method of reducing the cost of living. "The purchaser," he said, "not only will get the necessaries of life, including articles of seventeen different lines of trade, such as groceries, hardware, meats, milk, confectionery, hardware, dry goods, drugs, clothing, &c., at the lowest possible price, but he will get an additional cash dividend of about 6 per cent. on everything he buys.

"Naturally we will be able to buy in extremely large quantities and distribute our goods without the services of the jobber or middle man and save much money thereby, the responsible store which wants to join our association will sign a contract with us, handling our goods and conducting its stores as it sees fit, subject to fixed requirements.

"To illustrate how the scheme works in a struggling family let us take for example, a family living on $12 a week. A yearly income of $624 really means, after deducting 25 per cent., of $156, for rent and other unavoidable expenses, a net income of $468 for food, clothing, furniture, household, health, and other necessaries. Of this $468 60 per cent. goes for food; the balance of 40 per cent., or $188, goes for other necessaries.

"Now, let this wage earner become an associate purchaser of the United Stores Association and he will receive an average cash dividend of 6 per cent., or $28.08, on his $468 of family expenses. This alone will pay for all the clothing of the father and one boy, or all the clothing of the mother and two girls. Or it will provide for the wage earner and his whole family two weeks' rest or vacation that his present income never permitted him to enjoy."

The organization is not to be confined to New York, it was said last night. In every large city, and eventually in all the smaller cities, the association intends to introduce the co-operative system. The entire fourth foor of the Stiner Building has been engaged for the business of the corporation and is equipped with club rooms in which it is intended to bring together representatievs of all the merchants in the association from time to time.

MILL HANDS IN A RIOT.

Strikers at Norwich Attack Police and Several Arrests Are Made.

Special to The New York Times.

NORWICH, Conn., April 26.—Riotous conditions prevailed to-day at the Norwich Cotton Mills. The strike began on Monday. Yesterday 200 weavers went out in sympathy.

When an effort was made this morning to hitch up the company's teams, the strikers made a demonstration. Efforts were made by the strikers to unhitch the horses.

The gate was opened at noon for employes to enter, and the strikers made a rush and began to throw stones. Policeman Driscoll was knocked down. He immediately opened fire with his revolver. Policeman Brock was struck with a flying brick, and Policeman Keenan was crippled by a stone. Officer Brock had a hand-to-hand scuffle with several women.

More policemen were sent to the mill. When prisoners were handcuffed the women and men strikers attacked the officers and tried to rescue the men under arrest. Capt. Linton and a number of officers went to the scene in automobiles and ordered the strikers to return to their homes. Several were taken to Police Headquarters, and will be given a hearing in the City Court to-morrow morning.

NO VIVISECTION INQUIRY.

Bill Providing for Commission to Investigate Is Rejected by Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 26.—The Bayne bill providing for a commission to investigate the practice of vivisection was beaten in the Senate to-day by a vote of 34 to 11. Senator Bayne, who made the only speech advocating its passage, cited examples of alleged cruelty, and said that while he did not know of any such instances in this State he thought the practice of vivisection should be regulated and supervised.

Senators Roosevelt and Brackett opposed the bill, the latter chiefly because it might interfere with the work now being done by Dr. Simon Flexner at the Rockefeller Institute.

BRAZILIAN TREASURE QUEST.

Government Expedition Sails for the Island of Trinidade.

RIO JANEIRO, April 26.—A Brazilian party composed of scientists, Government officials, and laborers, numbering in all thirty persons, sailed to-day on board the Brazilian Lloyd steamer Ypiranga to search for treasure in the Brazilian Island of Trinidade.

The expedition is making the trip to the island, which lies in the Atlantic to the east of the mainland, owing to information in Government documents.

FATALLY BURNED IN BATH.

Wealthy Woman, Clothing Afire, Fails to Lie Down in Tub.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 26.—Mrs. W. O. Gibson, wealthy and at one time a belle of St. Louis, is dying of burns she suffered in her home this afternoon. Her dress ignited from a gas stove. She rushed to the bathroom and turned on the water in the bathtub and stood ankle deep, screaming, devoid of sufficient presence of mind to prompt her to lie down in the tub.

Servants, attracted by her cries, threw blankets around her, but not until every shred of clothing had been reduced to ashes.

Mrs. Gibson, a half century ago, was a leader in the younger set of St. Louis. Of late she had led the life of a recluse. She is 77 years old. She lived with her son and a housekeeper.

TO PASS ON AMERICAN PLAN.

Asia Minor Railway Project to be Submitted to Turkish Parliament.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 26. — The Grand Vizier informed the Chamber of Deputies to-day that the American railroad project would be submitted to that body next week.

It was recently officially admitted in St. Petersburg that Russia was opposed to the American railway scheme in Asia Minor, on the ostensible ground that it would bring an entirely new factor on the scene in a quarter where there were already various opposing interests.

Apparently, however, Russia afterward withdrew her objection, for it is now understood that all opposition to the scheme, either on the part of Turkey or of other powers, had ceased.

The negotiations regarding the proposed concession have occupied a considerable time. It is believed that a request for early action has been made to the Turkish Government by the American Embassy.

ROBBERS BIND 9 PERSONS.

Daylight Attack in Chicago Jewelry Shop Brings Thieves $37,000.

CHICAGO, April 26.—Four armed robbers entered the jewelry shop of Edward Alberti in Milwaukee Avenue, in the northwest business quarter of this city, to-day and forced Alberti and his clerks into a back room and took diamonds and watches valued at $37,000. The robbers remained in the place a quarter of an hour, then entered an automobile, and escaped just as a patrol wagon full of policemen, summoned by passersby, drove up.

Visitors, including customers and Norman Strauss, a jewelry salesman, who entered the shop while the robbers were at work were ordered into the back room at the point of a pistol, robbed, and tied up with Alberti and the clerks. Strauss's sample case was rifled. In all nine persons were tied in the room when the police arrived.

The car in which the robbers traveled had been stolen by them in a distant part of the city a short time previously.

VILLA FOR WESTINGHOUSE, JR.

Young Man Rewarded by Mother for Success in His Father's Plant.

LENOX, Mass., April 26.—Mrs. George Westinghouse has bought a tract of sixty acres adjoining her home, Erskine Park, whereon she is to build a villa for her son, George Westinghouse, Jr., to cost $200,000.

When young Mr. Westinghouse was graduated from Yale in 1906 his mother promised to make him a handsome gift at the end of five years if he was successful in business. He entered the works of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company in Pittsburg in overalls and jumper, and has applied himself diligently to the work and has risen rapidly. The villa to be built this year is the fulfillment of his mother's promise.

Young Mr. Westinghouse was at Erskine Park a few days ago, and marked out the site of the villa on a hill overlooking a dozen of the great estates of the Berkshires. The sixty-acre tract that Mrs. Westinghouse has just purchased is mostly pasture land, but it cost her $60,000. Work will begin within a few days on a handsome structure of granite and marble. Young Westinghouse will furnish his own ideas to the architects, and has also devised a very elaborate plan for laying out the grounds.

HONEST PULLMAN PORTER.

Rings Worth $2,000 Will Be Returned to Miss Shotter of Savannah.

On her arrival at the St. Regis yesterday afternoon Miss M. L. Shotter of Savannah discovered that she had left three diamond rings, said to be worth nearly $2,000, in a Pullman car in which she had traveled over the Atlantic Coast Line from Savannah. She remembered having placed them on the ledge of the window near which she was sitting. She informed the room clerk of the St. Regis who was on duty, and he immediately called up the railroad company.

On her return from the theatre last night Miss Shotter was told that the porter of the Pullman car had found the rings and that she would receive them today at the hotel.

R. L. Burton, a banker, staying at the St. Regis, left his black pearl pin, valued at over $1,000, in his room yesterday. He missed it when he started down Fifth Avenue and went back post haste to the hotel. When the clerk telephoned up to the maid on the floor on which is Mr. Burton's room and asked if she had found the pin she replied:

"Yes, I found a little black stickpin. I thought it was one of them toy pins ye find in bonbons at Christmas time and was going to throw it away."

FLYNN HAS QUIT HIS POLICE JOB

Second Deputy Commissioner, Said to be Tired of Interference, Has Resigned Office.

WILL STAY ON UNTIL MAY 1

Then Will Go Back to Federal Service, from Which the Mayor Took Him.

RESIGNED TEN DAYS AGO.

Long Said to Have Been Disgusted with Course of Affairs in the Department—His Success There.

Second Deputy Police Commissioner William J. Flynn, formerly head of the United States Secret Service in this district, has resigned his post in the Police Department. As soon as his resignation has been accepted by Mayor Gaynor he will return to his former work for the Federal Government. Mr. Flynn admitted this much last night, but declined absolutely to state the reasons for his resignation, when a TIMES reporter asked him about it.

"I can simply tell you," said Mr. Flynn, "that my resignation has been in the hands of Mayor Gaynor for the last ten days and I am waiting only for him to accept it to leave the Police Department. I expect that Mayor Gaynor will act favorably in this matter in time for me to leave the department by May 1. That is the date on which I now expect to leave the city's service."

Why Mr. Flynn, who has done yeoman service in clearing gamblers out of the city, should wish to abandon the work was a topic for discussion at Police Headquarters last night. One explanation for his resignation which was much discussed was that Mayor Gaynor had only "borrowed" Mr. Flynn from the Federal service, so to speak, and that the time had come now when he must be returned.

Why the time for Flynn's return should be fixed as May 1, however, none was able to tell. It was recalled that only a day or two ago Mr. Flynn had had himself appointed a probation officer in order thus to handle the gambling situation by having gamblers who pleaded guilty put under his charge.

Although much work has been done along this line, the gambling situation in the city is by no means cleared up, and there was none at Police Headquarters last night who could explain Mr. Flynn's desire, in view of these facts, to sever his connection with the police force.

The one explanation accepted as being possibly sound was that Mr. Flynn felt that he had not the fullest authority that he might desire, and that his work was being interfered with by the actions of his superiors.

Commissioner Cropsey, of course, is the only police official having authority in excess of that of Mr. Flynn. It was intimated freely at Headquarters that the couple had not got along any too well in the months during which they have been closely associated.

It was recalled by those who mentioned this much-discussed friction between the police officials that when Flynn came to the department it was as a detective pure and simple, to take charge of the Detective Bureau, and to devote the talents that had earned him fame and reputation in the Federal service to the suppression and detection of crime here.

At that time the so-called Vice Squad was under command of Deputy Commissioner Clement J. Driscoll, and Mr. Flynn was left free to care for the work of the Detective Bureau. It was not long, however, before Mr. Driscoll was removed from command of the Vice Squad, and it has since been in charge of Mr. Flynn.

Such work as spying out pool rooms and gambling houses and then descending on them as soldiers might on a fort is something that Mr. Flynn never was called upon to do in the Federal service and something, it was said, which the Commissioner did not especially wish to do.

Whether it may be dissatisfaction with these conditions that caused Mr. Flynn's resignation may never be known. He himself declines to talk and he has forbidden his friends to speak for him.

One fact was recalled, however, by old-timers at Police Headquarters last night: it was that Commissioner Driscoll lost command of his Vice Squad soon after a raid on the Hesper Club, the Sullivan stronghold in Second Avenue and the biggest bookmakers' club in the city.

Those who recalled this, called attention to the recent raid by Mr. Flynn when he practically tore the club apart to gain entrance and then arrested several men found inside, charging that the place was a gambling house.

Flynn's Detective Record.

Mr. Flynn was appointed Second Deputy Police Commissioner and Chief of the Detective Bureau on Oct. 30, 1910. Since that time Mr. Flynn has been recognized as a competent police official, and has demonstrated his ability to cope successfully with the Italian criminals of the city. He was the first New York detective to catch a kidnapped child in the possession of the kidnappers. This was in the case of the Longo and Rizzio boys who were stolen in Brooklyn. He also cleared up the murder by express strike sympathizers of the young civil engineer W. C. Warner.

Mr. Flynn's relations with the present Police Commissioner have not been pleasant. The Mayor had occasion to summon both of them to his office and to define their respective duties. Mr. Flynn won out and Mr. Cropsey was informed that Mr. Flynn was to have entire charge of the Detective Bureau.

Mr. Flynn was in the United States Secret Service for thirteen years and the head of the New York division of it for the last eleven years. In that time he made an enviable record for himself. He was born on Manhattan Island, has a wife and six children, and is about 43 years old.

MAYOR RIDICULES CRIME TALK.

Defends His Police Policy to Grand Jury—Says Graft Is About Ended.

Mayor Gaynor was a voluntary witness for more than an hour yesterday before the Grand Jury, which is investigating vice and police conditions. He ridiculed the idea that there is a "crime wave," or that the police force is demoralized. He made a strong defense of his administration, so far as the police force is concerned, and urged that in many ways he had brought the department to a higher state of efficiency than it had had in many years.

The Mayor arrived at the Criminal Court Building about 3 P. M. in company with George Gordon Battle, who has been retained by the District Attorney as a special prosecutor, and who went to the City Hall to meet him. They were met at the entrance to the Grand Jury room by District Attorney Whitman, who shook hands cordially.

"We are having some distinguished visitors these days," the District Attorney remarked. "Yesterday it was Andrew Carnegie, and to-day it is the Mayor of New York."

"Yes," replied the Mayor dryly, "I read in the newspapers what Mr. Carnegie testified about before the Grand Jury."

What the Mayor told the Grand Jury was reported afterward to be in substance his public utterances on police matters. Some people were trying to run the Mayor, but they hadn't been able to do it. The Mayor had already done some heavy work in connection with the Police Department, but he had had to do it slowly. Many good results had already been accomplished. He ought to receive congratulations for what had already been done instead of carping criticism. He had gone about the work of reforming the department in a systematic way and considered that a very fair start had been made.

The most striking reform was the matter of eliminating graft from the department. The Mayor felt sure that there was little gambling going on, and that the present crusade on the gamblers' will result in closing up every gambling resort in the city. Regarding excise conditions, they were never better. There are fewer violations of the excise law at the present time, he thought, that at any time within his recollection. In those cases where violations do occur and the police do not make arrests he thought it was due more to the weakness of human nature than to graft.

The city is not experiencing a crime wave, is reported to have been the Mayor's contention. Rather there is a marked absence of crime. It was a matter for congratulation that there had been a decided return to conditions where personal liberty was being guaranteed. This was what the law originally intended. The police have been made to feel that they are the servants rather than the masters. Protection of personal liberty was the first and most important part of police duty, in the Mayor's opinion.

According to report, the Mayor went into particulars regarding his plan of stripping special policemen of authority, explaining that he had taken this course because of many complaints that special policemen were using authority to graft and assault people. Deputy Commissioner Driscoll has been reported as saying that special policemen were withdrawn everywhere except from the Interborough and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit companies. The Mayor denied that such was the case.

The Mayor was asked why Police Commissioner Cropsey had delayed handing down a decision in the case of Inspector John J. O'Brien, who was tried for failing to clean up Coney Island last Summer. He replied that the O'Brien case was purely a departmental matter, and that he knew nothing whatever about it.

The Mayor was examined for the most part by District Attorney Whitman himself. There was a report that the Mayor and the District Attorney had had a tilt over the testimony taken before the Grand Jury being made public. The District Attorney issued this statement:

"I see that the evening newspapers report that a clash occurred between the Mayor and myself immediately preceding his appearance before the Grand Jury this afternoon. The story is entirely without foundation. There was not even a suggestion of any acrimony in the brief conversation I had with him. In fact, quite the contrary was true. His attitude was never more cordial. There was no unpleasantness in the course of his examination, in which he was shown the respect and courtesy due to him and his position. I am sure that the Mayor and Mr. Battle, who was with us at all times, will agree that nothing took place to warrant such a publication."

Other witnesses before the Grand Jury were former Police Commissioner William F. Baker. Inspector Russell of the Detective Bureau, and Samuel Meyers, proprietor of the Madrid Café at Broadway and Forty-sixth Street.

That gamblers are thoroughly frightened and are not willing to take any chances of going to prison when they can take advantage of the proposal made by Judge Rosalsky to plead guilty and be paroled in the custody of Deputy Commissioner Flynn was evidenced again yesterday, when George A. Noyes, alias Lachman, whose trial was scheduled to begin to-day, pleaded guilty and got off with a suspended sentence. Two days had been spent in getting a jury, and it was expected that he would fight the case to the end. Not until Noyes stepped to the bar to plead was it known that he was once a prosperous broker and a member of the New York Consolidated Exchange. His counsel, Terence McManus, in asking for mercy, stated that the prisoner had met with financial reverses four years ago and had to give up his business.

When this case was disposed of the trial of Harry Burgess, who was arrested in a raid on an alleged gambling house at 1,542 Broadway, was ordered. William H. Houghton, a detective employed by Deputy Commissioner Flynn as a special investigator, was the first and most important witness. He testified that he was in the place that was raided and saw Burgess standing in front of a crap table with a rake. A large green cloth which, the witness said, covered the crap table, was shown to the jury. Houghton, it developed, had marked this cloth with an indelible pencil so that he could identify it again. Houghton described to the jury in detail the method of crap playing. Assistant District Attorney Buckner asked Houghton to roll the dice and show the jury how it was done.

"I object to the witness exhibiting to the jury his qualifications as a crap player on the ground that he has not shown himself to be an expert," said the prisoner's attorney.

"Why," said Judge Rosalsky, "he testified that he has played fifty times."

"Well," replied the lawyer, "I may have played a hundred times, and I am not an expert."

TO HELP STEEL WORKERS.

Welfare Committee Named After Judg Gary's Luncheon.

Members of the American Iron and Steel Institute, after a luncheon at the Railroad Club yesterday as the guests of Judge Elbert H. Gary, appointed a committee to investigate living conditions among the steel workers. Judge Gary said after the luncheon that the matter of steel prices had not come up, and that the institute members had confined their talk almost entirely to "welfare problems."

The Committee on "Welfare," which was appointed temporarily until a permanent committee can be chosen, consists of W. B. Schillar, President of the National Fruit Company of Pittsburg; E. A. S. Clarke, President of the Lackawanna Steel Company; J. A. Topping, Chairman of the Republic Iron and Steel Company; Charles M. Schwab, President of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and Judge Gary.

The discussion after the luncheon concerned itself chiefly with ways and means of permitting an eight-hour day in every branch of the steel industry. One of the paramount difficulties in allowing it has been the length of time required to complete certain processes in steel making. It has always been considered necessary that the workmen engaged in these processes should see them through from beginning to end. Another problem which the committee will take up will be the working out of a six-day week for steel workers, making a weekly day off possible for every grade of workmen in the industry.

The meeting of the Institute brought together representatives of every important steel making concern in the country.

MEXICAN CONGRESS BEGINS GRAFT HUNT

Committees Ask About Padded Educational Pay Rolls and Disposal of Military Funds.

PRESS GETS RECOGNITION

De la Barra Speaks to Its Representatives—Asks Denunciation of Killing of Spaniards—Hopes for Peace.

By STEPHEN BONSAL,
Special Correspondent of The New York Times.

Copyright, 1911, by The New York Times Co.

MEXICO CITY, April 26.—All departments of the Government are marking time to-day, with the exception of the legislative branch, whose committees are everywhere and all pervasive.

The Committee on Educational Matters is conferring with Señor Vera Estanol, the new Minister of Education. It is alleged that the new Minister found a few hours after his induction into office that one-half of the school teachers on the Federal district's payroll have no corporal existence.

Another committee was with Minister Cosio at the War Office to-day asking questions in regard to the deficiencies in the Federal army organization, revealed by the recent operations.

While I applauded the awakening of the Deputies yesterday, to-day I suffered from it. When the hour came for my appointment with Minister Limantour, a committee of Congress filed in wanting to talk finance, and Señor Limantour said to me: "A new era Congress will have to take precedence over the foreign press." So I cannot give you the benefit of the Finance Minister's impressions to-day.

Protest Sent to London.

Official announcement was made this afternoon of the fact sent by me to THE NEW YORK TIMES several days ago that Mexico had protested in a formal but friendly way against the landing of British marines at San Quintin, Lower California. This and the atrocious murder of six Spaniards by rebels in the State of Puebla are sensations enough for one day. The streets are delirious with newsboys shouting extras and extraordinarios.

In default of official announcements, those who like to prophesy and have done so with some success recently say that Leredo or Nuevo Laredo, across the Rio Grande, is to be the scene of the peace negotiations with the revolutionists, and that Ministers Limantour and de la Barra and Gov. Dehesa of Vera Cruz, who was candidate for Vice President with Madero, are to represent President Diaz, with the further touch at that last moment that Señor Limantour will send a substitute and remain in the capital with the President.

Minister Addresses the Press.

Señor de la Barra received a large number of representatives of the Mexican press this evening in the reception hall of the Foreign Office. It was the beginning of a policy which he announced in Congress that the Government intended to pursue to get in closer touch with the press, and, by its aid, with the people.

He began a remarkably impressive speech by denouncing the murderers of the six Spaniards and ranchmen in the State of Puebla, a horrible occurrence, which became known here this afternoon. He stated that an hour before he had informed the Spanish Minister that whatever could be done would be; that the Government would make what amends lay in its power. He called upon his listeners to forget all differences and to denounce the perpetrators of these atrocious crimes.

"These civil war times," he said, "are sad enough and must necessarily be so; but the innocent foreigners and their families should not be drawn into our quarrels and should not suffer for our wrongs."

Unless the nation as one man and the press as one paper denounced the crime that had been done by bandits in the name of liberty, he declared, irreparable damage would be done to the reputation and standing of Mexicans as a cultured people.

Greater Hope of Peace.

The Minister's speech was vibrant with emotion and made a great impression upon all his hearers.

In regard to the peace negotiations he went on to say that the armistice had been renewed for five days, and before the expiration of that time, he hoped to announce the basic principles upon which definitive negotiations would be continued. He hoped to-morrow or next day to announce the names of the Federal Commissioners and the place of meeting.

He confessed to a feeling of growing optimism. The Government, from the President down, he assured his hearers, was willing to make any personal sacrifice, if such it could be called, to save the country from fratricidal strife. In the last few hours he had begun to think, and believed, not without reason, that Señor Madero and his friends were animated by the same spirit. If the event proved this to be the case, all would be well and the clouds which were still hanging over the horizon, though not nearly of such sombre hues as they were ten days ago, would quickly and entirely vanish.

PROTEST SENT TO LONDON.

Naval Commander Declared to Have Interfered in Mexican Affairs.

LONDON, April 26.—The Mexican Government has communicated to the British Foreign Office a formal protest against the action of Capt. Vivian of the British sloop Shearwater in landing marines at San Quintin, Lower California, which action is described as an interference in the internal affairs of Mexico.

Announcement to this effect was made in a very brief dispatch received at the Foreign Office to-day from T. B. Hohler, British Chargé d'Affaires at Mexico City since the departure of Minister Tower. Mr. Hohler stated that the text of the protest was going forward by mail, and no action in the matter will be taken here pending the receipt of the text and also the explanation of Capt. Vivian, which he has mailed to London.

MEXICO CITY, April 26.—Mexico does not anticipate any unpleasantness as a result of the note sent by the foreign office to Great Britain regarding the Shearwater incident. Señor de la Barra says that the note was couched in cordial and friendly terms, and while a protest was made and the rights of Mexico were maintained, "It was done in such a manner as to show the consideration this Government wishes always to have for the British Government, and in accordance with the existing friendly and cordial relations."

It is expected that the incident will be satisfactorily explained by Great Britain.

Capt. Vivian of the Shearwater on April 11 landed thirty men and a Maxim gun at San Quintin to protect that town from what was represented to be a threatened attack by Mexican insurgents. The revolutionary movement did not materialize and the marines with their guns were withdrawn. This was the first actual landing of foreign forces on Mexican soil in connection with the present rebellion.

Capt. Vivian has been quoted as saying that he acted upon the written request of two Mexican Government officers, who said their lives were in danger. This request, he added, was supplemented by a similar appeal for the protection of their property by two British residents and one American.

REBELS KILL SIX SPANIARDS.

Charge That Information of Their Whereabouts Was Given to Federals.

MEXICO CITY, April 26.—Six Spaniards were shot and killed on Monday at the Hacienda Atencingo, in the State of Puebla, by a small band of rebels following their refusal to contribute 5,000 pesos to the insurgent cause. Atencingo is the hacienda where the rebels some days ago secured a quantity of rifles, considerable ammunition, and 25,000 pesos. On account of that loss the owner of the hacienda, Angel Diaz Rubin, a Spaniard, announced his intention of demanding indemnity.

The band of rebels on Monday entered a house where nine employes were assembled. The rebels demanded money and were refused. They then attacked the Spaniards with machetes and drove them from the house, crying out, "Run, for we are going to shoot you!" As they ran six of the Spaniards dropped with bullets in their bodies.

The reason assigned by the rebels for the onslaught is that a Spaniard gave information of their whereabouts to the authorities, who had been hard pressing them.

The news of the shooting was received here this morning and immediately the Spanish Minister called at the Foreign Office.

STORS SAN ANTONIO FLIGHTS.

Order from Washington Regarding the Proposed Aeroplane Tests.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 26.—Lieut. Benjamin D. Foulers of the Signal Corps and Frank T. Coffyn, the Wright aviator, after making a splendid endurance flight in the rain lasting one hour and thirty-eight minutes, were preparing this afternoon for the ammunition-carrying flight to Leon Springs when an order came calling the flight off. There was a meeting of the board in charge of the aeroplane tests this morning and it was supposed when the board adjurned that all the tests, including the proposed flight to Galveston, would be made. I tis known that the Wright brothers were willing to make any and all of the tests and had furthermore agreed to carry a military passenger on the flights.

The order making unnecessary the tests prescribed by Major George O. Squire of the Signal Corps and his assistants came from Washington. Immediately after its receipt Major Squire called the board together and later it became known that future tests were off. The understanding to-night is that the Wright and Curtiss machines will be accepted by the Government despite the fact that only one, that of the Wrights, has been officially tested.

At 9:30 this morning the big Wright machine was rolled out of the hangar, and Coffyn and Foulers announced that they were ready despite the fact that rain was falling and the machine had to ascend from a field on which the mud was over a foot deep. The machine worked perfectly, and when it descended there was still gasoline enough to have kept it in the air, going full speed, for about an hour and a half more.

No effort was made by Ely, the Curtiss airman, to make an endurance test this morning. After the decision to discontinue the tests was made he decided to go into the air for an unofficial flight. He started at 4:30 P. M., at which time the skies had cleared, and remained in the air 33 minutes.

BATTLE IN SINALOA STATE.

Eighty Wounded Reported to Have Been Taken to the City of Mazatlan.

NOGALES, Mexico, April 26.—It is reported that a battle of serious proportions between the Mexican Federals and the insurgents has been fought near Mazatlan, the port on the Pacific Coast, in the State of Sinaloa.

WASHINGTON, April 26. — Several American citizens, it is reported, have been attacked by revolutionary bandits twenty-five miles from Durango, Mexico, and were believed to be in danger to-day, according to a report received by the State Department from Consul Freeman at Durango. Mounted Mexican soldiers were dispatched to their rescue.

The department also was advised that the Americans, including several women and children, who had been held prisoners at Alamo, are now free to leave that town, the insurrectos having deserted the place. All the Americans are unharmed.

Sporadic outbreaks in the States of Campeche, Sinaloa, Durango, and Mexico, (near the town of Chalco,) and in the City of Puebla were reported to the department. The news of the armistice, it is believed here, has not yet reached these places.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., April 26.—Twenty-six Mexican Federal soldiers, wounded at the battle of Agua Prieta, were placed in a special car attached to the regular train for Hermosillo, capital of Sonora, Mexico, to-day.

Permission had been obtained from the State Department at Washington.

MEXICO CITY, April 26.—Despite the armistice in the north there is continued activity among the revolutionists in South and Central Mexico. A great increase in the movement is reported in the State of Guanajuato, where the rebel forces hold the Hacienda Solima, only fifteen miles from the State capital. In the State of Mexico itself there is increasing trouble, for bands of insurrectos yesterday occupied the towns of Chalma and Malinaco. Acatlan, a county seat and important commercial centre in the southern part of the State of Puebla, is also held by them despite efforts to drive them out. Gen. Victorinax Huerto has been ordered to the State of Guerrero with 500 men, infantry and artillery, to open a vigorous campaign against the rebels.

ALARMED BY REYES'S RETURN.

Insurrectos Fear That It May Prejudice the Negotiations.

EL PASO, April 26.—Francisco I. Madero, Jr., the Mexican insurrecto leader, to-day reiterated his expressed willingness to extend the existing armistice when it expires on Friday if peace negotiations appear to be under way.

Madero, discussing peace prospects at his hotel in Juarez, also stated that railroads leading south out of Juarez would not be repaired pending the conclusion of the armistice unless they were in the hands of the insurrectos.

The repairing of the road between Juarez and Chihuahua in particular, he said, would afford a means of bringing Federal reinforcements to Juarez if the peace negotiations should fail. He is willing, however, that repairs be made to the track of the Mexico Northwestern Railroad, which is being operated by the insurrectos to a point within twelve miles of Juarez.

It developed to-day that peace negotiations are proceeding by telegraph between Madero's camp and the City of Mexico in order to leave for the Commissioners little but technical work, and that the revolutionists' view with some alarm the announcement that Gen. Bernardo Reyes is to return from Paris.

M'NAMARA HAD RIGHT TO TRIAL IN INDIANA

Prosecutor Baker Cites State Law Forbidding a Citizen's Removal in Such a Case.

TO PUSH KIDNAPPING CASES

Declares Governor Acted Properly, but After That Proceedings Were Illegal —Burns Refuses to Testify.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 26.—Impressions that the kidnapping charges brought against the men involved in the removal of John J. McNamara from this city to Los Angeles were not really serious are not borne out by developments of to-day. Prosecuting Attorney Frank P. Baker and other lawyers declared that the Indiana law plainly made illegal the proceedings to take McNamara away to answer charges of complicity in the blowing up of The Los Angeles Times. He indicated that he would press for indictments against William J. Burns, the detective; Walter Drew, of counsel for the National Erectors' Association, and W. J. Ford and J. A. G. Badorf of Los Angeles, who were held in heavy bail yesterday. It is also possible that Police Judge James A. Collins, who delivered McNamara into the hands of Burns's men, will be involved.

It was said to-night that at least two members of the Grand Jury would stand out against indicting the men, but labor leaders declared that if no indictments were brought they would file information in the criminal courts and force trials.

Mr. Baker and others to-day cited the various sections of the law bearing on the case. The statute under which John J. Keegan, in behalf of the labor leader, filed the affidavits against Burns, Drew, Ford, Badorf, Frank P. Cox, and several John Does is Section 2,247 of Burns's Revised Statutes of Indiana, 1908, which reads:

> Whoever kidnaps or forcibly or fraudulently carries off, or decoys from any place within this State, or arrests or imprisons any person, with the intention of having such person carried away from any place within this State, unless it be in pursuance of the laws of this State, or of the United States, is guilty of kidnapping, and, on conviction, shall be fined not less than $100 nor more than $5,000 and be imprisoned in the State prison not less than two years or more than fourteen years.

Judge Had No Rights in Case.

The theory of the prosecution is that the taking away of McNamara was not in pursuance of the laws of Indiana, or the United States, because the law governing extradition was grossly violated. Mr. Baker does not question the action of Gov. Marshall in honoring the requisition from California, but says the proceedings from that time on were wholly illegal.

In the first place, he says, when McNamara was taken before Judge Collins for a hearing on the question of identity it was the duty of Judge Collins to notify the Prosecuting Attorney before proceeding with the case. The section of the law governing such matter, he declares, was passed by the last Legislature, amending an act of 1905. It contains this provision:

> It shall be the duty of such Justice and and City Judge to give the defendant an opportunity and time to employ counsel, if he so desires, and the Justice shall also notify the Prosecuting Attorney or his deputy of the proceeding, if either of them is present within the county, giving them an opportunity to be present.

Mr. Baker says neither he nor his deputy was informed by Judge Collins of the proceedings. Further he holds that Judge Collins had no jurisdiction in the matter. Section 1,893 of Burns's Revised Statutes says that in extradition cases the Sheriff or constable making the arrest shall take the fugitive before the Circuit, Superior, or Criminal Court Judge of the State nearest and most convenient of access to the place where the arrest was made. Nothing in it gives authority to a City Judge.

Should Be Tried in Indiana.

Mr. Baker also declares that the law was specifically violated in removing McNamara to Los Angeles for trial, as the charges of complicity in the Los Angeles dynamiting case should have been brought here. He cited Section 1,882 of Burns's Revised Statutes on this point. It reads:

> Whoever with firearms, or by sending poison or other thing or by other means kills or injures any person in another county, State, town, territory, or country, or whoever gives a mortal blow or wound to any person who dies in another county, State, territory, or country, shall be tried and punished in the county where the offender was at the time the poison or other thing was sent or the force was used or the wound or injury was inflicted.

In the law governing extradition is found Section 1,809, which bears on this point. It says:

> No citizen or resident of this State shall be surrendered under pretense of being a fugitive from justice from any other State or Territory, whee it shall be clealy made to appear to the court or Judge holding such examination that such a citizen or inhabitant was in this State at the time of the alleged commission of he offense, and not in the State or Territory from which he is pretended to have fled—and in such case the court or Judge holding such examination shall discharge the person arrested and forthwith report the facts to the Governor.

"Under Section 1,882," said Mr. Baker, "McNamara should have been tried here, because it is well known he was in this city at the time of the Los Angeles explosion, and that he was not in California. Therefore he should not have been extradited at all."

It is known that detectives tried to find evidence here that McNamara was out of Indianapolis at the time of the dynamiting at Los Angeles. They even looked into the date on which he took a fishing trip, but found it did not correspond with the date of the explosion.

In his defense it is understood that Mr. Burns will take the position that he did not know Judge Collins had no jurisdiction to hear the extradition proceedings; that he had no means of knowing the limitations on the jurisdiction of the court, and that when the court assumed jurisdiction and ordered McNamara to be turned over to the California agent he believed it was acting in a legal manner.

In the case of Frank P. Fox, the automobile man, who drove the machine in which McNamara was whirled out of the State, the defense will be that he was a common carrier, and that he was in the same position as a railroad company. A. G. Cavings, his attorney, says Fox did not know who his passengers were, and had no knowledge of any of the circumstances surrounding the case until his return home the next day.

Burns Declines to Testify.

With W. A. Ketcham, his attorney, Detective Burns appeared in the Grand Jury witness room, a few minutes after 9 o'clock to-day, in answer to a summons to testify in the investigation of dynamiting outrages. The attorney explained to Edward H. Davis, the foreman, that Mr. Burns had been bound over to the Grand Jury on the charge of kidnapping and would not testify. Prosecutor Baker told Mr. Burns he did not care to have him examined now.

"I believe the Grand Jury is going at the matter a little hastily," said Mr. Baker. "Possibly they believe that because I was in a hurry to get the books and records over from the basement of the American Central Life building, I was in a hurry to have the men examined, I do not wish this thing to go off half cocked."

Mr. Burns was up and about bright and early this morning, in company, generally, with J. A. G. Badorf, assistant to Walter Drew of New York. There is a mystery as to what Burns is doing in Indianapolis. He says his work has to do with "rounding up" the case against McNamara and others. He asserts there are no more arrests to be made. He left for Chicago this evening. "I'll come back to-morrow or next day," he added.

Ryan Willing to Appear.

Frank M. Ryan, President of the Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, appeared in the Grand Jury's ante room this morning and offered to testify. He was told he would be called later.

Two women said to have lived in a downtown building in which some members of the Structural Iron Workers' Union had rooms were examined briefly.

D. Jones, an ironworker, in whose barn at the western edge of the city 16 sticks of dynamite and two quarts of nitroglycerine were found last Saturday, later was examined by the Grand Jury. Jones had declared that he knew nothing of the dynamite and that he rented the barn to J. J. McNamara. Patrick Dugan, also a member of the Iron Workers' Union, testified.

Walter Drew of New York, counsel for the National Erectors' Association, was fined $1 and costs to-day in Police Court on conviction of having assaulted a Constable who was seeking to serve a warrant on Detective William J. Burns, charging him with complicity in the alleged kidnapping from this city last Saturday of J. J. McNamara, secretary and treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.

Drew forced the Constable into an elevator in a hotel yesterday. The fine was suspended by Police Judge Collins, by whom McNamara had been turned over to a Los Angeles police officer in the extradition proceedings.

say," he began. "I have had nothing to say since I was forcibly removed from my office last Saturday. I have just learned of my brother's arrest. Why is he here?"

He was told that his brother was accused of having discharged the bomb that destroyed The Times building and the lives of twenty-two employes.

"Oh, but that is absurd," he rejoined quickly. "Why—but the whole thing is a frame up, pure and simple. I might as well be the goat as any one else—and my brother. McManigle, have they the same charge against him or have they something up their sleeves?"

When told that McManigle was accused of having destroyed the Llewellyn Iron Works on Christmas morning, he said:

"Oh, well, it will all come out in due time. When I was seized in my office they gave me no chance to wind up my business or my personal affairs."

He tossed his head. "What's the use of talking?" he said. "I don't mind talking to you about any subject on the face of the earth save only this case. I have many reasons for remaining silent at this stage of the proceedings, and my friends throughout the country and that part of the public that believes me innocent, if there be any who do, must wait until the time comes. I have a good defense, an ample defense, but I need hardly point out that it would be poor policy for me to give any inkling of it now. Wait until the trial. That will be open and the whole world will then learn the inside truth of this case. Until then I must keep silent. Nothing is ever gained by merely talking to hear the sound of the words. That is all."

Shields Face from Woman.

When James McNamara stepped off the train at Pasadena he walked almost into the arms of Mrs. D. H. Ingersoll of San Francisco, who had been brought here to identify him, if possible, as J. B. Bryce, against whom there is strong evidence in The Times case. There was a start of quick recognition on the part of the woman, and the man threw his hand up to shield his face.

"I wish he had not done that," said Mrs. Ingersoll, as she turned to a woman from the District Attorney office, who had accompanied her. "If he had not raised his hand I could be certain. As it is I feel pretty sure he is the man."

O. N. Hilton, counsel for the Western Federation of Miners, who came yesterday presumably to join counsel for the defense, to-day started to establish a working force, but stopped all preparations when he received a telegram from President Ryan of the iron workers, saying that all matters pertaining to the defense were in the hands of Indianapolis lawyers.

Mr. Hilton defended Charles H. Moyer and George Pettibone, members of the Western Federation of Miners, in the Steunenberg case. He declared that the action of the union forces of Indianapolis in arresting men for kidnapping was "horse play."

"They must be crazy back there," said Judge Hilton. "Don't the attorneys here know that the Supreme Court of the United States decided in the case of Haywood that the action of the authorities in arresting Moyer, Pettibone, and Haywood was final, and that no appeal could be made from it? Such methods as they are trying to employ in Indianapolis are silly. They will gain nothing."

Neither the Sheriff, the Chief of Police, nor F. E. Mills, agent for Burns, would confirm or deny the report current here this afternoon that the arrest of a prominent labor leader of San Francisco was contemplated by the authorities.

The arrest of this labor leader, it is asserted, will be followed in short order by the imprisonment of another man, prominent in local labor circles. Both of these men are well known throughout the country, but their names are being withheld for the present. They have been shadowed ever since the announcement of the arrest of the trio now in the county jail.

Public Suspends Judgment.

There is a general inclination on the part of the public to reserve judgment on the case against the prisoners until the case is fully presented by the accusers. This in spite of efforts made by both factions to inflame the people. The attitude even of the officials is shown by a statement made this afternoon by Sheriff Hammel.

"These fellows," he said, "are going to get just what others in the jail will get. If they want better food than the jail allowance provides and want to pay for it they shall have it. They shall have every opportunity of seeing and conferring with their lawyers and their personal friends, but the curious public will be barred from the jail. Even the usual string of visitors on visiting days will be cut for a time. I shall take no chances."

Extra guards have been posted at the jail by Sheriff Hammel, both in the corridors of the prison and surrounding the building. An alarm bell will be placed in a room in the jail occupied by four officers constantly on duty. Two Deputy Sheriffs will watch directly over James McNamara and McManigle who will be locked up near each other, and a third will keep guard day and night over John J. McNamara in another part of the prison.

District Attorney Fredericks said to-day that his first statement that the men would not be arraigned for some days, or until Detective Burns reached town, would have to be changed, as he had about decided to send the trial along as fast as possible.

RACE RIOT ON WEST SIDE.

Toughs and Negroes Engage in a Free Fight Until the Police Arrive.

White gangsters from Tenth Avenue and negroes from the vicinity of Eighth Avenue and Forty-second Street participated in a free fight yesterday afternoon that for a time threatened to become serious. To save two negroes who had been caught and were being beaten, R. O. McElroy, manager of the Oswald Chemical Company, 318 West Forty-second Street, opened his door, and with the assistance of two clerks pulled the negroes in. He then slammed the door upon the whites who battered at it in an effort to break it in until a cry of "Police!" scattered them.

The trouble started when a group of gangsters snatched a coat from Max Roylance, a negro employed in a West Forty-second Street store. The negro was knocked down, and another rushed to his assistance. That brought more of the gangsters into action, and more negroes and whites rushed in from many directions. The arrival of the police put an end to hostilities.

BOORAEM IN POLICE AGAIN.

Expected to Get His Old Place When Reynolds Is Made a Magistrate.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Booraem will undoubtedly go back to the Police Department to succeed Fourth Deputy Police Commissioner Reynolds, in charge in Brooklyn, when Mr. Reynold's appointment to the Police Magistrates' bench is announced.

Mr. Booraem was Deputy Police Commissioner in charge in Brooklyn under Commissioner Baker. He was put in Deputy Commissioner Woods's place in the shake-up following the removal of Gen. Bingham by Mayor McClellan. After a few months he returned to the Law Department at his own request.

TAXED WITH THEFT, HE FIRED

Mrs. Losstrom's Life Saved by a Corset Steel—Her Assailant a Suicide.

Tenants in the apartment house at 600 East 182d Street were startled by the screams of a woman and the reports of several revolver shots late yesterday afternoon. The sounds came from the flat of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Losstrom, and neighbors tried to get in, but found the door locked. From within came the moans of a woman and the shrill cries of Mrs. Losstrom's three-year-old son, Ivan.

Policeman McCauley of the Tremont Station, whom the neighbors summoned, went up on the fire escape from another flat and smashed a window of the Losstrom home. Within he found Mrs. Losstrom, her son clasped in her arms, lying on the floor. She had a bullet wound in the right breast. On the floor of another room lay the body of Leonard Jensen, who had boarded with Mr. and Mrs. Losstrom. He had a bullet wound in the right temple and was dead.

Dr. Sheridan, who was called from Fordham Hospital, found that Mrs. Losstrom's wound was no more than an abrasion of the flesh, a corset steel having turned the bullet, which otherwise would have passed through her body. So near had the weapon been held that there were powder marks on her shirtwaist.

Mrs. Losstrom said that Jensen had boarded with her and her husband for several years. Two weeks ago, however, Mr. Losstrom had ordered him to leave, as he had not paid for his board for several weeks. After Jensen had left Mrs. Losstrom noticed that $50 had disappeared from a pocketbook which she kept in a bureau drawer. When Jensen called yesterday, she taxed him with the theft of the money.

The man had been drinking, said Mrs. Losstrom, and presently he drew a revolver and threatened to kill her. She screamed, and he fired three shots at her, only one of which struck her. Then, as she fell from the force of the bullet, he ran into a bedroom and shot himself.

Dr. Sheridan took Mrs. Losstrom to the hospital, although he said she would be well in a day or two.

LAWYER LEHMAIER REBUKED.

Justice Marean Fines Him $50 for Contempt, Then Remits It.

James S. Lehmaier, the lawyer, was fined $50 by Supreme Court Justice Marean in Brooklyn yesterday for contempt of court, but later the Justice remitted the fine, Mr. Lehmaier having made it plan that no contempt was intended.

Mr. Lehmaier appeared as counsel for stockholders of the Moll Manufacturing Company in an attempt to nullify an increase in its officers' salaries.

The court had ordered one account marked in evidence, and Mr. Lehmaier asked to see it before it was marked. He was directed to sit down, which he did after taking exeeption to the court's direction that he should do so.

The account then was handed to Mr. Lehmaier and he began to talk to a bookkeeper about it. The court ordered him to proceed with the examination of the witness.

"Proceed with the witness or I will let him go," said Justice Marean. Mr. Lehmaier took exception to this remark and tried repeatedly to have his exception noted. The court finally ordered the witness to leave the stand. Again Mr. Lehmaier took exception.

"You've got an exception," said the Justice. "Now sit down or I will punish you."

Mr. Lehmaier sat down and the Justice fined him $50 and suspended the hearing of the case until it should be paid. Mr. Lehmaier declared he meant no contempt, and never had been rebuked before in thirty years' practice. After the fine was remitted the case proceeded.

Another Customs Shake-Up.

Francis W. Bird, Appraiser of the Port, gave his office another shake-up yesterday, when he shifted several of the best-known examiners of foreign merchandise. The transfers included Augustus K. Thomas, William S. Harris, John C. Hathorn, and George K. Gilbert. The Appraiser also announced that the Secretary of the Treasury had accepted the resignations of Edward D. Howell and George W. Scott, examiners.

"Something that has given me a new lease of health"

"George, I've seen you use that little box of white powder every day here at the club for some time, and now my curiosity has got the better of me. Just what is it?"

"Why that is something that in six weeks has given me a new lease of health, has wonderfully improved my digestion, has given me strength and buoyancy and, I am firmly convinced, has saved me from a serious breakdown. It's the food-tonic called Sanatogen."

A NEW lease of health! The eager desire of countless sufferers from nervous exhaustion! Can Sanatogen really bring relief? Can it really convey to the system that which the starved nerves crave? Can it really so revitalize the body that digestion and assimilation become normal once more? Has it really the power to reconstruct cell and tissue?

Fifteen thousand letters from practising physicians answer these questions in the affirmative. Over 120 original articles in leading medical journals prove every claim to be true. Every day, in every land, over 100,000 people take Sanatogen, feel its invigorating and rejuvenating effect, bear witness to its remarkable upbuilding and revitalizing power.

If you need a tonic, do not get "some tonic," get the tonic, get Sanatogen, the food-tonic. It's the one tonic universally acclaimed by the medical profession, the one tonic built on scientific principles, the one tonic of real, lasting merit, the one tonic that "makes good."

We ask you earnestly to get acquainted with Sanatogen. Investigate our claims first, if you like, and we are only too glad to have you do so. Ask your doctor about it, and in any case write at once for our book, "Our Nerves of To-morrow," the work of a physician-author, written in an absorbingly interesting style, beautifully illustrated and containing facts and information of vital interest to you. This book also contains evidence of the value of Sanatogen which is as remarkable as it is conclusive.

Sanatogen is sold in three sizes, $1.00, $1.90, $3.60

John Burroughs
The distinguished naturalist and author, writes:
"I think the Sanatogen did me much good—it gave me much strength, steadied my nerves and greatly improved my sleep. It comes the nearest to being a remedy for old age I have yet struck, and I want to thank you for suggesting it."

Hon. Geo. C. Perkins
U. S. Senator, former Governor of California, writes:
"I have found Sanatogen to be a very pleasant nutrient and tonic and extremely helpful in conditions of nervousness and poor digestion."

David Belasco
The Eminent Dramatic Author, says:
"It gives me pleasure to let you know the wonderfully beneficial results I have experienced from the use of your Sanatogen. It has a most invigorating effect upon the nerves and I heartily recommend it to all who, like myself, are obliged to overwork. After my personal experience I can readily vouch for its recuperative qualities."

make it, and that fact seemed to impress him a great deal. He spoke almost throughout in a playful spirit, and more than a dozen times in his short address he was forced to stop because he could not talk against the cheers which greeted his utterances. He said:

"Mr. Toastmaster and gentlemen of the gallant Sixty-ninth, I consider it a great privilege to be present and join in doing honor to those who did their duty so nobly in the war and have lived to see how great their country which they saved has grown. There is something harmonious between the Irish and a fight. There is as much harmony as there is between nature and the color green."

Here he had to stop for cheers and laughter. When he could continue he went on to say that he never saw Irish soldiery without thinking of Charles O'Malley, and the gallant feats of the Irish dragoons, who were always ready for a feast or a fight. Then he continued more seriously:

"It is a great privilege to be with you, and as President of the United States to recognize in you a National Guard regiment which will serve its country in the future, if needed, as bravely as the veteran regiment of heroes served it in the past.

"All of you are American citizens if you are Irish. You are better American citizens because you are Irish. How great a part you have played in your country's history is a part of that history, and all know it who know that history."

A crowd of 5,000 persons waited outside the Café Boulevard to see the President. It was not until 10:45 o'clock that the automobile in which he rode with Major Butt, and the escorting cars filled with Secret Service Men, reached the café. The crowd cheered loudly while the President was in view, but he hurried inside, after bowing repeatedly, and made his way to a reception room on the second floor, where for a few minutes he was busy meeting his hosts and the large number of politicians who had gathered to meet him.

The meeting was notable for the number of politicians of local and National fame who were present to shake the President's hand. Among them were Collector William Loeb, ex-Congressman Herbert Parsons, James F. Clarkson, Judge Rosalsky, ex-Attorney General Julius M. Mayer, William Barnes, Jr., William Bennet, Congressmen Sulzer and Goldfogle, William Williams, Immigration Commissioner; Lloyd C. Griscom, Marcus Braun, President of the Republican Club; Controller Prendergast, Charles H. Anderson, Samuel S. Koenig, and Max F. Grifenhagen. The Austrian Ambassador, Baron L. Hengelmuller de Hengevar, and the Austro-Hungarian Consul General, Alexander de Muber, were also present.

The dinner was given in the President's honor by the Hungarian Republic Club, and although it did not begin until after 11 o'clock a full course dinner of Hungarian dishes was served.

There were several decorations in special honor of the President at the dinner. Gustav Weber, head of the Hungarian colony in Florida, sent a white elephant made of carnations, which was hung over the table in front of him. Mr. Weber sent also an orange tree which stood behind the President, and back of his chair was hung an oil painting of himself draped with American and Hungarian flags.

Marcus Braun presided and after a short speech introduced Congressman William Sulzer, Democratic representative of the district, as a man who has led them against their will for years and yet whom they liked and respected. Mr. Sulzer spoke briefly, tendering the President a hearty welcome and declaring:

"I call on the records to show that I have voted for President Taft's policies more frequently than some of the men in his party."

President Taft made a characteristic speech, complimenting the Magyar Americans and telling of the interest he had taken in an interview with Count Apponyi on his recent visit here.

It was after 1:30 o'clock before the President left the table, and the diners cheered him loudly as he went from the room. His automobile was waiting, and in it he was hurried to his hotel.

THE SIXTY-NINTH AT DINNER.

Regiment That "Never Lost a Flag" Concludes Its Celebration.

Thirty-eight civil war survivors of the famous "Irish Regiment," the Sixty-ninth, which "never disobeyed an order or lost a flag," and more than 600 members of the active regiment and their friends dined at the Hotel Astor last night in conclusion of its celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the regiment's departure for the front.

Besides President Taft, Gov. Dix, Supreme Court Justice McCall, Joseph Rowan, Gen. Nelson A. Miles, Justice Victor J. Dowling, Justice John J. Delany, and the Rev. Daniel J. Quinn, S. J., spoke, and Joseph I. C. Clarke read an original poem, "The Ballad of the Sixty-ninth."

Gov. Dix spoke very briefly. He had a number of speaking engagements for the evening, and reached the room while dinner was being served. This was not allowed to interfere with the enthusiastic greeting which the veterans and the active members had stored up for the Governor. He was cheered when he entered and again when he arose to speak.

"We are passing to-day," he said, "through a period in the history of our State which needs the courage of every citizen. I know by your past history that you will ever sustain your country in all its needs."

Justice McCall, the toastmaster, referred frequently to the gallantry of the Sixty-ninth Regiment when under fire, whether at Antietam, Fair Oaks, Spottsylvania, or Fredericksburg. He said it had been said of it that it "never lost a flag."

Gen Nelson A. Miles, who was introduced by Justice McCall as the only man in America who had been a corps commander at 25, said he had seen the Sixty-ninth under fire at Malvern Hill, and never saw a greater display of gallantry. He aroused much enthusiasm by repeating that not only had the regiment never lost a flag, but to his own knowledge it had captured dozens of flags and in the campaign of 1864 captured more than all the rest of the army combined.

These survivors of the Sixty-ninth were present last night: Col. James J. Smith, Capt. John R. Nugent, Col. Garrett Nagle, Major John Dwyer, M. D., Major John Dwyer, Edward McGuinness, Capt. Hugh Fitzpatrick, William Bermingham, Henry Bates, John Dolan, Laurence Buckley, Patrick Tumulty, Matthew J. Perkinson, John Dalton, Walter Crocker, John A. McGill, Joseph Silvia, Capt. John Pigot, John Fogarty, John Lonergan, Thomas Smith, John Kevill, Capt. Patrick Breslin, Thomas Curtis, Col. Edward Knox, Lieut. Richard H. Bermingham, Capt. John O'Connell, Richard Finen, William H. Keyes, John C. Fox, John F. Cleary, Col. Thomas Canton, R. R. Ryan, Capt. William A. Peet, James Devine, John Fallon, Patrick Cunningham, and James McGarvey.

At the guest table besides the speakers were: Brig. Gen. Edward Duffy, Commander Alfred Brooks Fry, Charles D. Hilles, Brig. Gen. George Moore Smith, Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, Senator James A. O'Gorman, Major Gen. Charles F. Roe; Mgr. M. J. Lavelle; Brig. Gen. William Verbeck, Lieut. Col. James J. Smith, and Major Archibald W. Butt.

TAFT OPENS EXHIBIT OF BLIND WORKERS

Crowded Opera House Hears Him Praise Teaching That Ends Slavery for Sightless.

BLIND YOUTH PLAY FOR HIM

President Passes Out Through the Lines of Those Who "See" Him Not with Eyes.

Three hundred blind children on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House smiled and cheered when President Taft came among them last night to open formally the blind workers' exhibition. He spoke to them and to enough of their friends who could see to fill the Opera House about the National problem of blindness and the support the work being done in this city deserves from all good citizens.

A reception committee of blind men and women met the President at the stage door and escorted him to a chair made especially for him by a blind workman. He listened to violin selections by a blind musician and to organ and vocal selections by blind artists. While he spoke a blind stenographer "took notes" on a specially prepared machine, and after he had concluded he watched blind boys turn hand-springs and play leap-frog.

The exhibit will continue at the Opera House with afternoon and evening programmes until Saturday. It was arranged by Miss Winifred Holt, Secretary of the New York Association for the Blind, who sat at the President's left, and had entertained him at dinner before the opening of the exhibition.

Capt. Archibald Butts, the President's aid; Commander de Kay, representing Gov. Dix; Robert Fulton Cutting, Robert W. De Forest, Bishop Greer, J. P. Morgan, Jr., Frederick B. Pratt, Jacob Schiff, and Henry W. Taft had seats near the President. Former Ambassador Joseph H. Choate presided.

"This work," said Mr. Choate, "was commenced in 1905 with $400 capital. Now it has grown until the President of our country is glad to lend it his support and encouragement. I assisted Mark Twain to conduct the first meeeting of the New York Association for the Blind, and in a sense this new era in the treatment of the blind is a tribute to Mark Twain."

Taft Smiles on Choate.

The President, who had beamed broadly upon the audience as Mr. Choate introduced him, allowed the smile to play upon the former Ambassador before beginning his serious comments. "I always did like Mr. Choate's mellifluous tones," he said. "It helps along in the discharge of the Presidential duty to take a little vacation now and then, and come to New York to help along some good cause. And it is always pleasant, after I arrive, to find that no enterprise looking to the good of mankind is complete without Mr. Choate. I enjoy him both in anticipation and retrospection.

"I am glad to lend my voice in aid and in praise of the work which has been done for the last four years under the auspices of the New York Association for the Blind. The loss of that sense which enables us to see, to read, to write, to walk, to rejoice in the rising sun and marvel in the beauty of the setting sun, to know day from night, to look into the universe of countless worlds, is a deprivation the very thought of which melts our hearts and brings tears to our eyes for those thus afflicted. Without thought we class them all among the helpless and necessary objects of charity. We segregate them from the world at large, we put them in expensive asylums, we furnish them with food and clothing, and then with a sigh we consign them to a life of hibernation, of deadening monotony, of helpless and aimless existence within a windowless tomb.

"I understand the object of this association to be to introduce light into the life of the blind by work, to give them happiness by manual and intellectual activity, to maintain their independence and self-respect by enabling them to contribute to their own support, and to enable them to forget their affliction by association and by sharing their thoughts and interests with those who see.

"The helpless condition of the blind led to an effort to assist and educate them as early as the seventeenth century in Italy, but it was not until 1783, in the time of Louis XVI., that the first intelligent steps were taken toward their relief. In the next decade an effort was made in England in this direction; and in the early part of the nineteenth century institutions were founded in Massachusetts, New York, and Pennsylvania for the aid of the sightless. I think it was here, rather than in Europe, that the first movement originated to help the blind by helping them to help themselves. But it needed the earnest initiation of the movement which has resulted in this New York Association for the Blind to bring out the most intelligent efforts toward the amelioration of the cruel fate of those who live in eternal night.

Prevention and Education.

"In the first place, this association has directed its attention to the prevention of blindness. The statistics seem to show that from 25 per cent. to 50 per cent. of the present blindness is preventable; that infantile ophthalmia, which ensues on the birth of the child, may be completely cured by the administration of a very simple remedy. The successful efforts of this association to improve the midwifery and to provide the specific remedy at the time of the birth of children is most highly to be commended. Then the kindergarten for the blind should be encouraged. This co-operates with the association, rescues the poor blind children under school age from imbecile and idiot asylums, and gives them opportunity to show that their minds are not defective and thus saves a number who would otherwise seem hopelessly deficient to become fully developed by the influences of primary and secondary education.

"Then comes the education of the blind. Through the good offices of this association New York City has now assumed an obligation to give to the blind children the benefit of public instruction, and the fact that they are constantly with children who see—study with them and play with them—gives to the blind boys and girls a share in the common life of all the children that seems to soften the asperity of their lot.

"The present is a period for spreading vocational schools. The movement toward preparing boys and girls for life's work in connection with their primary and secondary education, so that they may have some trade or business or occupation taught them in boyhood as a part of and in connection with their general education, has become stronger and stronger of late and must be regarded as one of the great progressive steps of the present decade.

"The New York Association for the Blind has promoted the teaching of blind pupils the trades and occupations for which they are best adapted, but beyond this at least half of those who become blind after birth become blind as adults after they have learned their trades or studied their professions, and they must be fitted to adopt some new calling in life which can be prosecuted without the use of eyes.

A Unique Work Started Here.

"It is to these unfortunates that the New York Association for the Blind had devoted its most earnest and helpful consideration. It has shown by this distinct service that it is possible to teach those who have lost their sight even after middle-age the work of their hands, or their minds in unison with their hands, so that the work done shall let light into their souls and happiness into their lives.

"Most of the public institutions which we know—and there are some forty in the various States—are devoted to giving education to those of school age who have lost their sight. The work of assisting to new and possible occupations in life those, who, after middle life, have lost their sight is confined, so far as I know, to the New York Association for the Blind, and to similar associations established under its influence.

"There are in New York City 2,300 blind persons, or one for every thousand of the population. This ought to be greatly reduced by enforcing a proper method of treatment for infantile ophthalmia. Of the remainder, those of school age should be properly taught in the public schools. They are unfortunate, but they are none the less entitled to share in the system of public instruction, which purports to offer equal opportunity to all children. By increase in the power and scope of this New York Association for the Blind all that are left of those 2,300, to wit, the adults upon whom blindness has fallen after they have attained manhood or womanhood, should be enabled to live happier lives by a training in mental and physical work which shall occupy their minds, stimulate their energies, and relieve them as much as possible of that sense of dependence, helplessness, and hopelessness which makes their lives dismal or unendurable.

"All honor then to the Holt sisters, who have had so much to do with the founding of this association, and have brought it forward in four years to its present state of usefulness. May the good and generous people of New York, who are appealed to to support so many good causes, add to their list of contributions substantial sums for the carrying forward of this great work, not of mere charity to the helpless, but of aid to the self-help of those who have the heavy burden of blindness to carry. Miss Holt has called me here, and I have responded, because such is the nature of the work she is doing that she is entitled to the voice of every lover of his kind in effecting her purpose."

Letter From Helen Keller.

From Helen Keller, who could not come to the exhibition, Miss Winifred Holt read a letter of greeting in which the famous blind girl praised the work of the association, and said also:

"Ten years ago all that was known about the blind was locked up in institutions. Now they have come forth from cloistered seclusion and have become your fellow-citizens.

"I have been happy playing with ten blind children, but I am happier in the thought that my sightless successor will be playing with ten who see. Your children's children will have a still more beautiful experience, for they will live in a world where eyes are not wasted and where capable hands are not allowed to lie idle. Your grandchildren will refuse to isolate the blind, and there will be so few of them that blind children may again become objects of wonder and curiosity. But now, when blind boys and girls are all to common the public ought to make their education a matter of universal knowledge and intelligent sympathy."

Senator Gore of Oklahoma sent a letter regretting that ill-health made it impossible for him to come. "I am sure the occasion is a beginning of a new era," he wrote.

Miss Holt outlined the aims of herself and her friends in helping the blind. "We are unalterably opposed," she said, "to the idea of further segregation. We want the blind kept with their families, with their friends. We want them to become useful, and we know they can be made so. When you shiver at the booth of our blind barber and see our blind telephone 'central,' and watch our blind artisans and our wireless operator, do not forget that if some can be trained to do extraordinary things all can be trained to do something. Think of Helen Keller shut off in an asylum and prevented from doing her work. Asylums are not necessary, with their enforced idleness—the worst of all slavery. This exhibition means, we hope, the end of slavery for the blind."

President Watches Games.

President Taft, after the speechmaking was over, announced that he must go to keep another appointment, but could not bring himself to leave until he had seen some blind youngsters at their games. The boys of the Overbrook Institution, at Overbrook, Penn., came running to a cleared space before the President's chair, each boy in a gymnasium costume. They gave a gymnastic exhibition, and then the girls from Overbrook—a score or more in white flower-hung dresses—came swinging in to the rhythm of an organ tune and gave their "Maypole dance," while the Opera House rang with applause.

When President Taft arose to leave blind men and women and children formed two aisles through which he passed, stopping every little while to shake the hand of some one who attracted his attention. There was much suppressed excitement among the blind after the President had gone, as each one told the others of his or her impressions about "seeing" the President.

The exhibits, which were arranged on the auditorium floor and the stage, included offerings from all sections of America, and from Japan and Egypt. From thirteen States representatives were in attendance, while exhibits came from several more.

From out Siasconsett way a blind boy who had constructed a wireless station had it set up ready to send and receive messages. From Connecticut, Illinois and Massachusetts the exhibits were in the nature of handicraft.

There were books for the blind from the New York Public Library, magazines for the blind, exhibits from the Russell Sage Foundation detailing ways and means by which blindness can be prevented, safety appliances to prevent blindness through industrial accidents, ropes made at the Sailors' Snug Harbor, with blind sailors to show how they do it, and nurseries and kindergartens in which blind babies put their dollies to bed and cooked tarts for their own dinners.

While the exhibit continues a programme will be given by blind performers each afternoon and night.

Taft Luncheon Guest of Henry Clews.

President Taft will be entertained at luncheon this afternoon by Henry Clews in his home, 27 West Fifty-first Street. Among the guests will be:

Levi P. Morton, Joseph H. Choate, Seth Low, Gen. F. D. Grant, A. Barton Hepburn, President Chamber of Commerce; Henry W. Taft, Melville E. Stone, John Claflin, W. C. Brown, President New York Central Railroad Company; John Jacob Astor, the Rev. Dr. J. Wesley Hill, Chester S. Lord, Frederick Underwood, President Erie Railroad Company; Theodore Shonts, President Interborough Rapid Transit Company; J. P. Morgan, Jr., W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Arthur Brisbane, William G. Emmerson, Charles D. Hilles, Capt. Butt, Alexander Smith Cochran, and Henry Clews, Jr.

FIELD'S TESTIMONY READ.

Statements Made to Grand Jury Given by the Official Stenographer.

George Kemp, official stenographer for the Grand Jury, was the only witness called upon to testify yesterday in the trial of Leonard J. Field, head of the brokerage firm of L. J. Field & Co., on perjury charges, before Justice Davis, in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court.

Kemp was called upon to read his notes, taken during the Grand Jury investigation into the Windsor Trust case. Louis Marshall, Field's counsel, objected to the stenographerm's testimony on the ground that there was no section of the Code of Criminal Procedure whereby a stenographer was allowed to be present in the Grand Jury room, and that therefore his client's constitutional rights had been invaded. Assistant District Attorney Nott handed up to Justice Davis a copy of the Code and pointed to a special section saying that a stenographer could be present at any Grand Jury hearing.

"Well, it isn't in this copy," said Mr. Marshall, holding up a copy of the Code.

"Look at the date," replied Justice Davis. "This is a new provision."

Mr. Marshall found that his code bore the date of 1906. He then further objected to Kemp's testimony, saying that Field had been forced to testify twice. Justice Davis overruled the objection.

Kemp then read from his notes the complete testimony given by Field, in which he admitted that he had signed a check for $50,000 for John F. Sherwood, but denied that Sherwood was working for him at the time or that he was to receive any part of the proceeds of the sale of the Heinze copper stock.

Court Severe on Car Rowdies.

The seven Manhattan rowdies who "rough-housed" a Long Island trolley car near Flushing last Sunday night received heavy sentences from Magistrate Maurice Connolly in the Flushing Court yesterday. Amigo Piacentes of 173 West Ninety-eighth Street and Rudolph Papp of 933 Columbus Avenue were sentenced to three years each in the New York State Reformatory. One other youth was put on a year's probation and four others were put under $1,000 bail each to await sentence.

CARNEGIE'S AGENT RAISED FALSE HOPES

His Solicitude for Trust Company Maybe Led Cummins and Cheney to Expect More Aid.

TAMMANY SOCIETY DEPOSIT

Had $12,000 in Trust Co. When It Closed—$6,158,000 Claims Listed—Lebaudy's $1,857,500 Not Allowed.

Robert A. Franks, confidential agent for Andrew Carnegie, was before the Grand Jury yesterday to explain the active interest he took in the affairs of the Carnegie Trust Company after Mr. Carnegie loaned $2,100,000 to William J. Cummins and his associates. Mr. Franks corroborated many of the statements made on Tuesday by Mr. Carnegie, but it was learned that Mr. Franks differed with his employer concerning the purpose for which the $2,100,000 was loaned by Mr. Carnegie early in 1910.

As Mr. Carnegie explained the loan it was to enable the Cummins syndicate to put through the merger of the Carnegie Trust with the Van Norden Trust, the Twelfth, and the Nineteenth Ward Banks. Mr. Franks said yesterday that the loan was primarily to enable Cummins and his associates to relieve the Carnegie Trust Company from financial embarrassment, the proposed merger being secondary.

Immediately after the loan was made Mr. Franks began to take an active interest in the affairs of the Carnegie Trust, as he knew that Mr. Carnegie's only hope of getting all his money back was to keep the trust company afloat. Mr. Franks said he made many visits to Cummins, and had several conferences with State Superintendent of Banks Cheney, as to the state of the trust company's finances. Mr. Franks may have given the State Banking Department assurances that Mr. Carnegie would be willing to aid the trust company further if the worst came to the worst, but neither Mr. Carnegie nor Mr. Franks ever committed themselves in writing.

Cheney to Be Called.

Contrary to first reports, State Banking Superintendent Cheney will be invited by the Grand Jury to appear before it soon and explain his attitude in allowing the Carnegie Trust to remain open several months after the capital of the institution had been impaired.

William J. Cummins was also before the Grand Jury yesterday. He went to the Criminal Court Building with his counsel, Stephen C. Baldwin. Mr. Baldwin went at once to the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court and waited there, evidently expecting developments. Mr. Cummins was before the Grand Jury five minutes, and then the jury filed into Justice Davis's court. But the Justice had left the bench for the day. It was learned afterward that Mr. Cummins had refused to answer certain questions.

Mr. Cummins's memory was at fault concerning the details of the conference held by himself with Joseph G. Robin, Joseph B. Reichmann, and City Chamberlain Hyde in Hyde's law office on Aug. 23 last. Neither could Mr. Cummins recall what banks had loaned him money which had not received city deposits. He will appear before the Grand Jury again to-day.

District Attorney Whitman said yesterday that Mr. Reichmann would not be permitted to appear before the Grand Jury again. No explanation for this was given. The Directors of the Northern Bank will be called before the Grand Jury to-day or to-morrow. Deputy Chamberlain Walsh and Deputy Controller Fisher will also be called.

Claims Against the Carnegie.

The list of claims against the Carnegie Trust Company up to April 21 was filed yesterday in the County Clerk's office by State Banking Supt. Cheney. It was learned that among the organizations caught in the Carnegie failure was the Tammany Society, which had a deposit of $11,630. According to the list the proved claims of depositors amount to $5,724,031; preferred claims allowed, $431,220; claims for legal and other services, proved and allowed, $79; other claims filed and allowed, $3,077. The total of listed claims amounted to $6,158,000. The New York Fire Department Relief Fund has a claim of $10,229, and State Treasurer J. J. Kennedy has a claim of $136,407, the amount of State funds on deposit when the Carnegie closed. The city's claim was $650,000.

Some of the smaller claims for deposits seem to indicate that a few depositors were lucky enough to draw out in time. Alton B. Parker's claim is $26; that of Congressman William Sulzer, $159; Stanton C. Dickinson, a brother of the late C. C. Dickinson, $4.38; Charles A. Towne, $17.

John B. Stanchfield, the lawyer, and a Director in the Carnegie Trust, has a claim of $1,406. Elbert Hubbard of East Aurora is down for $1,123. Among the larger claims against the Carnegie Trust are these:

One of the rejected claims filed was that of Jacques Lebaudy, who styles himself "Emperor of the Sahara." The claim is $1,857,500. Also in the rejected claims were: Nineteenth Ward Bank, $224,658; Charles W. Chapman, $300,237; Madison Trust Company, $99,843, and Robert C. Morris, as trustee for Patrick J. Keiran, $23,820.

Brooklyn Y.W.C.A. Now Has $219,232

Yesterday was the fifth of the two weeks' campaign being carried on by the Brooklyn Young Women's Christian Association to raise $400,000 for a new home for working women. The committee announced last night that $219,232 had been subscribed. The $25,000 donors are Fred B. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones, Alfred T. White, and "A Friend." To-day the Williamsburg Association will begin an eight days' campaign to raise $100,000 for a new building.

TO ARREST BANKERS IN LORIMER INQUIRY

Illinois Senate Insists That Witnesses Must Produce Bank Books or Be in Contempt.

DENIAL OF BRIBERY FUND

Tilden Testified That Not an Item in His Personal Accounts Had Reference to Lorimer Inquiry.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 26.—By a vote of 40 to 7 the Illinois Senate to-night ordered the arrest of Edward Tilden, George M. Benedict, and Charles Cummings of Chicago and their appearance before the Senate to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt. The alleged contempt consists in the refusal of the three men, who are bankers, to submit as evidence before the Senate commitee that is investigating bribery the bank records of their customers.

It has been alleged that these bank books might prove some of the stories told of money said to have been subscribed toward the election of William Lorimer as United States Senator. Under oath all three have denied any knowledge of any such funds, and have sworn that their accounts show nothing bearing on the subject. They pleaded that to show the bank accounts would be unjust to the customers. The question of contempt was argued at length before the Senate to-day with the result that the arrest of the men was voted.

Immediately following the reading of the journal in the Senate Chairman Helm moved that the Senate bribery committee's report of yesterday be adopted.

Attorney John J. Healy of the bribery committee opened the arguments by explaining the terms of the resolution under which the committee was instructed to investigate bribery charges made against certain members of the Legislature. Mr. Healy said the Senate had full authority by itself or its committee to examine and command all witnesses within the State to testify under oath and to compel them to produce any papers or documents that might be requested. Mr. Healy further said that no witnesses testifying before the bribery committee could be imprisoned or charged with any criminal offense.

Former Judge Sears of Chicago, representing Tilden, Benedict, and Cummings, followed Mr. Healy. Mr. Sears assured the Senate that Mr. Tilden was willing to do all he could to aid the committee, but that he (Tilden) felt he had a constitutional right to refuse to turn over to the committee his personal checking accounts and papers.

"Mr. Tilden has testified under oath," declared Mr. Sears, "that not an item in his personal or business accounts had any reference to the inquiry. That is sufficient. The committee has that testimony, and I believe that is all that should be asked of him."

Lieut. Gov. John G. Oglesby, following the adoption of the bribery committee's order for the arrest of the bankers, announced that he would not assume the responsibility of issuing warrants for the three men. The Senate then passed a motion directing Mr. Oglesby to issue the warrants. The warrants for Tilden, Benedict, and Cummings were later placed in the hands of an assistant sergeant at arms of the Senate, and he was directed to make the arrests.

Attorney Sears, counsel for Tilden, said that habeas corpus proceedings on behalf of Tilden would be instituted as soon as the warrant was served.

Tilden and the other bankers were drawn into the investigation by the testimony of Clarance Funk of Chicago. He testified before the bribery committee that Edward Hines had asked him, as manager of the International Harvester Company, to subscribe $10,000 toward a fund of $100,000 that had been advanced by Hines to help elect Lorimer. Funk said Hines had told him to send the money to Edward Tilden, a meat packer and Director of a stock yards bank.

UNITED WIRELESS TRIALS ON.

Jury Chosen—Jerome, Stanchfield, Cockran Among Defending Lawyers.

Christopher C. Wilson, President of the United Wireless Telegraph Company, and his six fellow-Directors, were put on trial yesterday before Judge Martin in the United States Circuit Court on an indictment charging them with using the mails to defraud investors. The seven defendants were represented by nine lawyers, including John B. Stanchfield, who appears for Col. Wilson; Bourke Cockran, who represents Francis X. Butler, Director and former counsel for the company, and ex-District Attorney Jerome, acting for Vice President C. C. Bogert. The other men accused are Charles C. Galbraith, general manager; William A. Diboll, W. W. Tompkins, and George H. Parker.

Men's Shirts—Values 2.50, 3.00 and 3.50
Today and tomorrow 1.65

This is an event that will bear looking into. We do not question your ability to decide this for yourself, but neglect is opportunity's chief complaint, and this sale deserves more than an apathetic interest. It is much more important than the average shirt sale, in that the ratio of economy is greater. And it is only at infrequent intervals that we are able to make an acquisition of this character, which applies equally to you. There are about 2400 of these shirts and all are made of the finest imported madras, in plain and pleated negligee models. The fabrics show light or dark grounds, in stripes or neat effects, and the workmanship is of the same quality as the materials. We regard this as one of the best opportunities you will have in a long time to stock your wardrobe with such high grade shirts at such a trifling cost. All sizes and sleeve lengths.

BILL AIMS BLOW AT MERCANTILE BOARDS

Big Interests Oppose Proposal to Forbid Their Making Confidential Reports on Firms' Credit.

SUPPORTER AN EX-CONVICT

C. H. Unversagt Reveals This at Hearing—Viewed as a Strike Measure That Would Destroy Agencies.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 26.—Proceedings before the Senate Judiciary Committee at the hearing on a bill introduced by Senator Stephen J. Stilwell of the Bronx for the regulation of mercantile agencies took an unexpected turn early this evening, when it developed that Charles H. Unversagt, who declared he was a promoter and operator of mining enterprises on a large scale, and who was the only person to appear in favor of the bill, had been indicted twice and convicted at least once for fraudulent practices.

The bill would prohibit the rendering of confidential and verbal reports with regard to the commercial rating of any firm or individual by mercantile agencies. It provides that all such reports must be rendered in writing on the letterheads of the particular agency involved and signed by one of its accredited officials. It also prohibits such agencies withholding their reports from any firm or individual who may demand its service and be willing to pay the regulation fee.

Representatives of R. G. Dun & Co., Bradstreet's, Merchants' Association, Credit Men's Association, Jewelers' Board of Trade, and of merchants and banks of New York City, were present to oppose the bill on the ground that if enacted the Stilwell measure would sound the death knell of the mercantile agencies, which were indispensable to the credit business. Joseph Auerbach and ex-Congressman William S. Bennet appeared for Dun's and Bradstreet's. Edward Page appeared for the Credit Men's Association. It was more than intimated by the speakers that the Stilwell bill was a "strike" measure.

Mr. Unversagt, who announced that he ought to be on the other side of the ocean promoting a $1,000,000 mining deal in which he is interested, said he had deferred his departure to see the Stilwell bill through. In a rambling speech which occupied an hour or more he bitterly assailed the big mercantile agencies, and declared that their powers should be curtailed along the lines laid down in the bill under discussion. He attacked the managers and representatives of Dun and Bradsteet's in language similar to that used in certain pamphlets and anonymous communications which, since the Stilwell bill was introduced, have reached legislators and newspaper correspondents at the Capitol. He admitted that he had a grievance against the agencies as a result of reports they had made regarding him since he first got into trouble with the Federal authorities on a charge of having used the mails for fraudulent purposes in connection with the promotion of a building loan insurance company in Baltimore twenty-eight years ago.

The first intimation that he had run foul of the law came from Mr. Unversagt himself, who at one stage of his remarks referred to his "conviction." This allusion prompted Senator McClelland of New York to ask for particulars. Mr. Unversagt then admitted that about twenty-eight years ago, when he was promoting the Security Building Loan Insurance Company at Baltimore, he had been arrested, and that the Post Office authorities had issued a fraud order against him, but that this had been recalled later, and that the "sentence had practically been reversed." He also admitted having been indicted in New York some fourteen or fifteen years ago at the instigation of an official in the State Banking Department.

"I don't know what happened to this indictment," said Mr. Unversagt. "I suppose it was dropped. I never even retained a lawyer. It was the result of perjury, and I was anxious to go before the Grand Jury, and asked to be permitted to do so, but they would not let me."

When the mining promoter finished Mr. Auerbach asked to be heard.

"I would ask you gentlemen of the committee to take notice of the fact that the question of Mr. Unversagt's antecedents has been brought up at his own instance," said the lawyer. "If he had not referred to his past I should not have done so. Under the present circumstances, however, I wish to call your attention to the fact that his record so far has been revealed only in part. The man who has appeared here and hurled abuse at my clients was convicted and served a term in prison years after the fraud order he has referred to was recalled. He was sentenced to twelve months in jail and a fine of $500, and I have here the documentary evidence to prove the assertion. The fraud order and this bad piece of business he was connected with were two different things."

Mr. Unversagt afterward asked Senator Bayne, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, for permission to file with the committee a statement giving his side of the case in connection with which he was declared to have been convicted.

Mr. Auerbach, in discussing the mercantile agencies, declared that they were essential to the commerce of the State of New York and that the passage of the Stilwell bill would put an end to their real usefulness.

"Through the good work of the agencies in New York the credit of a trader in Kalamazoo, in Waco, and in every city, town, and hamlet is as good in New York as it is in his own place of business," he said. "That is why the mercantile agencies are an indispensable instrument to commerce, and why the destruction which this bill proposes to work upon the agencies is destructive to the commerce of the State."

Mr. Auerbach argued that the provisions of the Stilwell bill were unconstitutional. He branded it as a confiscatory measure and declared that the destruction of the mercantile agencies would make possible wholesale frauds, and place the merchants of the State at the mercy of any band of crooks formed to obtain goods without credit.

Ex-Congressman Bennet spoke along similar lines. He pointed out that the credit business in the City of New York alone amounted to $20,000,000,000 annually, and that the confidence on which it rested was based largely on the reports of mercantile agencies. He said the passage of the bill would be instrumental in driving a very large proportion of the commerce and industry of this State into neighboring States, where there were no such restrictive laws.

Damaging Disclosures Have Already Been Made—The Inquiry to be Vigorously Continued.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 26.—With an investigation of his department in progress, in the course of which damaging disclosures have been made, Cornelius V. Collins, for thirteen years State Superintendent of Prisons, tendered his resignation to Gov. Dix to-day. It was accepted and took effect at once.

The resignation of Mr. Collins caused a stir at the Capitol, where it was regarded as the first fruit of the investigation into the methods of the State departments which has been conducted by William Church Osborn, legal adviser to Gov. Dix, and Mayor George E. Van Kennan of Ogdensburg, composing the special commission appointed for the purpose by the Governor shortly after he took office.

Neither Mr. Osborn nor Mayor Van Kennan was willing to make any detailed statement with reference to the action of Supt. Collins. But they did say that his resignation did not surprise them, and that their investigation of the Prison Department had been productive of startling results, although the surface has hardly been scratched as yet.

Mr. Collins sent his resignation to Gov. Dix early to-day in a curt note. Gov. Dix made it public this forenoon. Mr. Collins sent it to the Executive Chamber by special messenger early this morning, and then left for Detroit, where he is preparing to go into the automobile business. The resignation is as follows:

> The Hon. John A. Dix, Governor, State of New York.
>
> Dear Sir: I hereby resign as State Superintendent of Prisons, to take effect at once. Yours truly,
>
> CORNELIUS V. COLLINS.

Gov. Dix said that he had no comment to make regarding the resignation.

It is believed that Gov. Dix will not lose any time in filling the vacancy. Three men were mentioned at the Capitol to-day as those among whom a successor to Mr. Collins will be chosen. They were Thomas Mott Osborne, at present Forest, Fish and Game Commissioner; Daniel E. Conway, former Mayor of Troy, and Col. Joseph F. Scott, Superintendent of the State Reformatory at Elmira. All three are Democrats.

The term of State Superintendent of Prisons is for five years and Mr. Collins had three more years to serve. He was reappointed by Gov. Hughes during his second administration. His first appointment was by Gov. Black, whose political lieutenant Collins was at the time. This was thirteen years ago. He has remained in his position during all the Republican administrations that succeeded that of Gov. Black.

One thing is said on his behalf and is not denied by his opponents. He did much to promote humane methods in the institutions under his control. He had frequent visits to the prisons, and it is said that he left nothing undone to redress the grievances of prisoners when they appeared to be well founded.

He abolished the lockstep, striped clothing, and the clipping of the hair of convicts. He established a comprehensive school system in the prisons and a classification through which first offenders were kept apart from men older in crime.

Supt. Collins was a member of the State Parole Board and Chairman of the commission on new prisons appointed by Gov. Hughes to select the site for the prison which is to take the place of Sing Sing.

On April 13 Commissioners Osborn and Van Kennan gave a public hearing at Sing Sing Prison, and the following week the investigation was continued at Clinton Prison by Mr. Van Kennan. The Commissioners plan to visit Auburn Prison in the near future. At Sing Sing and Clinton Prisons irregularities in the purchase of supplies, it is said, were found, but no charges had been preferred against Supt. Collins.

Mr. Collins was a member of the Republican State Committee and one of the most influential of Republican politicians in the State. He was an out-and-out organization man until Mr. Hughes became Governor. Then he climbed on the Hughes band wagon and was one of his stanchest supporters throughout his four years in the executive chair at Albany. In the last campaign he followed the fortunes of Theodore Roosevelt. The investigation of the Prison Department will, it is said, be continued.

AUBURN, April 26.—Following the announcement of the resignation of C. V. Collins as State Superintendent of Prisons, Warden George W. Benham of Auburn Prison to-day expressed his determination to retire from that position.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, April 26.—Cornelius V. Collins, until to-day State Superintendent of Prisons of New York, probably will become manager of the New York branch of the Packard Motor Car Company.

Mr. Collins was asked to-day why he resigned as State Superintendent of Prisons, and he replied that, after Gov. Dix had begun a campaign to force him out he had decided to go into business rather than fight for a political office. Asked why the Governor had waged war on him, he remarked: "Well, he wanted the job for some one."

He asserted that the Governor's investigation of his department had developed nothing but slight irregularities, which might be expected to turn up in any big division of a State Government, and that they were not sufficient to justify even a hostile administration to prefer charges.

ATTACKS COFFEE MONOPOLY.

Norris Says We Ought to Retaliate on Brazil for Raising Price.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Another uneventful day marked the debate in the House on the free list bill. The speeches of the day were those of Mr. Norris of Nebraska, on the valorization of coffee; Mr. James of Kentucky, who answered Mr. Mann's attack on the bill, and of Mr. Hobson, on idealism in world trade. The former brought to the attention of the House the evidence of a gigantic combination manipulated by Brazil to raise a price on coffee throughout the markets of the world, that had already advanced the price over 100 per cent. in five years. Mr. Norris gave statistics showing how the United States had ample opportunity in her cotton to force up prices, but had never, in that or any commodity of which the country is an overpowering producer, undertaken such a policy.

Mr. Cannon suggested that while there might be conditions in this country among jobbers and importers that were responsible for the increasing price of coffee, it was high time for action to prevent further manipulation of the price and save to American consumers the immense loss that would be undergone by 92,000,000 people in the near future if they were not protected by the Government.

Mr. Norris read a letter from one of the largest importers in this country, predicting the advance of the wholesale price of coffee in this country in the next few months from 14 cents to 20 cents. He said the rise was due solely to the fact that Brazil has restricted the production of coffee and dictated absolutely the amount that could be put on the market at any time and the price at which it should be sold. He did not believe either the anti-trust laws or the present tariff laws of the United States were wide enough in their scope to let this Government reach the foreign monopoly. By changing the tariff law so as to give the United States a chance to discriminate against Brazil's exports to this country, he said, the Government would be able to crush the monopoly.

The debate on the free list will be interrupted to-morrow by the Crumpacker reapportionment measure, which is to be called up and passed.

POLICE GET "BIFF" ELLISON.

Had Been Sought Since November, 1905, on a Murder Charge.

"Biff" Ellison, arrayed in a silk hat and evening clothes, and looking like a prosperous banker or broker, was picked up by Central Office Detectives Quay and Savage in Columbus Circle last night and taken to Headquarters a prisoner on a bench warrant issued on Dec. 20, 1905, charging Ellison with the murder of James Harrington on Nov. 23 of that year. Ellison was surprised when the detectives approached him last night, but made no resistance. At Headquarters he declined to discuss his case or send word to friends, and went to a cell uncomplainingly.

Ellison, who, the police say, was once a broker and who afterwards ran a gambling house, finally sinking to the level of the Bowery and becoming a member of the Five Points gang, has been sought by the police ever since the warrant was issued.

The murder for which Ellison was indicted was the slaying of James Harrington in Paul Kelly's notorious resort The Brighton, at Great Jones Street and the Bowery. Harrington was a waiter and was found dead after a pistol fight which started in the place soon after the arrival there one evening of "Biff" Ellison and several other members of the Five Points gang.

What caused the shooting never became public, although it was said that the trouble started over Kelly failing to distribute equitably the political campaign money of which he had custody in the district. Another version of the affair had it that Ellison blamed the Paul Kelly gang for the death of "Eat-Em Up" Jack McManus, who was killed in the Bowery one night by being beaten on the head with an iron bar. It is said that Ellison sought revenge for the death of his friend.

SENATE COMMITTEES RATIFIED BY CAUCUS

Regulars Make Only One Concession to Insurgents by Putting Bourne on Appropriations.

PROGRESSIVES OUTVOTED

Fail to Get Bristow on Finance and La Follette on Inter-State and Commerce.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The Republican caucus of the Senate in an hour's session this afternoon ratified the complete slate of the majority side of the standing committees of the Senate. At a meeting previously of the Committee on Committees, which prepared the slate, one concession was made to the insurgent demands, Senator Bourne of Oregon being placed on the Appropriations Committee.

The insurgents at the last moment changed one of their demands. Instead of fighting for a place on the Finance Committee for himself, Mr. Cummins, speaking for the progressives, moved that Mr. Bristow go to that committee. This motion was defeated by a vote of 32 to 11. Mr. Cummins then moved to amend the regular slate by putting Mr. La Follette on the Committee on Inter-State and Foreign Commerce and that motion also met defeat by a vote of 31 to 12. These votes showed that in spite of the regulars' efforts the insurgents held together their full strength of twelve men, the insurgent mentioned in each motion refraining from voting.

The whole slate of both parties will be acted on by the Senate to-morrow, and it looks as if the insurgents will renew their fight against the strong tactics of the regulars. However, they realize to-night that no alliance can be made with the Democrats that will give them the strength to reverse the committee assignments.

The progressives are particularly outraged at Mr. La Follette's failure to get a place on the Inter-State Commerce Committee, and by the gift of the assignment by the regulars to Mr. Aldrich's successor, Mr. Lippitt of Rhode Island. Mr. La Follette has long been a student of railroad affairs and is comparatively a senior member of the Senate. Mr. Lippitt, who is credited with being a political disciple of Mr. Aldrich, is a new member and gets the assignment regardless of seniority.

The following is the completed list of appointments to the important committees as submitted by Chairman Gallinger:

FINANCE—Penrose, Chairman; Cullom, Lodge, McCumber, Smoot, Gallinger, Clark of Wyoming, Heyburn, La Follette.

APPROPRIATIONS—Warren, Chairman; Perkins, Gallinger, Curtis, Gamble, Smoot, Nixon, Dixon, Bourne, Wetmore.

FOREIGN RELATIONS—Cullom, Chairman; Frye, Lodge, Smith of Michigan; Root, McCumber, Sutherland, Borah, Burton.

INTER-STATE COMMERCE—Clapp, Chairman; Cullom, Crane, Nixon, Cummins, Brandegee, Oliver, Lippitt, Townsend.

JUDICIARY—Clark of Wyoming, Chairman; Nelson, Dillingham, Sutherland, Brandegee, Borah, Brown, Cummins, Root.

RULES—Crane, Chairman; Warren, Gallinger, Nelson, Cummins.

AGRICULTURE AND FORESTRY.—Burnham, Chairman; Warren, Perkins, Guggenheim, Page, Crawford, Bradley, Lorimer, Gronna.

COMMERCE—Frye, Chairman; Nelson, Perkins, Smith of Michigan, Bourne, Burton, Burnham, Stephenson, Crawford, Oliver.

MILITARY AFFAIRS—Du Pont, Chairman; Warren, Dixon, Briggs, Brown, Guggenheim, Bristow, Jones, Lorimer.

NAVAL AFFAIRS—Perkins, Chairman; Penrose, Wetmore, Clapp, Lodge, Smith of Michigan, Page, Poindexter.

INDIAN AFFAIRS—Gamble, Chairman; Clapp, McCumber, Sutherland, La Follette, Curtis, Brown, Dixon, Page.

PRIVILEGES AND ELECTIONS—Dillingham, Chairman; Gamble, Heyburn, Clapp, Sutherland, Bradley, Jones, Oliver, Kenyon.

PUBLIC LANDS—Nelson, Chairman; Clark of Wyoming, Gamble, Smoot, Heyburn, Dixon, Jones, Guggenheim, Works.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS—Sutherland, Chairman; Warren, Heyburn, Wetmore, Gamble, Du Pont, Stephenson, Bourne, Poindexter.

TERRITORIES—Smith of Michigan, Chairman; Nelson, Burnham, Brown, Bristow, McLean, Lippitt.

CONSERVATION OF NATIONAL RESOURCES—Dixon, Chairman; Clark of Wyoming, Dillingham, Briggs, Guggenheim, Jones, Richardson, Gronna, Townsend.

EDUCATION AND LABOR—Borah, Chairman; Penrose, Du Pont, Page, McLean, Kenyon.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA—Gallinger, Chairman; Dillingham, Curtis, Jones, Oliver, Lorimer, Works, Kenyon.

IMMIGRATION—Lodge, Chairman; Dillingham, Penrose, Brown, Richardson, Burton, Gronna.

INTEROCEANIC CANALS—Brandegee, Chairman: Borah, Crawford, Bristow, Perkins, Page, Jones, Townsend.

PATENTS—Brown, Chairman; Brandegee, Kenyon, Works.

PENSIONS—McCumber, Chairman; Burnham, Smoot, Curtis, Du Pont, Brown, Bradley, Poindexter.

PRINTING—Smoot, Chairman; Gallinger, Richardson, Page, Kenyon.

CIVIL SERVICE—Cummins, Chairman; La Follette, Lodge, Smoot, Borah, Dixon, Gallinger.

CUBAN RELATIONS—Page, Chairman; Burnham, Clapp, Curtis, Crane, Kenyon.

PACIFIC ISLANDS AND PORTO RICO—Richardson, Chairman; Clapp, Lorimer, Nelson, Burnham, Brandegee, Poindexter.

PHILIPPINES—Guggenheim, Chairman; Lodge, Nixon, Heyburn, Bristow, Crawford, McLean, Lippitt.

It was reported that the progressives are not in accord as to the extent to which they should go as a group in showing their resentment at what they term the high-handed methods of the regulars in making the committee assignments. Most of them expressed satisfaction with their assignments and appeared to believe that they had been dealt with liberally. All of them seemed to feel, however, that there had been a studied effort to minimize their representative on the two important Committees of Inter-State Commerce and Finance, which deal with legislative questions in which the progressive group has its liveliest interest.

In the make-up of the minority committee assignments the Democratic progressives have carried things with a high hand. Their assignment of three entirely new men—all low tariff—to the Finance Committee has already been published. In the important committees on Privileges and Elections and Inter-State and Foreign Commerce they have followed practically the same course, and quite disregarded the rule of seniority.

Two anti-Lorimer men have been selected for the Privileges and Elections Committee. They are Senators Kern of Indiana and Lea of Tennessee, both in their first term. One replaces Mr. Frazier of Tennessee, who refused to sign the majority report exonerating Mr. Lorimer, and the other takes the additional place given the minority on that committee. As Mr. Clapp of Minnesota and Mr. Jones of Washington—both of whom opposed Mr. Lorimer's right to his seat—have been added to the Republican side, there will be a strong nucleus around which the anti-Lorimer men can rally.

Senator Taylor of Tennessee, who made his reputation by fiddling his way through a successful campaign for the Governorship of his State, has been removed by his colleagues from the Committee on Inter-State and Foreign Commerce and three radicals have been added to it. Senator Gore is the only one of them who has seen previous service in the Senate, and he is a strong Bryan man. The other two appointees are Mr. Watson of West Virginia and Mr. Pomerene of Ohio. It has been thought that Mr. Watson, coming from West Virginia, would naturally be affiliated with the railroads. But an investigation has convinced the Democratic leaders that his interests are those of the shipper, as he owns shares in mines that are said to be independent of the lines which carry his minerals.

CANADA MAY BAR NEGROES.

Tells Us Inadaptability to Cold May Make Them Public Charges.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Plans of the Dominion of Canada to adopt restrictive measures against the immigration into that country of the American negro was the subject of a conference to-day between Assistant Secretary of State Wilson and John E. Jones, Consul General of the United States at Winnipeg.

Mr. Jones presented a memorandum from the Canadian immigration authorities indicating that the American negro may be barred on the ground that he could not become adapted to the rigorous northern climate and consequently might become a public charge. Such action is authorized by the Immigration act of Canada.

FETES WHEN CANAL OPENS.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—With the turning of water into the Panama Canal, between September and November, 1913, the Southern States, acting as combined hosts, will commemorate the event by a series of conventions in various cities affecting every chief interest of the South, according to an announcement to-day by the Southern Commercial Congress, which will direct the movement.

Louisiana will arrange a series of land and water pageants, and excursions to the canal will be provided for business men attending the conventions. No exposition features are to be included in the celebration.

Smith Gray & Co.

Foremost Clothiers Since 1845

SPECIAL

2500 Smith Gray & Co. Suits and Spring Coats at 15.50 and 18.50

Wonderful values at 20.00, 22.50 and 25.00

The purpose of these special values is to increase the sales of Smith Gray & Co. clothes to the extent that four shall know the goodness of Smith Gray & Co. clothes, where heretofore only one knew—because we are confident that once you know Smith Gray & Co. quality you will always be a Smith Gray & Co. customer.

Every one of these garments was tailored and designed in the Smith Gray & Co. tailoring plant by the Smith Gray & Co. tailormen, whose workmanship and style have been the accepted fine clothes standard for more than three generations. Couple the fine tailoring, the distinctive style with the exclusive designs of the high grade fabrics and you have garments of the very highest standard—such as are to be found only in the Smith Gray & Co. stores.

You may better judge these wonderful values when you consider that every fabric is the absolute highest standard in quality for 20.00, 22.50 and 25.00, and if Smith Gray & Co. were not their own manufacturers and large direct from the mill buyers of fabrics, they could not regularly sell them as low as 20.00 to 25.00.

Nearly every fabric is exclusive in design and woven specially for Smith Gray & Co. from ideas that will not be shown elsewhere for another season.

You may also judge these wonderful values from the fact that the tailoring is of higher quality—more uniform in its fineness than is usually found in 20.00 to 25.00 garments—because at no higher price can you find ready-for-service tailoring that will excel the Smith Gray & Co. workmanship and very few garments can you find at 20.00 to 25.00 of equal tailoring.

We know that these are the most wonderful fine clothes values that have ever been created in New York—and every man and young man, who had expected to pay 20.00 to 25.00 or even more for his Spring suit or overcoat, should come to a Smith Gray & Co. store, for he will surely save 4.50 to 7.00 and be sure of garments distinctive in style and of highest possible quality.

There are sizes, models, fabrics and designs for men, young men and boys of every style and good taste idea.

15.50 for standard value 20.00 and 22.50 Spring Coats and Suits. Included are suits of velours, cassimeres and worsted finished cheviots—new grays, tans, browns and neat mixtures—overcoats include black, Oxford and smart grays, tans and browns in exclusive weaves and designs.

18.50 for standard value 22.50 and 25.00 Spring Suits and Spring Coats. Suits include blue serge of fine all Australian stock, yarn dyed worsteds and high grade velours—nearly all are exclusive and advance styles. Overcoats include very smart new grays, tans, browns and neat dark effects—all are advanced in style and many will not be shown elsewhere for another season.

Here It Is! The Annual Sale of

"Kingly" Trousers at $2, $3 and $4

This Event Is Usually Held the First Week in May. A Week Earlier This Year Because of Greater Quantities.

In addition to the usual assortments represented in this most important trouser sale of the entire Spring and Summer seasons, we were fortunate, this year, in securing the complete sample line from the showrooms and the traveling salesmen's samples. This makes an addition of nearly 1400 pairs of trousers. COMBINED, THE STOCKS ARE THE BIGGEST THAT WE HAVE EVER PRESENTED FOR SPECIAL SELLING AT THE THREE POPULAR PRICES NAMED.

Now, Before Saying Another Word About the Styles or Materials, We Want You to Know

That every pair of "Kingly" trousers is cut separately—that's what makes 'em so shapely.

That every pair of "Kingly" trousers is made of cold-water-shrunk materials.

That the seams in every pair of "Kingly" trousers are sewed with Belding Bros.' cable-cord silk.

That every pair of "Kingly" trousers (even when purchased in one of our special sales) is GUARANTEED. If any pair does not give satisfaction, we give you a NEW pair, promptly and pleasantly.

The "Kingly" Trousers at $2 Here you may choose from "samples" and regular stock. Thousands of pairs—few worth less than $3. Materials are principally black thibets, striped worsteds and cassimeres; every waist-measure from 28 to 54.

The "Kingly" Trousers at $3 466 pairs of these trousers were made for regular selling at $3.50 and $4. The remainder are showroom and traveling salesmen's samples—average value $4. Materials include striped worsteds, black thibets, black diagonals, and all-wool blue serge. Your choice of "cuffed" or plain-bottom trousers.

The "Kingly" Trousers at $4

Fully 2,000 pairs of worsted trousers, fresh from the hands of the tailors; highest-class materials; exclusive in pattern; newest weaves for Spring and Summer. ASSOCIATED PRESS RE-ELECTS OFFICERS

Publishers Order Committee to Investigate Plans to Check "Free Publicity Evil."

RIDDER ON INEFFICIENCY

Attacks Papermakers and Workmen Who Shirk—Taft to be Guest of Honor at Joint Session To-night.

The new Board of Directors of the Associated Press, which is holding its annual convention this week at the Waldorf-Astoria, met yesterday morning at the general offices of the association, 195 Broadway, and unanimously re-elected the present officers. They are:

President, Frank B. Noyes of The Washington Star; First Vice President, R. M. Johnston of The Houston Post; Second Vice President, Frank P. McLennan of The Topeka (Kan.) State Journal; Secretary and General Manager, Melville E. Stone; Treasurer, J. R. Youatt. Executive Committee: Frank B. Noyes, Victor F. Lawson of The Chicago Daily News, Charles W. Knapp of The St. Louis Republic, Charles Hopkins Clark of The Hartford Courant, Adolph S. Ochs of THE NEW YORK TIMES, Gen. Charles H. Taylor of The Boston Globe, and W. L. McLean of The Philadelphia Bulletin.

The convention of the Associated Press is practically over. Most of the members, however, will remain in the city to attend the meetings of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association. The joint dinner of the two associations will be held to-night at the Waldorf. It promises to be one of the most successful dinners the organizations have ever held. Practically every seat is taken, even in the balcony, where the wives and women friends of the members will be entertained.

President Taft is to be the guest of honor, and he will speak on matters concerning the newspaper business. Oswald G. Villard of The New York Evening Post Post is to be toastmaster, and other speakers will be J. R. MacKay, President of the Canadian Press, Limited; William Barton Northrup, K. C., member of Parliament or the Dominion of Canada; H. E. Manuel de Zamacona, Mexican Ambassador; Dr. David Jayne Hill, United States Ambassador to Germany, and Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University. Among the guests will be Baron Hengelmüller, Austrian Ambassador; Count von Bernstorff, German Ambassador, and probably James Bryce, the British Ambassador. There have been more than 800 applicants for seats, fully 200 more than attended last year.

Yesterday afternoon interest centred in the deliberations of the Publishers' Association. At the morning session General Manager Lincoln B. Palmer read a paper on "The Free Publicity Evil." He argued that drastic measures should be taken by the organization to put a stop to certain kinds of free publicity. Legitimate theatrical publicity was exempted. It was decided to refer the matter to a special committee, which is to report later to the Advertising Agency Committee, of which Don Seitz of The New York World is Chairman.

The meeting was presided over by Bruce Haldeman of The Louisville Courier-Journal, as Herman Ridder, the President, was at the Directors' meeting of the Associated Press.

At the afternoon session, at which Mr. Ridder presided and at which there was a full attendance, papers on "Advertising," "Circulation," and "Ways and Means for Extending the Capacities of Plants" were read. Mr. Ridder made an address on "Efficiency in Newspaper Management," saying in part:

"We pay over fifty-five million dollars a year for the newsprint paper which we use, yet we have no standards except those of weight, fixed for us by unlawful combinations of papermakers, whose aim was to increase the weight and cost of paper sold to us. Our methods in the use of paper are so whimsical that a mill equipped to meet all of our needs would require 165 distinct stocks of cores to provide for our varied width of rolls. Our workmen gather up whatever methods or traditions there are in the business by absorption or observation of those immediately around them.

"Many of us try to obtain ready-made, competent managers by hiring men whom others have trained, instead of applying ourselves to that important work of education and development. The labor unions are destroying incentive for efficient labor. They seem to be arrayed against promotion or the culling out of competents from incompetents. They bring every member to a dead level of efficiency, and that level is usually below that of the most inferior workman in the shop. They are against bonuses. Many labor unions deliberately plan to curtail output under the mistaken idea that they are increasing employment. It is notorious that many workmen turn out just as little as they can safely do. 'Underworking' or 'soldiering' is almost universal. It is more than a National evil, because it extends to other countries. The conditions which permit it are intolerable and should be seriously studied and corrected.

"The business of print papermaking is in a most primitive stage. In every paper mill, with only two or three exceptions, the method of beating or mixing the materials to be used in the making of paper is identical with that which prevailed 200 years ago. Forester Pinchot said that of three trees cut in the woods for papermaking only one went into paper. Recent experiments made in Germany indicate that mechanical pulp can be made with one-third of the power now used. In other words, our pulp grinding capacity may be multiplied soon by three. I think I can safely say that every invention which saved labor in newspaper production increased the number of men employed and shortened their hours of labor and improved their conditions."

The topic this morning will be labor, and Presidents of the various labor unions whose fields take in the newspaper industry will speak. Among the speakers will probably be President James M. Lynch of the International Typographical Union and President George Berry of the International Printing Pressmen's Assistants' Union.

At the final meeting of the association to-morrow Mr. Ridder's resignation as President will be acted upon and his successor elected. In a brief letter to the association Mr. Ridder said that he had served as President four years and two months and he wanted to make way for a younger man.

"While I greatly appreciate," he wrote, "the courtesy with which I have been treated by the members, I also feel that with my advancing years I should relieve myself of the duties of that important office."

Bruce Haldeman, who has been Vice President of the association for two years, is prominently mentioned as Mr. Ridder's successor. Other officers whose terms expire are Elbert H. Baker of The Cleveland Plain Dealer and Boston Traveler, Secretary, and William J. Pattison of The New York Evening Post, Treasurer. Members of the Board of Directors whose terms expire are Charles W. Hornick of The San Francisco Call, Charles H. Taylor, Jr., of The Boston Globe, and John B. Townsend of The Philadelphia Press. The Directors who will hold over are Hilton U. Brown of The Indianapolis News, Cande Hamlin of The New York Tribune, Frank P. Glass of The Montgomery Advertiser, and Charles W. Knapp of The St. Louis Republic.

URGES CLEAN ADVERTISING.

William C. Freeman Gives the Daily Newspaper Club His Views.

Topics of interest to advertisers were discussed in brief speeches at the Daily Newspaper Club dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria last night. William C. Freeman made a plea to the newspaper men present to publish nothing but clean advertising. He compared the newspapers of to-day with those of a decade ago before the magazines had begun their attack on dishonest and indecent advertising, and said that there was still room for improvement in certain newspapers.

"Offensive and indecent advertisements are a disgrace to the newspaper business and it is the duty of the publishers to clean them out," he said. "When the patrons of a paper realize they can put faith and trust in the advertisements which the paper publishes, the advertising power of the journal becomes just so much greater."

The other speakers were Harry J. Prudden, who spoke on "Newspaper Rates—Just and Unjust"; John Lee Mahin, whose subject was "How Newspaper Advertising Can Be Made Preferable to Sampling"; Thomas E. Dockrell, "The Daily Newspaper—Its Field and Value to National Advertisers"; Charles A. Carlisle, "Tradition, Publicity, Efficiency, and Copartnership"; Mr. Gunnison, publisher of The Brooklyn Eagle, and Bruce Haldeman of The Louisville Courier-Journal. Louis Wiley, President of the club, presided at the dinner, which was attended by about 100.

A QUICKER ATLANTIC ROUTE.

Plan for Railway to and Port in Labrador Likely to be Carried Out.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, April 26.—It is probable that a much speedier delivery of European mail in Chicago and other points in the United States will shortly be inaugurated.

After the Quebec and Saguenay Railway is completed to Murray Bay it will, if present plans are carried out, be extended along the north shore to Cape St. Charles Bay, which will give a port on the east coast of Labrador, just outside the Straits of Belle Isle.

The bay is open all the year, and it is asserted that fast steamers could cross to Cape St. Charles Bay from Liverpool in time which would enable mails to be delivered in Chicago thirty hours before they could be landed in New York by the present routes.

J. N. Greenshields, who is representing the Candian interests behind the project, is in London forming a syndicate to undertake the work.

HAS NOT BACON'S MSS. YET.

But Dr. Owen Is Encouraged—Work in the Wye Renewed Yesterday.

CHEPSTOW, Monmouthshire, April 26.—At noon to-day Dr. Orville W. Owen of Detroit and his assistants renewed their work in the bed of the River Wye. The American believes that the boatlike structure discovered at the bottom of the river is the long-hidden cache supposed to contain Francis Bacon's manuscripts.

To-day's operations were confined to an area inclosed by logs, forming something in the nature of a cofferdam.

A deposit of stones was removed and a layer of clay was reached. Sounding rods were then put down and struck a hard surface.

"I think it is most promising," said Dr. Owen, "and the best thing we have found. Planking is revealed, proving that at some date men stood there to receive mud as it was shoveled up. Why were they excavating if not to bury boxes?"

No further developments are expected immediately, as it will take two tides to clear away the clay covering the hard bottom touched by the sounding rods.

MARRIES HIS STENOGRAPHER.

Theodore Starrett, ex-President of Starrett-Thompson Co., Weds.

Theodore Starrett, once President of the Starrett-Thompson Company, one of the biggest construction firms in the country, was married on Tuesday afternoon one hour after the license had been issued to Miss Elsie Ayres, his stenographer, it was learned yesterday.

Mr. Starrett wished to avoid publicity in every way, and so he obtained the license in New Jersey. He drove the bride, accompanied by Miss Charlotte Coe, with whom she was stopping, in his car, acting as his own chauffeur, to the Fort Lee Ferry. In Paterson Mr. Starrett appealed to the Register of Vital Statistics for a minister, and he finally selected the Rev. Dr. T. J. Smith of the Totowa Methodist Church, Totowa, being only a few miles from Paterson. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Starrett returned to New York.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

VIENNA, April 26.—The projected meeting between Emperor Francis Joseph and King Peter of Servia at Budapest has been deferred, owing, it is stated, to the condition of the Emperor's health. The Emperor has conveyed his regrets to King Peter, but there is a general belief that the visit was postponed owing to political difficulties.

LONDON, April 26.—The only amendment to the Parliament bill discussed in the House of Commons to-day was one proposing that a bill rejected thrice by the House of Lords be submitted to a referendum. It was moved by Mr. Balfour, and was eventually rejected by a vote of 286 to 164.

RAILROADS INDICTED FOR REBATES ON ORE

Pennsylvania, Lake Shore, "Nickel Plate," and Bessemer Railways Chief Defendants.

SUITS TO BE BEGUN AT ONCE

Railway Officials Charged as Individuals with Conspiracy—Steel Trust May Be Involved.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, April 26.—Secret indictments against Dan R. Hanna, Robert I. Ireland of the M. A. Hanna Company, and D. T. McCabe, Fourth Vice President of the Pennsylvania road, and seventeen indictments against the Lake Shore, Pennsylvania, Bessemer & Lake Erie, and the Nickel Plate Railroads were returned to-day by the Federal Grand Jury which has been investigating charges of rebating against railroads and ore shippers in this region. Conspiracy on the part of railroads, ore shippers, and dock companies in granting rebates is charged. No arrests have been made.

The three individuals are charged in the indictments with conspiring to violate the Elkins law. A maximum penalty of two years in the penitentiary and a $10,000 fine is provided by law.

D. R. Hanna and D. T. McCabe are indicted on the charge of signing a contract under which the Hanna Company is alleged to have promised to rebate to individual shippers the profits of the Ohio and Western Pennsylvania Dock Company, which is also indicted. The dock company was organized by M. A. Hanna & Co., and the docks themselves were leased by the Pennsylvania to the Hanna interests.

One exhibit alone shows the alleged payment of $50,111.93 as part of earnings of the dock company to the Carnegie Steel Company.

As a result of the investigation which resulted in the indictments suits will be begun against a number of subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation.

Evidence produced before the Grand Jury shows that the railroads own the dock companies and lease the docks to operating companies under different names. Testimony was introduced to show that railroads arrange for the dock companies to unload vessels and load cars, and vice versa, and out of the amounts the railroads have paid the dock companies the dock companies have rebated to the shippers hundreds of thousands of dollars. In the rebate indictments the railroads are indicted on charges of giving rebates, and in the joint indictments with the dock companies they are charged with having entered into a conspiracy to violate the Elkins law.

Besides the suits planned against the Steel Trust subsidiaries others are contemplated against certain large independent shippers.

The four railroads, if convicted on all counts of the indictments, would be liable to fines aggregating $2,020,000.

The Pennsylvania alone would be liable to $700,000, the Lake Shore to $640,000, the Bessemer & Lake Erie to $560,000, and the Nickel Plate to $120,000. The dock companies are liable only to nominal fines of over $5,000 for each offense.

The indictments against the corporations are as follows:

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad Company and the Angeline Dock Company of Ashtabula, Ohio, conspiracy to violate the Elkins act, one count.

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad Company and the Mahoning and Shenango Dock Company of Ashtabula, Ohio, same charge, one count.

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad Company and the Union Dock Company, Ashtabula, Ohio, same charge, one count.

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad Company and the Ashtabula Dock Company, same charge, one count.

Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad Company and the Pittsburg and Conneaut Dock Company, same charge, one count.

The Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad Company and the Pittsburg and Conneaut Dock Company, same charge, one count.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, charged with rebating, thirty-five counts.

Tho Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad Company, charged with rebating, thirty-two counts.

The Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad Company, charged with rebating, twenty-eight counts.

The New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad, charged with rebating, six counts.

District Attorney W. L. Day announced immediately after the filing of the report that "large and important suits" would be begun at once. The cases are Inter-State Commerce Commission cases brought to insure the enforcement of published ore shipping rates. The Government will seek to show that the indicted railroad companies own docking facilities in Ashtabula and Conneaut Harbors; that these were operated by companies which were in effect "hired" by the railroads; that the railroads paid excessive rates to the docking companies for loading and unloading iron ore; that the docking companies paid over a portion of the money thus received to the shippers, and that the whole constitutes a conspiracy in violation of the Elkins law.

The penalty for rebating is a fine of not less than $1,000 nor more than $20,000 with imprisonment not to exceed two years. The penalty for conspiracy is not to exceed a fine of $10,000 and imprisonment not to exceed two years. In addition, under the Elkins law, the Government has the right to bring civil suit for three times the amount of money rebated. It would be possible, in case of conviction, for the Government to collect many millions of dollars.

The investigation leading up to to-day's action of the Grand Jury was started several months ago and is the first Government inquiry into ore transportation methods in the lower lake regions. The matter was brought to the Federal Grand Jury's attention three weeks ago.

District Attorney W. L. Day and his assistants, Attorney Joseph G. Fogg and J. S. Bachman, Attorney John H. Marble, for the Inter-State Commerce Commission, and Attorney R. C. Marshall, for the Department of Justice, have prepared the case. About forty witnesses were examined before the Grand Jury, including officials representing the railroads and ore companies from the lakes to Kentucky. Among these were representatives of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, Pittsburg; the Carnegie Steel Company, Pittsburg; the M. A. Hanna Company, Cleveland; the Wheeling Steel and Iron Company, the Ashland Iron and Mining Company, the American Steel and Wire Company, and the National Tube Company.

The Government's next step will be the issuance of warrants for the parties named in the secret indictments. It is District Attorney Day's intention to expedite matters as much as possible, as he is soon to assume the office of United States Federal Judge of the Cleveland district.

The real sensation of the case, Attorney Day said, would come with the divulging of the names of individuals indicted.

On petition of Attorney Day, United States Judge Killitts of Toledo, who received the report, ordered that the jury be excused, to hold itself in readiness for another call from the court.

Capt. Bremond's Column in a Critical Position—Is Short of Ammunition.

WON'T GET EXPECTED AID

Reinforcements Return to Alcazar, Owing to a Mistake—Situation in Fez Is Now Grave.

TANGIER, April 26.—News from Capt. Bremond, dated April 22, says that his column for the relief of Fez having received an aurgent summons from that city to create a diversion toward the Baselma region so as to relieve the pressure on Fez, where the situation had reached a critical stage, struck camp and commenced an arduous march, fighting every step of the way.

The Cherada tribesmen, although sixty or more were killed within a day or two, were attacking with the greatest fury and had received orders from the leaders to massacre all prisoners falling into their hands.

Late intelligence received here regarding the situation is that Capt. Bremond is now in a critical situation. He is short of ammunition, and is completely surrounded by Cherada tribesmen, who, far from being discouraged, have returned to the positions from which they were dislodged a few days ago.

By an unlucky chance, Capt. Boissot, who had been sent to Bremond's aid, when almost within reach, heard that Bremond, profiting by the fine weather, had struck camp and was pushing on to Fez. Boissot decided that he would be of no service to Bremond, and returned to Alcazar.

The Gharb tribesmen, who had been wavering, considering the departure of this column equivalent to a defeat, decided to join the revolt.

KITCHENER IN ROBES AT LAST

Takes Seat in House of Lords—Has Been a Peer Twelve Years.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 26.—Lord Kitchener took his seat in the House of Lords to-day for the first time, though he was created a peer over twelve years ago.

Wearing his peer's robes, Lord Kitchener walked to the table accompanied by his sponsors, Lords Morley and Milner, and took the oath and signed the roll as a Viscount. Then he exchanged formal bows with the Lord Chancellor, with whom he afterward shook hands.

After divesting himself of his robes Lord Kitchener took a seat on one of the cross-benches, which are usually regarded as non-party seats.

BALFOUR TO SECOND ASQUITH

Premier to Move Resolution at London Pro-Arbitration Meeting.

LONDON, April 26.—Both the Prime Minister and Mr. Balfour, the Opposition leader, will take a prominent part in the Anglo-American arbitration meeting which is to be held in the London Guildhall on Friday.

The Lord Mayor announces that Mr. Asquith will move, and Mr. Balfour will second, a resolution reading as follows:

"That this meeting of citizens of London, assembled in the Guildhall, cordially welcomes the proposal of the President of the United States in favor of a general treaty of arbitration between that country and the British Empire, and pledges its support to the principles of such a treaty as serving the higher interests of the two nations and as tending to promote the peace of the world."

At a banquet to a number of foreign Ministers and Consuls at the Mansion House to-night the Lord Mayor said he ventured to assure them that the negotiations looking to an arbitration treaty with the United States implied no unfriendliness to other nations, but should be regarded as a step in a great policy for securing universal peace. His hope was that, if these negotiations were successful, the example should be followed by other nations.

SUBWAY DECISION IN A FEW WEEKS

B. R. T. Offer Puts City in Position to Make the Best Business Deal, McAneny Asserts.

INTERBOROUGH STANDING PAT

Gaynor's Speech Had to Do with City's, Not Interborough's, Intentions—City Conferrees Meet To-day.

President McAneny of Manhattan, Chairman of the Transit Committee of the Board of Estimate, made yesterday a statement indicating the course that the subway negotiations would likely take in the light of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit offer, and declaring that a final solution would be reached within two or three weeks.

At the same time Mayor Gaynor, in a talk to reporters, explained certain assertions which he made in his speech on Tuesday which have been construed as implying knowledge on his part that the Interborough had a new subway offer under way. These assertions, the Mayor said, referred to the shape in which the Interborough's pending offer would be when it came out of the hands of the Joint Conference Committee of city officials. He did not volunteer any information as to the intention of the Interborough, either in the matter of departing from their Broadway ultimatum, or of granting modifications of their pending offer, or of submitting a new offer.

The impression was strengthened yesterday that the Interborough proposed to stand pat. President Shonts sent out word to a reporter that he had nothing to say, and another prominent Director of the Interborough declined to say whether or not the company proposed to recede in any particular. Mayor Gaynor, in the course of his talk with the reporters, made several criticisms of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit offer, notably that the Bronx lines were classed as extensions, and that it did not include a subway down Seventh Avenue past the Pennsylvania Station. The Pennsylvania Railroad interests, he declared, were much concerned over the absence of transit facilities under which their station suffers.

Mayor Gaynor indicated that he was disposed to concede the Brooklyn Rapid Transit entrance to Manhattan through the Centre Street loop subway, and then said that he understood that many persons were opposed to admitting the Brooklyn Rapid Transit to Broadway. This remark, in the light of his speech of Tuesday, was taken as indicating that he would support the Interborough in its Broadway ultimatum, when the line-up comes in the Board of Estimate. The stand the Interborough has taken in this particular precludes the treatment of the Interborough and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit offers as complemental, for while the Brooklyn Rapid Transit still expresses its willingness to limit its lines to those embraced in its offer of March 2, the occupancy of Broadway and Seventh Avenue to Fifty-ninth Street figures as a necessary condition of both its offers.

Mr. McAneny's Views.

Mr. McAneny's statement follows:

"The amended offer of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company as presented by Col. Williams yesterday contains many points in the city's favor which were conceded by the representatives of the B. R. T. as the result of conferences with the committee of the Board of Estimate and the Public Service Commission. The proposition of the Brooklyn company, as now outlined, presents, to my mind, the realization of lively and desirable competition in the bidding for the operation of future rapid transit lines. At the same time, it provides the city with an alternative to the Interborough proposition which will assure a comprehensive development of future facilities if the city and the Interborough fail to come together on the proposed modifications of the Interborough's offer.

"It may be well to point out at this time the course which the developments of the next fortnight are likely to take. Now that the Brooklyn company has formally stated its position it should not, in my judgment, require any appreciable time to complete any explanations of its offer which the officials of that company may wish to make to the city's conferrees. Inasmuch as the conferences with the Interborough representatives covered the entire ground of the suggested modifications of its plan, there need be no delay in submitting to the Interborough the list of proposed modifications suggested on behalf of the city.

"For the same reason, namely, that the representatives of the Interborough have thrashed out the questions which must underly any such modifications, I believe that the city is in a position to expect an answer from that company without any further delay. When such an answer shall have been received the Conference Committee of the Board of Estimate will be in a position to frame its report and recommendations to the board. The material for very much of its report is obviously already in hand as the result of the negotiations of the last three months.

City in Strongest Position.

"I expect to be able to return to my office the first of the week, and I am sure that all of the public officials who have been co-operating in this matter are as anxious to attain a speedy conclusion as I am. In what I have said, I have sought to make it clear that the subway competition is still broadly open, but now that we are in process of getting all of the facts before us with respect to the disposition of two responsible bidders, the city is in a stronger position than ever before to secure the best bargain for itself as the result of these bids, or of any other bids yet to be received. I believe that the next two or three weeks will see a final determination of this most important question.

"In this connection I believe it is fair to the city's conferrees to recall the fact that the conclusion reached will affect the development of the city's physical plan, the course of its finances, and, even, very possibly, the inter-relation of its political and social affairs for generations to come. It certainly would have been a hazardous thing to have submitted such a question to the snap judgments that might have been reached three months ago. If my committee had been willing to give the contract to the Interborough Rapid Transit Company on its own terms a settlement might have been reached, not in ninety days, but in nine.

"The committee, however, has acted upon a different theory. It believed and still believes that the city is not in the position of being compelled to take what any one may be willing to give it, either in the matter of routing the lines or in that of fixing the operating terms. I, for one, have always felt that the city should make its own transit plan, placing individual routes where they will do the most good and not necessarily with reference to their earning capacity alone nor to their relation to enterprises in real estate.

Getting the Best for the City.

"When the routes are fixed there are valuable franchises to offer, and it is a more fitting thing, in my judgment, that the city should do the offering, taking the best business deal it can get as a basis of operation, and that it should not necessarily shape its plans according merely to the first offers of those who seek to operate. The committee determined, in short, to get the best that it could for the city, and has never doubted the city's ability to carry its share of the financing for whatever plan may be adopted.

"The course which I advocated when the question was raised in the Board of Estimate last December, whether the board should in general commit itself to the Interborough offer or should exclude the possibility of considering that offer, or should undertake negotiations on the basis of a field open for the consideration of any or all offers made to the city was in line with the conviction under which my committee has acted. The committee was appointed on Jan. 26, three months ago to-day. It held its first session with the Public Service Commission on the day following, and has held forty sessions since that time.

"Every phase and detail of the Interborough Subway proposition, as well as the supplemental proposition for the extension and third tracking of the elevated lines, has been examined minutely. The pros and cons with relation to the various modifications proposed by ourselves and by other members of the Board of Estimate have been argued in all of their bearings. While the negotiations with the Interborough were in progress the Brooklyn Rapid Transit presented its plan for linking the Brooklyn lines with Manhattan by way of the Centre Street and Broadway subway loops.

"When the Interborough let it be known that it would withdraw its offer if the Brooklyn company were given access to Broadway it seemed eminently proper to the committee to develop the competitive element in the situation and to encourage the Brooklyn Rapid Transit to expand its proposition. The results are now pretty well known. And, in view of these results, I am obliged to hold, with due respect to the dissenting opinion of eminent gentlemen who called on the Mayor yesterday, that the three months have not been misspent, but that the city has obtained value for every day and every hour the subway negotiations have consumed."

Important Conference To-day.

A conference of members of the Public Service Commission and the Board of Estimate Transit Committee will be held to-day at the house of Mr. McAneny, and it is probable that Col. Williams may be asked to attend some part of this session and conclude the explanation of the points covered by Tuesday's letter. Yesterday there was some discussion of the terms on which the Brooklyn Rapid Transit proposed to be recompensed for the use of its elevated lines embraced in the Brooklyn Union Elevated System, which under its offer are to be tied into the general operating scheme.

The company's offer states that after operating expenses are paid the Brooklyn Rapid Transit shall receive out of the general fund into which all the earnings on the whole system are turned an amount equal to its elevated net earnings for the last preceding year before the general system is put into operation. In quarters friendly to the Interborough, it was suggested that that company might be willing to have the receipts over its subways present and extended put into one general fund if it could receive, after the operating expenses had been paid, an amount equal to its net earnings for the last year preceding the commencement of operation on the enlarged basis.

It was pointed out, however, that the net earnings on the Brooklyn Union Elevated lines last year were equivalent to a little less than 6 per cent. on the company's actual expenditure on those lines, and that the net earnings of the Interborough Subway equaled 17.2 per cent. on the company's investment.

HE WALKS IN HIS SLEEP.

"Little Paul" Has a Way of Strolling About Hotels in His Pajamas.

A short, slender, well-dressed man about 50 years old, with silver white hair and beard, walked into the Hotel Gotham yesterday afternoon and asked J. T. McGoldrick, assistant manager, if he could have a double room and bath for himself and his son. He wanted the room to be in the most secluded part of the hotel and as high as possible. Mr. McGoldrick said there was a vacant room in the southeast corner, which might suit the applicant, who said that his name was Peter J. Sansonne of San Francisco.

"You see, my son Paul—little Paul we call him at home—has peculiarities which are resented sometimes by nervous people, but they are quite harmless, I assure you."

"What does he do?" asked the hotel man.

"Well, he has been in the Philippines for some years and has acquired the habit of walking in his sleep. Of course, I always take the key out after locking the bedroom door," said Mr. Sansonne earnestly, "but sometimes little Paul finds it and gets away from me."

"What does he do when he walks in his sleep?" asked the assistant manager.

"He just walks around the corridors in his pajamas and plays a sort of tom-tom while he sings native songs, but he won't make any trouble, as I always wake up and hear him as soon as he gets started, and that's why I want to get in a quiet part of the house."

While Mr. McGoldrick was trying to think of the name of the people who had engaged the rooms for last night a big touring car drove up to the door and a man 6 feet 3 inches tall and 45 around the chest, with a voice that thrilled the bellboys to their boots, swung into the hotel, bowling a porter off a flight of steps in his passage.

"Have you got the room, in a quiet corner, my father, engaged for us?"

Then the assistant manager turned to the room clerk and asked if Mr. Culpepper of St. Louis had not reserved the rooms on Monday by wire.

"Yes, Sir," said the clerk.

There were no other rooms to be had at the Gotham, and as Mr. Sansonne turned to go out he said plaintively to his son: "It's strange, Paul, that we have had this difficulty in getting rooms ever since we left home."

SOBS INTERRUPTED SERMON.

Solemn High Mass for the Victims of the "Triangle" Disaster.

Hundreds of relatives and friends of the Triangle Waist Company's employes who lost their lives in the Asch Building fire on March 25 attended a solemn high mass for the dead in the little church of Madonna di Pompeii, at Bleecker and Downing Streets, yesterday morning. The church was completely filled and several hundred persons remained at the doors. Most of those present were Italian women who had lost relatives in the fire, eighteen of the victims having been parishioners of the church.

Father Coppo, who delivered the sermon, spoke eloquently of those who perished in the fire, and his auditors several times broke into sobs, and which once were so violent that the sermon was interrupted.

Women from the Women's Trade Union League distributed circulars in English, Italian, and Yiddish among the worshippers, asking for general co-operation in a plan to compel the enforcement of proper protective laws.

Stover's Appointment of Lee Upheld.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission took up yesterday the appointment by Park Commissioner Stover of William J. Lee as Supervisor of Playgrounds, and after a brief hearing dismissed the complaint made by the Civil Service Reform Association that the appointment was purely a political one and that Lee was not competent. He was Ernest Harvier's chief lieutenant in the Democratic Union.

NOT A KIND WORD FOR TOMKINS PLAN

Board of Estimate and Men Before It Rap Dock Commissioner's Terminal.

TOO GOOD FOR THE CENTRAL

Controller Asks Why City Should Build an Elevated for One Road—"Grab and a Steal," Asserts Another.

Dock Commissioner Tomkins had an uncomforable time at the continued hearing yesterday before the Board of Estimate's West Side Track Removal Committee on his plan for an elevated joint freight terminal. Nearly every one took a rap at the scheme. Several of the speakers declared that the Commissioner seemed anxious to cater solely to the wants of the New York Central.

The majority of the committee has reported in favor of the depression of the Central's tracks. Controller Prendergast, a member of the majority, turned to the Commissioner yesterday and asked: "Why do you want to give the Central just what it wants? It represents less than 20 per cent. of the carrying capacity of all the roads entering the city. Why should we build an elevated road for this faction of one-fifth while the other four-fifths say they do not want it."

The Commissioner replied that he was considering the traffic of the port in general.

"Then why give so much consideration to the Central?" persisted President Mitchel of the Board of Aldermen, also a member of the majority.

"This elevated structure is only a part of my whole scheme for the west side improvement," replied the Commissioner.

Reginald P. Bolton, representing the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association, declared that the city couldn't afford the expenditure of $100,000,000 for the improvement.

"The cost of this elevated structure is estimated at only $8,000,000," put in Commissioner Tomkins.

"But you just said that it is only part of your whole scheme," replied Mr. Bolton. "Furthermore, I do not believe you have any right to force your personal views as against the opinion of the majority of the committee of which you are a member."

Dr. Edward Zimmerman, representing the Greenwich Village Taxpayers' Association, declared: "This elevated railroad is nothing more than the old West Street grab, and it is a steal pure and simple."

Frank Joyce of the Central Federated Union said that the 300,000 members of his organization were against Mr. Tomkins's plan and in favor of the depression of the tracks. "If you adopt the majority report," said he, "it will bring relief and joy to the citizens of the neighborhood within six months. The other scheme is a New York Central proposition solely, and has no regard for any other road that comes into the city. The city will build the road and the Central will control it."

W. G. Pollock, the head of the Marine Department of the Central, spoke against that part of the majority plan which proposes the discontinuance of the lower section of the present tracks and the handling of the freight by water. "This would be penalizing us," said he. "I think any practical man will admit that as far as the Central is concerned, it would be quicker and cheaper for us to handle the freight by a continuous rail route."

"Would the Central consent to the joint use of this elevated structure with all the other roads?" asked Mr. Mitchel.

"I cannot answer that," replied Mr. Pollock. "I would have to consult my superior officers."

"Would the Central be willing to surrender its piers below Twenty-third Street to the city if this structure was built?" continued Mr. Mitchel.

"I do not think so," was the reply.

"In other words, then, the Central, through purely human, selfish motives, is not willing to give up anything that it thinks it has a right to unless it gets something just as good or better from the city?"

"We will insist on our rights, of course," replied Mr. Pollock.

Mr. Mitchel then turned to Supt. Parker of the Pennsylvania Railroad and asked him if his company would ask for the privilege of the use of the elevated structure.

"It would not," he replied promptly. "We are in favor of the majority plan which provides for unit terminals for our use. We can only handle our business by floats from the other side of the river."

A representative of the Lehigh Valley Railroad replied to the question in the same way.

SUFFRAGETTES HERE TO VISIT

Have Gone to Prison for Their Beliefs—Menagerie in the Clyde.

Mrs. Anna Tolson, her daughters, Helen and Catherine, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. M. F. E. Tolson, all suffragettes who have served time in English jails for the cause, arrived here yesterday on the Royal Mail Steam Packet Clyde from Southampton via the West Indies. They will leave by the same liner for home on Saturday. Mrs. Tolson said that they had come for the voyage and to see what New York City was like. It was purely a holiday, she said, and they would not take part in any suffragette work here.

N. E. Salsich, a business man of Harrisburg, Penn., who returned from Panama, said the Isthmus appeared to be entirely free from noxious insects. He went the entire length of the canal, he said, and saw not a single mosquito and only five flies.

The after part of the Clyde looked like a menageries. Perched on logs and walking about the deck were 100 ringtail monkeys with quaint old faces fringed with whiskers of delicate hues from French puce to Formosa heliotrope. There was also a black spider monkey, all legs and fur, that made him a weird object in the semi-light under the turtle back.

There were also 500 parroquets, 200 yellow-headed parrots, and twenty brilliantly plumaged macaws, who bit at the sailors' feet as they walked about the deck.

All the animals and birds came from Colombia, consigned to William Bartell & Co., and in charge of B. Rober, who makes bi-annual trips to Central America for his firm.

Seligman Gives City a Fountain.

Park Commissioner Stover announced yesterday the gift of a drinking fountain by Alfred Seligman, to be placed in one of the playgrounds in Manhattan. The fountain is the work of Edgar Walter of 33 West Sixty-seventh Street, a pupil of Rodin, the French sculptor. It represents a large rock with the base hollowed out in a cave. From the entrance of the cave a faun looks at a bear on top of it.

"GRAPE-NUTS."

DAME NATURE HINTS
When the Food Is Not Suited.

When Nature gives her signal that something is wrong it is generally with the food; the old Dame is always faithful and one should act at once.

To put off the change is to risk that which may be irreparable. An Arizona man says:

"For years I could not safely eat any breakfast. I tried all kinds of breakfast foods, but they were all soft, starchy messes, which gave me distressing headaches. I drank strong coffee, too, which appeared to benefit me at the time, but added to the headaches afterwards. Toast and coffee were no better, for I found the toast very constipating.

"A friend persuaded me to quit coffee and the starchy breakfast foods and use Postum and Grape-Nuts instead. I shall never regret taking his advice.

"The change they have worked in me is wonderful. I now have no more of the distressing sensations in my stomach after eating, and I never have any headaches. I have gained 12 pounds in weight and feel better in every way. Grape-Nuts make a delicious as well as a nutritious dish, and I find that Postum is easily digested and never produces dyspepsia symptoms."

MACARTHUR FAMILY ENCOUNTER IN COURT

A TEMPORARY SEPARATION

Justice Maddox Gives Them Until June 20 to Reach a Reconciliation—Son-in-Law Is Blamed.

Personal encounters enlivened the suit for separation and alimony which, after thirty-two years of married life, Mrs. Mary Ann MacArthur, 60 years old, brought against her husband, James MacArthur, 52 years old, builder and contractor, which was concluded last evening before Justice Maddox in the Queens County Supreme Court. Two of the encounters occurred at the noon recess when two of MacArthur's stalwart sons collided with John C. Tatum, cotton broker, whose marriage to their sister is said to have started trouble in the family.

Mrs. Tatum, with her mother and younger sister, had descended the Court House steps and was about to get in her motor car when Tatum interfered with a newspaper photographer. At that moment Arthur MacArthur stepped up to Tatum, and hot words were exchanged. Tatum jumped into the automobile and drove away. On his return to the Court House after the noon recess he met John MacArthur, the eldest of the MacArthur family, in the vestibule of the Court House. Words were exchanged, but no blows were struck.

The stormy scene of the day followed the close of Justice Maddox's remarks when he rendered a decision providing for an interlocutory separation to date to June 20, when he said he hoped to hear that the couple had become reconciled. In the meantime he granted Mrs. MacArthur an allowance of $30 a week, with the express stipulation that she is not to live in the country mansion of her daughter, Mrs. Tatum, at Great Neck, L. I. Justice Maddox said he did not intend that his findings should be construed into a decree to keep the couple apart. He wanted to provide a way for their reconciliation.

Mr. MacArthur, who during a long ordeal on the witness stand had repeatedly protested with tears that he loved his wife and would gladly welcome a reconciliation, approached his wife. Calling her "mother," he extended his hands, but she thrust them aside and sprang to her feet. Mrs. Tatum and Miss Catharine MacArthur obstructed the way between their father and mother. Then they started to lead her away. MacArthur planted his sturdy form and again reached out toward his wife.

Becoming hysterical, Mrs. MacArthur waved him away and tried to escape past one of the tables. At this turn Catharine MacArthur planted herself in her father's way. Quickly he picked her up and tossed her out of the way.

The court room was in an uproar. Belated spectators crowded around the warring family, while court attendants intervened and Justice Maddox came running out from his chambers, his robe partly off. Mrs. MacArthur was sobbing hysterically, and Justice Maddox ordered that she be removed to his private room. He then directed the wranglers to leave the court room separtely.

The trial began on Tuesday afternoon, when Mrs. MacArthur testified to alleged abusive acts on the part of her husband which forced her to leave her home at 515 Beech Street, Richmond Hill, on the night of August 19, and go to the home of Mrs. Tatum at Great Neck where she has since been living together with her youngest daughter, Catherine. From the start Justice Maddox did all in his power to bring about a reconciliation.

Mr. MacArthur was the chief witness yesterday. Throughout his testimony he spoke endearingly of his wife. He said he wanted it to go in the record that she was a good woman. He called her "mother" when referring to her in his evidence. He said that just before his wife left their home he was driven from the house to seek peace and spent the night at a hotel in Brooklyn. He was accompanied by his daughter, Elizabeth.

When he got back the next day his wife was gone, the house was in disorder, and with tears streaming down his face he said that the photographs of his three dead children were placed on a table where they would confront him as he entered the house, while other photographs were missing or torn up and thrown on the floor. Following this he made two trips to the Tatum home to entreat his wife to return, and on his last visit he said he found his wife locked in a room and was compelled to force open the door to see her.

Toward the close of the trial Justice Maddox said he could see and would hold that the difference between the couple was due to one or more of their children.

"I have seen it before in the conduct of children," he added. "You can't sit still in court and not see the attitude."

In his address urging a reconciliation Justice Maddox said it was apparently a case of too much son-in-law, referring to Tatum.

LAWYER SENT TO THE TOMBS.

Ran Out of Court and Had to be Overpowered and Brought Back.

Charles H. Stoddard, a lawyer of 141 Broadway, was committed to the Tombs for five days yesterday by City Court Judge McAvoy, who also ordered him to pay a fine of $250 for criminal contempt of court. The sentence followed a defiance of the Judge's orders, a dash from the courtroom, a fight on the courthouse staris, and a chase through City Hall Park. Stoddard was caught and overpowered by court officers as he ran toward a ferry for New Jersey.

Stoddard had appeared before Judge McAvoy to argue a motion for the vacation of an order for his examination in supplementary proceedings. After hearing a long technical argument, Judge McAvoy denied the motion and said:

"Swear the witness." At this Stoddard jumped to his feet with a protest.

"I'm going to appeal," he said. "I refuse to be sworn."

"You must take the oath and be examined now," ruled Judge McAvoy.

"You can't make me take the oath," yelled Stoddard, and he ran for the door.

"Stop that man," shouted the Judge to his faithful attendant, Thomas Long. Two other blue-coated court attendants joined Long in the chase, but Stoddard turned on the first platform of the stairway and threw the attendants back. Before they could recover themselves he leaped down the stairs and into the park. He had a good start toward Broadway before he was overtaken and overpowered.

"This is one of the most flagrant cases of contempt that has ever come to my attention," said Judge McAvoy when Stoddard had been rearranged before him. "I'm not going to wait for a motion to punish you for contempt, but shall commit you on my own initiative."

Under Sheriff Cartwright came over from the Sheriff's Office to take Stoddard to the Tombs. He did not go willingly and had to be dragged along Lafayette Street. Rudolph Seligman, the lawyer who was about to examine Stoddard, said that the amount of the judgment which Stoddard had refused to pay was $70. Stoddard gave notice on Monday of an appeal from another judgment against him.

CARED FOR HER FOOTMAN.

Mrs. Pierce, Wife of Oil Magnate, Took Him to Hospital in Her Automobile.

Mrs. Henry Clay Pierce of 19 East Fifty-seventh Street, wife of the Texas oil magnate, played the good Samaritan to her footman, George Miller, yesterday morning, when he was injured by accidentally tripping and falling on the sidewalk in front of a millinery shop in Fifth Avenue. She hurriedly went to his assistance, and with the aid of her chauffeur placed him in her automobile. He was then taken to Flower Hospital, where it was found that he had a fracture of the right arm and lacerations of the body.

Mrs. Pierce asked the hospital authorities to give him every possible care, without regard to expense.

UCHIDA AT ELLIS ISLAND.

Japanese Ambassador Sees 4,000 Immigrants in Course of Inspection.

Baron Uchida, Japanese Ambassador, his wife, Consul General Midzune, and several members of the Embassy at Washington made a tour of inspection of Ellis Island yesterday as the guests of Commissioner of Immigration William Williams.

It was a good day for the visitors at the Island, for nearly 4,000 persons were under inspection. The Ambassador expressed surprise at the rapidity and care with which the work was performed.

To Discuss Industrial Economics.

The subject of scientific management in its broad application to the general field of industry will be discussed by noted speakers in Carnegie Hall to-morrow night at a meeting under the auspices of the Civic Forum. Frederick W. Taylor, whose studies of process have been basic in much that has been done in the development of scientific management, will speak. Others will be Frank B. Gilbreth, who revolutionized the brick laying trade, and John Golden.

Your Summer Home Is Just As Pretty as You Care to Make It

And the Gimbel Upholstery Store can help to make it VERY charming, attractive and summery—no matter whether it is right here in New York, in some pleasant suburb, or way out among the hills or by the seashore, where there's plenty of elbow room.

Let us show you the new wall-paper-and-chintz arrangements, of which we have designed a score—carried out with hangings, curtains and furniture covered to match—artistic treatments that are full of suggestion. "Why, you are regular decorating specialists!" said one woman to us the other day—and we admit the soft impeachment.

Here is, in fact, a wide floor devoted to all sorts of pretty things to make your home more livable this Summer. Cretonnes, chintzes and wall-papers are not all of them, by any means. See the cool new natural-color linen portieres and couch covers—some in novel drawn-work effects, or with a touch of color, if you wish it. See the delightful Summer curtains of fresh white muslin, with borders of bright flowers, printed or appliqued in cretonne, and with bed-sets to match, in many cases. See the pleasant materials for slip covers, which we will fit and make up quickly for your furniture—cool striped linens in new patterns.

Let us show you the new awnings that work like shades, and can be operated from the inside of the window—also all the new materials for awnings made in the usual way.

In short, permit this splendidly equipped Upholstery Store to have a hand in your Summer decorating plans—from giving you expert suggestions that shall cost you nothing, to carrying out your own ideas in a manner you will heartily like.

Here are prices of some of the things we have just mentioned:

Muslin Curtains with attractively colored borders at $1, $1.25, $1.75 and $2 pair. Bed-sets to match, single or full size, at $2.65 and $3.75 each.

Scrim Curtains with effective cretonne insertions and lace edges, at $7.75 to $10.50 pair; bed-sets to match at $11.25 to $15.

Many at Exceedingly Low Prices

Each tour of inspection of Oriental Rug stocks that we make gives us a better opinion of the Gimbel collection, both as to its well diversified character, and the very moderate fashion in which the Rugs are priced. Connoisseurs are not lacking to confirm our judgment.

Some even more than usually fortunate purchases of good Rugs of the much-sought-after large sizes, together with certain groups on which we have very materially reduced prices, form a very remarkable offering of these Carpet-size Rugs, which we particularly commend to those seeking handsome flooring-coverings for rooms of large size.

An idea of the extent of the collection may be gleaned from the fact that there is some

BOOKS. BOOKS.

"BOOKS," said he, "that you may carry to the fire and hold readily in your hand are the most useful after all."

Dr. Johnson's saying (quoted by Sir John Hawkins) dates from the period which saw the first appearance of the Encyclopaedia Britannica (1768). It has thus taken a century and a half for his ideal to be realized.

Convenient in Format

The word "format," which appears so frequently in these advertisements, is a technical French term employed by publishers to express an idea to which no single English word is quite equivalent. It comprises the joint conception of size and form and therefore by inference the conception of weight.

Very little reflection on the reader's part is needed to indicate the nature of the handicap imposed on previous editions of the Encyclopaedia Britannica by their inconvenient and even repellent format and, by contrast, of the advantages accruing from the substitution for the time-honored quarto of the past of a slim, flexible volume, occupying but one inch of shelf room as against three, weighing less than three pounds as against seven, yet embracing exactly the same contents. To quote from the very witty account of the matter which appeared in Truth (London):

> "Never since the law was written on tables of stone was there anything . . . so ponderous as each of the thirty and five volumes of that colossal 10th edition. Shortly after they were delivered to me by a Pickford's goods wagon I saw in an Anglican church how they were evidently intended to be read. There was a boy bent double, in the attitude of one who stands for leapfrog, with a massy book between his shoulders from which the officiating priest was reading. Now I could not afford the boy. But with the compact volumes—especially with the exquisitely slim and dainty India paper volumes—of the new edition, there is small need indeed of such a sturdy acolyte . . . They are indeed such a pleasure both to read and to handle that they will be used, not like their predecessors, as mere books of reference, but as a library."

If the reader will realize that the new format brings the 11th edition into the category of INTIMATE books; "books," to quote the great doctor, "that you may carry to the fire and hold readily in your hand"; he will understand the grounds of the belief of the publishers that the extraordinary merits of the innovation of India paper will prove an attraction hardly second to the value of the contents of the articles printed upon it. No longer will the mechanical restrictions of the bookmakers' art appear in the light of a necessary limit to the usefulness of a work of which the contents assuredly fit it above all other works to remain in constant use.

A Modern Work Adapted to Modern Needs

The new Encyclopaedia Britannica is a work of international scholarship to a degree never before attained. The editors approached their task in the spirit which recognizes that scholarship to-day knows no nationality. In pursuance of this policy, not only leading British, but American, French, and German authorities were enlisted as contributors. Every article in the new Encyclopaedia Britannica has therefore been written by a first-hand authority, irrespective of whether he happens to live in Great Britain or her colonies, in the United States, France, Germany, Japan, or any other civilized country. Three cases in point may be cited: the articles on Mahommedan institutions and Mahommedan law come from the Harftord Theological Seminary, being the work of Professor D. B. Macdonald, admittedly the best authority on these subjects; the chapter on the history of ancient China is the work of Professor Hirth of Columbia; and 64 articles connected with Persian history were written by Professor Edward Meyer of Berlin.

New Features

The 11th edition consists of 28 volumes and index, comprising 40,000 articles, 7,000 text illustrations, 450 full-page plates, and 569 maps. Among the new features are dictionary definitions (dealing with technical or scientific words), biographies of living celebrities in all countries, a complete history, under alphabetical headings, of classical antiquity, bibliographies of all important subjects, exhaustive accounts of all new countries, the first connected history of modern Europe, detailed and authoritative articles on industries and all practical subjects, and the latest results of archaeological research, of exploration, and scientific discovery. It is estimated that the new work contains more than twice as much information as the 9th edition, in little more than the same space, and is the most comprehensive and most authoritative repository of knowledge in existence.

Minimum Prices Until May 31st

Up to and including May 31st next (when the advance-of-publication prices must be withdrawn) applications will be accepted at the rate of $4.00 (India Paper $4.25) a volume (cloth) instead of $7.50, which will be the ultimate price of the new edition in its cheapest form, as it was the original price at which the volumes of the 9th edition were sold.

The work, in 28 volumes and Index, is in two forms:—

(1) On INDIA PAPER (very light and opaque) in Three Styles of Binding: CLOTH, FULL FLEXIBLE SHEEPSKIN, and FULL FLEXIBLE MOROCCO, the volumes each ONE INCH THICK (about 960 to 1,060 pages).

The India paper impression bound in either Full Sheep or Full Morocco is strongly recommended.

(2) On ordinary book-paper in Three Styles of Binding: CLOTH, HALF MOROCCO, and FULL MOROCCO, the volumes each 2¾ inches thick (about 960 to 1,060 pages).

Illustrated Prospectus (40 pages), 56 specimen pages on India paper, 4 specimen plates and form of application showing the special advance terms, will be sent upon receipt of request.

SCRAPPING THE CONSTITUTION.

Tuesday the New York Assembly adopted the resolution supporting the proposal to amend the Constitution so that Federal Senators shall be elected by the people. The vote of 105 to 30 cannot be said to reflect appreciation among the Assemblymen of the State of the fact that while they represent the people who elect them the Federal Senators represent States, not people. There never would or could have been any United States if the method of election now supported by thirty States had been proposed at the time the Constitution was adopted. The colonies were both independent and jealous, and cared more for the preservation of their individual entities, and the interests thereto appertaining, than they cared for the establishment of any theoretical equality of citizens, or for the equalizing of the colonies among themselves. Each of them was aware of its advantages, and they were animated by the desire to preserve them rather than to risk their existence by throwing them into the political melting pot. The slaveholding States could not consent either to manhood suffrage or personal equality. New Jersey would have been bled to death between New York and New Jersey if its rights against hostile tariffs had not been guaranteed by the Constitution. The united colonies had defeated a common enemy, but identity of blood and language could not obscure diversity of intrinsic interests. The convention of 1789 would have been disbanded by any proposal to equalize the States or to establish universal suffrage in the election of the upper chamber.

Other times other politics. The wisdom approved by a century's experience is mocked at by the people's champions. Arkansas approves the Federal income tax on the declared ground that New York would pay a million dollars where Arkansas would pay one dollar. Twenty-nine States agree with Arkansas. The proposal to elect Federal Senators by manhood suffrage—excepting, of course, where our colored fellow-citizens are in the majority—is similarly close to approval. The bars to the pillage of the rich States are falling. The deterioration of the suffrage which began in a false fraternity of blood is now further helped by a taste of the blood of the rich. It is difficult to rob individual capitalists, since even the poor perceive that it is impossible to have one law for the poor and another law for the rich. But it seems otherwise with the States. We are now about to equalize the States by erasing State lines in the new Nation, and to establish a suffrage which shall equalize fortunes by the operation of a suffrage addressed to that end rather than to the support of Government economically administered.

We are summoned to a new patriotism. We are to be Americans in order that Arkansas may benefit by the wealth of New Yorkers. The Federal Government is to do for the States what they used to do for themselves, and the resources which the States used to need for themselves are to be surrendered to support the multiplied activities of Federal officials. Already we have seen the States acting officially for the diversion of commerce from sister States and failing to find protection through the same Federal guardianship from which so much greater blessings are to flow when the new nationalism is in better working order. Already we have seen States charter commercial pirates whose activities have failed of control through regulation of inter-State commerce by that Federal Government to which such greater tasks are to be intrusted. The votes which have failed of their mark at close range within the States are to be more effective at a range across the continent. The Nation which was founded and which has survived because of the federation of the States into a Government of enumerated and limited powers is to be invigorated by the reversal of the policy which the world has so much admired and imitated.

It is only among ourselves that the institution of this sort of Government seems foolish and effete, and is thought subject to improvement by those incapable even of grasping and preserving its merits. How is it possible to [illegible] to intellectual bravery [illegible] greater than mere physical capacity to lead a battle charge? The work is well advanced. More than a majority of the States are already agreed, and there is hope of making the vote unanimous. Away with the teachings of experience and musty learning and weakling fears. Hurrah for the heroes who are near the people's hearts and who will give them each day what they want on that day, correcting the mistakes of yesterday by the happy thoughts of to-morrow!

PRISONS, AND COURTS.

Whether it was the allurement of private business opportunity that led State Superintendent of Prisons COLLINS to resign his office, or whether he has yielded to the firm pressure applied by Gov. DIX is not a matter of vital consequence. The main thing is that now for the first time in many years the prisons of the State are out of politics. Gov. DIX is credited with an intention to appoint a successor to Supt. COLLINS who will keep them out of politics.

The path to the prison lies through the courts. Inasmuch as he has just got the prisons out of politics through the retirement of this experienced practical politician and member of the Republican Old Guard, it seems to us that those persons fall into rank absurdity who impute to Gov. DIX any purpose, intention, or any thought, even, of appointing to the Supreme Bench in this Department a Grand Sachem of Tammany Hall who happens to be, also, the personal adviser and political partner of CHARLES F. MURPHY.

THE QUESTION OF MOROCCO.

It is a little more than five years since the affairs of Morocco were settled by the conference and "act" of Algeciras, to which a baker's dozen of the rulers of the Powers of the world were committed. They were a varied group, from his Majesty the German Emperor, in the name of the German Empire, and his Majesty the King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of all the British Dominions beyond the Seas, Emperor of India and the plain Presidents of the Republics of France and the United States to his Majesty the Sultan of Morocco. They solemnly declared that they had assembled their representatives "inspired by the interest attaching itself to the reign of order, peace, and prosperity in Morocco," to be reached by reforms "based on the triple principle of the sovereignty and independence of his Majesty the Sultan of Morocco, the integrity of his domains and economic liberty without any inequality." The practical outcome of this impressive enterprise recalls the cry of the street vendors in Cairo: "In the name of the Prophet, figs!"

There is nor "order" nor "peace" nor "prosperity" in Morocco. His Majesty the Sultan of Morocco has been chased from the country. Spain, at the end of a defensive war, has secured her possession of the Melilla district by a convenient extension. France, from the base of Casablanca on the Atlantic and from the Algerian border on the east, has found it necessary to strengthen her hold and advance her outposts. The integrity of the Sultan's domains is a vanishing quality and his sovereignty and independence is a good deal of a fiction. The present titular wearer of the title is besieged in his capital and owes his life to a French commandant of artillery, who has repeatedly beaten back the tribesmen by whose hordes Fez is surrounded. Meanwhile French forces are being hurried out from Marseilles, and French troops are advancing from the Algerian boundary.

The fact is that the "act" of Algeciras was practically a device for settling, not the affairs of Morocco, but the disturbances which had been stirred up in Europe with the condition of Morocco as a pretext. It was not what was done or left undone in the northwestern corner of Africa that the diplomatists were concerned with; it was the attitude that Germany had taken and the menace involved to the peace of Europe. On this point much was accomplished. The signatures to the "act" were in substance an announcement to the world that Germany recognized that France could not further be pressed at that time. Contenting himself with the fact that the policy of France had been submitted to a conference in which he had a voice, the Kaiser permitted the actual French policy to go on very much as it had gone on. Neither the rights nor the duties of France were substantially changed. The specific terms of the "act" were of little consequence. A police force of Moors officered by French and Spanish deputies; a joint bank for Moroccan loans; a few changes in the customs system—these were the trivial concrete results of the conference. There was a general recognition of the geater interests of France and Spain, but there was no explicit action regarding them.

And as the matter of real importance five years ago was the effect upon the European situation, so is it now.

The acuteness of the crisis in Morocco, the spread of anarchy, the signs of a general "holy war," undoubtedly call for action from Europe, and France is the only country that can undertake serious action. France is undertaking it, still apparently keeping within pretty modest limits, but finding the limits more and more difficult to observe. What will be the attitude of the other Powers toward such action? It is not easy to say. Spain, which was in hearty sympathy in 1906, is now disposed to be a little suspicious and jealous. The German papers are beginning to growl a bit, and German papers are pretty well under the control of the Government, but no open sign of opposition has been made by the Government. The French Government is quiet, but unofficial utterances are, of course, pacific. Meanwhile the intolerable conditions in Morocco, especially the apparent rising of the spirit of fanaticism and the use of the dread cry of "a holy war," make the increasing intervention of France more clearly necessary. Will Germany seek to fetter the only power that can accomplish anything?

UNCLE JOE'S HALO.

A good conscience is an unfailing source of comfort. Joyous is the heart and tranquil the mind of a man who, after a life of strenuous contest, can say, as ex-Speaker CANNON said in his powerful speech pitching into reciprocity with Canada:

> I am 75 years old, and, whatever they do, when I appear at the gate of either of the places where men go hereafter, [laughter,] whether I go where they wear asbestos halos or those of muslin, I will walk with my head erect and say, "I retain my own self-respect." [Loud applause.]

Mr. CANNON retains his "self-respect," and is prepared for either hereafter, because of his profound conviction that he has always been on the right side. He has been on the right side of the Parcels Post question, for instance, and in that same anti-reciprocity speech he gave the reason:

> One reason I am against the Parcels Post is because it is in the interest of strangers. We know the local merchant and the commercial traveler. They belong to our churches and to our clubs. They help make our civilization; they are acquainted with our farmers and our farmers are acquainted with them; but we do not know the mail-order houses.

Out in Danville they will believe every word of that. Good old UNCLE JOE, the stanch friend of the people, the lion-hearted defender of the farmer's interests, how they will applaud him when they read this candid avowal of the motives which, during his long service as Speaker, prompted him to squelch every bill providing for even a small experimental Parcels Post beginning.

But we know of a quiet, businesslike gentleman now in Washington, where he is at the head of one of the great departments of the Government, a gentleman who at one time endeavored to secure Congressional consideration of the Parcels Post, who will admire this exposition of UNCLE JOE's motives, not for its candor, but for its high artistic quality, and for its sublime impudence. Dislike of strangers, was it, that moved UNCLE JOE to interpose the perfectly insurmountable obstacle of his disfavor whenever any Parcels Post bill was introduced? We suppose the express companies are such entire strangers to Mr. CANNON that he wouldn't recognize one of them if he should meet it on Pennsylvania Avenue.

THE AMERICAN TERCENTENARY OF THE ENGLISH BIBLE.

ROBERT HOE's Gutenberg Bible, sold at a great price, is of worth because it reminds us that we live in the old and wise age of the world, not in its awkward beginnings. We are the true ancients, Sir FRANCIS BACON cried, let us reshape our young and crude heritages. The impulse of that thought, born of Scriptural prophecies, was shaking the world in a rebirth when the men of genius under King JAMES produced the English Bible of 1611. It was part of the age of discovery, of world-wide conquest. It sent the Pilgrims across the Atlantic and founded this democracy. President TAFT and King GEORGE made it the subject of their messages to the meeting Tuesday night at Carnegie Hall. Not more signally than in the existence of the American Republic is manifest that spirit, embodied in Scriptural phrases, that tended to actuate, in Prof. COOK's expressive language, "effort and struggle of many kinds, and to open out into arts and civilizations of which the Hebrew never dreamed."

It was the spirit of the Hebrew genius, lyrical in its intensity, but universal in its appeal to all nations and to high and low among mankind, that inspired the dissemination of its message to the English-speaking peoples. To them it was the bud of the herb of civilization, the spring of a new day, the trumpet of a prophecy. The story of the Creation and of the origin of men seemed to them but a point of departure in the forward vision of the revealing mysteries of the Maker, surprising their beholders into psalms of exultation. With depth and poignancy, with breadth and vigor, the books of warning and awful prophecy made visible the concerns of the present and of a boundless future, comprehending the revelations to come. By the potency of its message, the Bible may be said to have translated itself. JEROME's Vulgate, which GUTENBERG first printed with movable types, reveals its inspiration toward fidelity in the music of the Latin text. In LUTHER's translation the Bible became racy and vernacular of the German. In the writings of the Venerable BEDE, it shaped the crude English tongue to harmony, and the Wycliffite versions transmitted through TINDALE to the reading of King JAMES such expressions as "a well of water, springing into everlasting life" and "the deep things of GOD." Thence the language which the Bible created entered the warp and woof of English literature and became part of our common speech and daily living.

It would be denying the spirit of the Bible itself to say that the King James version, which represents so nobly the thought and understanding of men three centuries ago, is the be-all and end-all of the Scriptures' renderings into English. As time makes ancient good uncouth language also changes, and may become a more fit medium. No other such version, including and transcending the excellences of all that the labor and sincerity of men had produced, had appeared before the work of King JAMES's revisers. But the wealth of centuries of scholarship and interpretation has superseded its obscurer passages in the English Revised Version of 1885, and in the later version compared with the best of the original manuscripts and revised by the American Revision Committee, which appeared in 1901. Of the fifteen American Committeemen, who also collaborated with the English revisers, ex-President TIMOTHY DWIGHT of Yale and MATTHEW BROWN RIDDLE survive. Their labors to "bring a plain reader more closely into contact with the exact thought of the sacred writers" were not in vain, as the American version of the King James Bible is used in multitudes of American churches and homes.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

To Put an End to a Bad Habit.

Chances to commend the bills of Senator "Big Tim" SULLIVAN have not come to us very frequently, but that is the more reason for utilizing any that do arrive, and therefore do we hasten to say again that if his unquestionable legislative efficiency has the result of decreasing the number of revolvers owned, as well as the number of those carried in the pockets of citizens timid or truculent, he will have used it to good purpose. And we won't spoil the praise by adding—"for once."

What the Senator's bill provides is for an extension of the present system of "permits" for pistol-carrying, issued by the police, so as to cover the whole domain of concealable weapons, and to let nobody have them who has not obtained, for good reason given, a license from a Magistrate. He would also make the dealers in firearms restrict their sales to persons showing a license to buy them, and require the keeping of a record of all such transactions.

Whether the reform should go quite so far as to require official permission for having a purely defensive weapon in one's own home has been questioned by some of the legislators, but it is not easy to see any serious or even valid objection to it, for to secure the necessary license would not be a hardship. The fact is that revolvers are an effective means of defense for comparatively few people, and their possession probably adds to, rather than decreases, the danger of the average householder. In a fight with a prepared and desperate burglar, he is little likely to do harm to the intruder and very likely to suffer it.

As for the number of people who have a good or even colorable excuse for carrying a revolver about the streets of a policed city, that is very small—vastly smaller than the number of those who do it. The licensing system, too, would be a source of some revenue, but the smaller the better, since its diminution would indicate the abandonment of a habit only innocent in exceptional cases and vicious in most. Of special importance is the requirements of Senator SULLIVAN's bill with respect to the dealers. While they remain free to sell pistols to anybody able to pay for them, other restrictions will be evaded with practical unanimity and impunity by just the persons upon whom it is most desirable that the restrictions should apply.

Senator SULLIVAN seems to have convinced his fellow-Senators that his bill is a good one, for they have advanced it to the order of final passage. It cannot too soon become a law.

Automobile Law in Doubt.

So frequent in the city streets are automobile accidents of one sort or another that evidently something more is needed than the recent changes in the law covering the use of these vehicles. One of the things needed first, perhaps, is a clearer understanding of just what the law is, for of that there seems to be considerable doubt.

The impression in some quarters that ought to know apparently is that any speed is legal which "in the judgment of the Police Department may be safe and proper," but though such an ordinance was passed by the Board of Aldermen and incorporated in a recent report of their Committee on Codification of Ordinances, it has never been made effective, and is still awaiting final action by the board and the Mayor. This being the case, it seems probable that the old rule of eight miles an hour, and four miles going around corners, is still in force, and how great a difference there is between "in force" and "enforced" is brilliantly demonstrated all day long in every one of our better frequented streets and avenues.

Eight miles is an impracticable limit, and it isn't enforced because it cannot be enforced without inflicting intolerable delays on the city traffic. But the "safe and proper" ordinance is not a very hopeful one, either. It would create endless dispute between the police and the automobilists they arrested, and, anyway, as it stands, the ordinance is not an ordinance at all, but the delegating of legislative power to an executive official.

The Ballot in Mexico.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of your comment on Mexican suffrage, I think it worth while to point out the fact that practically the question of fitness to exercise the suffrage has hardly entered into the problem, as the actual conditions have been such that voters are usually afraid to vote for any other candidate than the one nominated by the party in power, knowing that if they cast a vote for an opposition candidate it might mean arrest or maltreatment. Every one who has had experience in Spanish-American countries knows that arrest is a desperately serious matter, both on account of the frightful condition of the prisons and the danger of indefinite delay or prejudiced judgment. In other words, in some of these countries, as well as in Russia, holding certain political opinions practically constitutes crime. In such a state of affairs voting naturally ceases except by a few people belonging to the party in power.

The Jerking Surface Cars.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The sudden starting of the surface cars that is common to the motormen of New York is not only disagreeable, but dangerous. I have seen people thrown to the floor by it. The trouble is that the motorman throws on his power by two or three jerks at the first jump. A complaint to the Public Service Commission brought the reply that the motormen were carefully educated in the motor schools. The jerks go on as usual. Is this a specialty of New York?

AID FOR WOMEN'S WORK.

Contributors to Exchange to be Paid Cash Against Charge Accounts.

The Choate Testimonial Fund for Consignors, for the New York Exchange for Woman's Work, has been organized, it was announced yesterday afternoon at a reception given by Mrs. William V. Lawrence, President of the Exchange, at her residence, 960 Fifth Avenue. The fund is started in honor of Mrs. William C. Choate, founder and Honorary President of the New York Exchange.

Mrs. Choate retired from the Presidency after thirty-two years of active work, and the announcement of the fund, which had been a cherished wish, was in the nature of a surprise to her.

The work of the Exchange is to sell all kinds of feminine handicraft for needy gentlewomen. Many of the regular customers of the Exchange having charge accounts, the consignors are sometimes handicapped in their further work by lack of ready money. This fund for consignors, which it is hoped to bring to a large figure, will enable the Exchange to pay the workers for everything sold immediately. It was announced that $4,000 has been contributed to the fund named for Mrs. Choate by friends of hers within a short time, which added to funds in hand makes $8,000 for a nest egg.

BROOKLYN UNIVERSITY.

It Would Encourage Brooklyn's High School Graduates to Enter College.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Vanderveer Park Taxpayers' Association has strongly indorsed the Brooklyn University plan. How much such an institution is needed has already been abundantly demonstrated. It may, however, interest these gentlemen to know the relative number going to college from their excellently manned and equipped Erasmus Hall High School, as compared with the number who go from high schools in Manhattan and the Bronx to higher institutions of learning. The Regents' Reports of 1910 state that Erasmus Hall, with 4,260 students enrolled, sent to college 31. At the same time the De Witt Clinton High School, having only 2,757 students, sent to college 74; the Wadleigh High School, with 3,187 students, had 40 entering college, and the Stuyvesant High School, with only 2,008 students, less than half the number at Erasmus Hall, sent 36 graduates to college, five more than the Flatbush institution. The Morris High School in the Bronx, attended by 3,590 students, sent 56 to college.

The discrepancy certainly is striking, and must inevitably arouse curiosity. Erasmus Hall is admittedly in the front rank in organization, in instruction, in equipment. Its authorities do not discourage its graduates from going to college. It probably draws its students from families in fair circumstances to a greater extent than any other high school in Greater New York. They can doubtless, in the great majority of cases, afford to go to college. Why do they not do so? The answer can lie only in the lack of sufficiently alluring college attractions in Brooklyn.

Our local colleges, although they are doing excellent work, do not present the fascinating exterior that is necessary to turn the attention of young people persistently toward them. Were Brooklyn once roused to do its duty in providing for such institutions as Adelphi College, and in organizing them into a great university, furnishing the equipment which should make this centre of intellectual life compare favorably with any university in the land, can any one doubt that Erasmus Hall would, on the basis of merely its present attendance, be sending not 31, but 100 students annually to get the advantage of contact with the best that has been thought in the world?

Baggage Duties.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If I understand correctly the regulations recently issued with respect to the examination of baggage, certain articles purchased abroad are to be admitted free of duty, while other articles are to be considered dutiable, even though the total purchases made by the traveler abroad do not exceed $100. The customs tariff provides:

> Section 709. That in the case of residents of the United States returning from abroad all wearing apparel and other personal effects taken by them out of the United States to foreign countries shall be admitted free of duty without regard to their value upon their identity being established under appropriate rules and regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, but no more than $100 in value of articles purchased abroad by such residents of the United States shall be admitted free of duty upon their return.

The language of the tariff appears to provide for "appropriate rules and regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury" with respect to items taken out of the United States and brought back again, but in respect to the exemption of articles purchased to the extent of $100 I do not understand the justification for a classification into items which may be admitted free and items on which duty may be charged. Can you explain?

Calls Health Department Discourteous.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While Dr. Charles E. North's letter to THE TIMES means much to the minority of milk consumers in New York City yet it means nothing to the vast majority, because of the fact that they would have to go to the Department of Health for this valuable information. Of all municipal departments it can be safely said that the Board of Health is about the last place to which the city's poor would resort except by compulsion or necessity, and certainly not to find out whose milk is the purest, as much as they would like to know this. I personally am called to the Board of Health very often on business missions. Consequently I am both an eye and ear witness to the fact that this department ranks highest for its incivility and roughness to the poor (seemingly because they are poor) of any in the city.

The Pilgrims' Bible.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In reference to King James's Bible the President of the United States says: "It became at once the Bible of our American forefathers."

Will you kindly publish this and state whether the assertion is correct? My reading of history informs me that the Puritans and Pilgrim Fathers called the King James Bible "a work of the devil." Their Bible was the Genevan Bible.

The Communion Cup.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is known that the public drinking cup is a menace to public health, and should be abolished. The common communion cup is a public drinking vessel. Therefore the communion cup should be abolished. What can church members do to bring about in the Episcopal Church the adoption of the individual cup?

MY LOVE REMINDS ME.

Her eyes oft remind me of violets blue—
Whenever she knows she'll be needing a few
With the shade of her dress to agree.
Her cheeks oft remind me of roses, also—
Whenever she needs them to wear to the show
Like roses her cheeks seem to be.

Her laughter reminds me of melody sweet—
When Grand Opera is costing six dollars a seat
Like music her laugh is to me.
And when we are passing confectioners' shops
She always reminds me of chocolate drops—
She has a sweet tooth I can see.

HAMILTON POPE GALT.

FOR A PHTHISIS DAY.

Dix Wants One Observed by Churches to Aid in Suppressing Disease.

ALBANY, April 26.—Gov. Dix, in a letter to Homer Folks, Secretary of the State Charities Aid Association, indorses the movement for the observance of a National tuberculosis day on Sunday, April 30, or on such other day of that or the preceding week as the religious customs and observances of the various religious bodies permit.

"If clergymen of all creeds and denominations throughout the State will urge the cure and prevention of tuberculosis as a public duty," says the Governor, "their support will stimulate a larger and more effective interest on the part of the people in this important movement for the conservation of human life. I earnestly commend the observance of a National tuberculosis day to the clergymen and church communicants of the Empire State, and trust that they will co-operate on this occasion and, continuously in the organized effort to suppress this disease.

"I hope that the time will come soon when there will be a county hospital for tuberculosis in every county, and a tuberculosis dispensary and visiting nurse in every city and village of considerable size in this State."

THROWS OPEN SOHMER JOB.

Judge Directs That It Be Restored to the Competitive Class.

ALBANY, April 26.—Holding that the position of stock transfer tax examiner in State Controller Sohmer's office is not of a confidential nature, Supreme Court Justice Rudd to-day granted a peremptory writ of mandamus against the State Civil Service Commission directing it to restore the classification of that position to the competitive class. If upheld by the highest court Justice Rudd's decision will have a wider effect, as the new Democratic Civil Service Commission has recently transferred from the competitive to the exempt schedule several other positions in the Controller's office.

Justice Rudd holds that the commission is limited to the classification of positions in the exempt class to offices for which examinations are found to be impracticable, except those specifically exempted by law.

Justice Rudd quotes from the expressions of Attorney General Carmody when he was chief examiner to the State Civil Service Commission in 1895, showing that these positions can be filled as the result of competitive examinations. Mr. Carmody argued this case for the State Civil Service Commission.

WORRY OVER CHURCH LEVIES

Many Charitable Institutions Also Aroused Over City Assessments.

Ministers, lay officers of churches, and trustees of private charitable institutions in the city are much agitated over the prospective advertisement for sale by the Controller of parcels of property owned by their organizations for arrears in assessments.

The Controller is preparing a statement on the matter, and the church and charitable institution officers have succeeded in getting him to consent to delay action for a time. It is admitted that the situation is a serious one for the churches and charities, for most of them have assessments against their properties, which they have permitted to run for some time, with accumulation of 7 per cent. interest. Many of the churches are struggling to pay for land and buildings, and have not counted upon heavy assessments for local improvements. It is a serious question for the city also, since bonds have been issued against these assessments.

In the last ten years the churches have appealed to the Legislature, and various acts have been passed, one of them wiping out existing assessments upon tax-exempted property then resting upon it, but allowing new assessments to accumulate. In 1907 such property was exempted from water rates. In 1904 a general act was passed allowing the Controller to remit assessment upon proper certification.

Two years ago the Legislature, instead of acting itself, put the details on the shoulders of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, allowing them to take off assessments upon proper certification being made, but stipulating that the Commissioners must be unanimous in their action. Controller Prendergast has presented several such remissions, only to discover that to do so was needless waste of the time of the Commissioners, as he puts it.

TAILORS' UNION ENJOINED.

Effort to Enforce Closed Shop Called Conspiracy in Restraint of Trade.

In an order which declares that the Custom Tailors' Union of New York is maintaining a conspiracy in restraint of trade and that its attempt to force the manufacturing tailors to employ only union labor is the expression of such a conspiracy, Supreme Court Justice Platzek issued yesterday a permanent injunction against the union and its agents and attorneys. In affidavits filed with the papers, Jacob Panken, lawyer for the union, is charged with having encouraged the use of force by offering to defend in the police courts strikers arrested for violence and with actually having appeared in their behalf.

The injunction, which follows Justice Goff's ruling that strikes to enforce the so-called closed shop are illegal conspiracies and that acts done to promote such strikes are consequently illegal and may be restrained by injunction, was obtained by Marks Arnheim, as Treasurer of a New York Manufacturing Tailors' Association. It confirms an injunction by Justice McCall last October, which has been effective, the manufacturers say, in reducing picketing and violence, and under the protection of which they have been able to conduct manufacturing.

WINTER NOW WITH CUNARD.

Recently Resigned from the North German Lloyd—Now on Vacation.

The Cunard Line announced yesterday that Hermann Winter, who resigned recently from the service of the North German Lloyd Line and Oelrichs & Co., has accepted a position in its New York office. Mr. Winter was a protégé of Vernon H. Brown, long General Agent of the Cunard Line, and for twenty-six years he was with Oelrichs & Co. When over a year ago Gustav Schwab, head of the firm, was forced by illness to give up active business, Mr. Winter, who had been his right-hand man, became the practical head of the North German Lloyd Line in this country.

Mr. Winter will not take up active work for the Cunard Line for several months. It was his intention at the time he resigned to go on a long vacation. No announcement is made as to the position to be held by Mr. Winter, but it is probable that he will share the duties of Richard L. Walker, who, while he has no title, is assistant to the local agent of the line.

JEWELERS SUE FOR $69,215.

Banker Clarke Recommended a Firm He Knew Was Insolvent, They Say.

Lewis L. Clarke, Vice President of the American Exchange National Bank, is defendant in a $69,215 suit brought by Jacques Karyn and Augusta Wauters, diamond dealers of Belgium, who charge that Clarke misrepresented the financial standing of Lippman Tanenbaum, whose firm failed after buying jewelry worth the amount sued for.

Clarke, they say, told them that it would be safe to trust Tanenbaum when, they allege, he knew Tanenbaum's firm was insolvent. Clarke denies all of the allegations, and obtained yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Blanchard an order limiting the scope of his examination before trial.

INSURANCE CONCERNS WANT TO KEEP STOCKS

HOTCHKISS OPPOSES REPEAL

But Would Extend Time for Three Years—Day Says Clause, Unless Repealed, Would Cause Great Loss.

ALBANY, April 26.—The Senate and Assembly Insurance Committees gave a joint hearing to-day on the Frawley-Hoey bill repealing that part of the insurance law which requires life insurance corporations to sell their bank, trust company, railroad, and similar stocks, as well as certain collateral trust bonds, which were owned by them at the time of the Armstrong Committee investigation, and which must be disposed of before Dec. 31 this year under the present law.

The bill was opposed by Superintendent of Insurance Hotchkiss, who suggests that in its stead the law be amended so as to extend the time, say three years, within which such stocks and bonds must be sold.

"The law," he said, "is an integral part of the Armstrong laws, which prohibited the further acquisition of stocks and bonds of this kind, and also directed the sale of those held by the companies at the time of the investigation. It was then thought that holdings of this class put the funds of life insurance companies into jeopardy, in that they permitted such companies practically to control certain large financial institutions, and, as to railroad and industrial stocks, made such corporations considerable factors in Wall Street operations.

"Reports recently asked show that the three large New York companies, which are affected by this law, have, since the investigation, disposed of but 38 per cent. of their holdings of this kind, and still possess, between them, upward of $80,000,000 at present market values. Of these, more than half are held by the Mutual Life, about one-third by the Equitable, and about one-tenth by the Metropolitan.

"The companies claim both that the law itself is unconstitutional, and that if they are compelled to dispose of their holdings before the close of the present year great sacrifices in value must be made. The department urges that it is for the courts not the Legislature to declare an existing law unconstitutional, and rejoins to the present attitude of the companies that they were last year satisfied with an extension of time, and that the department was then willing and is still willing to consent to the same.

"The department further urges that if this bill should pass it will easily prove the entering wedge for a total repeal of Section 100, and that if such section should be repealed life insurance companies would be able, under another section of the law, to invest in the securities of any solvent corporation organized under the laws of the United States or of any State—a wide open provision that would permit mcuh that was condemned by public opinion as a result of the investigation of 1905."

A letter sent by W. A. Day, President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society to the committee, which he asked to be made a part of the record of the hearing through his inability to be present, sets forth the position of the Equitable Life Assurance Society on the subject.

Mr. Day says the clause in question, unless repealed, will inflict great loss upon life insurance companies without visible gain.

"On June 1, 1906," he continues, "this society lawfully held investments in such corporate shares of the par value of $19,601,010 acquired at a cost of $38,805,237. In large part these were high-priced shares of trust companies and banks for which there is no general market. In its endeavor to comply with the amendment of 1906 it has sold a part of its holdings of such shares, but the major part it still holds, having been unable to dispose of them at a satisfactory price when a compulsory sale was overhanging. I am advised that at the end of the year 1909 all companies subject to the law held investments of over a hundred millions in the proscribed securities.

"It stands out on the face of the matter that the sale under legal compulsion of over a hundred millions of corporate stock could only be effected at a serious sacrifice; that the loss from a forced sale of the high-priced shares of banks and trust companies, the market for which, as well known, is narrow and limited, would be particularly heavy; that there being no general demand for such last-mentioned shares, the amount which individual investors might absorb would be insignificant compared to the very large amount to be disposed of, and thus the only purchasers would be great capitalists and syndicates, who, of course, will make no move until the period of grace is about to expire, whether that be Dec. 31, 1911, or some future date, should the time be extended, and then being the only purchasers at a compulsory sale they could dictate the price at which they would buy.

"If a change in the policy of the State must be at such heavy cost, there might well be hesitation and inquiry whether the cure proposed were not worse than the disease. But here the change in policy from approval to disapproval of investments by life insurance companies in corporate shares need not be at any such cost. To give effect to this new policy it was sufficient that such investments be prohibited from the time the law was passed. For while the aggregate holdings of corporate shares of life insurance companies are large and therefore could not be sold under legal compulsion except at great sacrifice, yet the ratio of such holding to the total volume of assets of such companies is very small, the average not exceeding 6 per cent., and, if no further investments of the sort were permitted, would, of course, grow steadily smaller as the total volume of assets increases, and as such shares are sold, and the proceeds reinvested in the natural course of events."

NEED OF LABOR BUREAUS.

Commission Urges Means to Bring the Jobless Man to the Manless Job.

ALBANY, April 26.—A system of public employment offices, covering all sections of the State, for accommodating the demand and supply of labor, is recommended by the Wainwright Commission on Employers' Liability in its third report to-day to the Legislature on the subject of unemployment and lack of foreign labor.

A bill drawn by the commission calls for such offices in New York, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Albany, Binghamton, Watertown, and Corning, the whole system to be managed by a Deputy Commissioner of Labor at an annual salary of $4,000, with an appropriation of $100,000 to do the work.

"We find in the industrial centres of the State," says the report, "at all times of the year, in good times as well as bad, wage earners, able and willing to work, who cannot obtain employment. There is, nevertheless, a considerable unsatisfied demand for labor, especially in agricultural sections and in the harvest season. The commission finds only one possible explanation of this apparently contradictory situation the jobless man on one hand and the manless job on the other—that is 'maladjustment between the demand for and the supply of labor.' Labor is completely unorganized, unsystematized, uncentralized. Both employers and workmen must depend on chance and hearsay."

HARRIMAN ENTRY WINS BLUE RIBBONS

Nala and Avondale Redeem Themselves; Score Twice in Combination with Lady Dilham.

MANY LADIES IN CLASSES

William H. Moore's Menella and Phyllis First in Tandem Division in Brooklyn Horse Show.

J. W. Harriman was signally successful last night at the second session of the Brooklyn Horse Show, held at the Riding and Driving Club.

Nala and Avondale were the medium by which Avondale Farm scored in the opening class for harness horses. Supplementing this win this pair, in combination with Lady Dilham, annexed the blue for the best collection of three horses owned by one exhibitor.

In both instances the Harriman entry set back the nominations of William H. Moore and wreaked temporary revenge for the defeat of Nala and mate on the opening night.

Toward the shank of the evening, however, and in the tandem class, Mr. Moore and his adherents were boosted to great heights when Menella and Phyllis caught the eye of the judges, getting the blue, and incidentally leading Mr. Harriman's Lady Dilham and Starlight, which were placed second.

The winners showed almost perfect balance, and carried themselves finely with never a break around the short turns at good pace. Mr. Moore handled the reins over his entry in masterful fashion, and almost as cleverly as Jack Donnelly, who showed the Harriman tandem.

In the early session those who had seen Nala perform on the first night would never have known the stallion to be the same animal which raised ructions on his initial showing. Last night he was a great horse, behaving like a perfect gentleman.

The defeat of Lord and Lady Teaton and Robin Hood by the Harriman horses in the three-horse class was accepted by the uninitiated as a reversal of judgment on the part of the officials, the point being overlooked that they were shown to different vehicles than upon the occasion of the first win.

The Harriman entry in the harness horse pairs, Nola and Avondale, driven by Jack Donnelly, showed to much better advantage before an appropriate vehicle, and had but little difficulty in attracting most attention in the judges' eyes, who promptly found for the Avondale pair. Last night, with not such top notchers to compete against, they behaved like real gentlemen, topping Judge Moore's Robin Hood and Burgomaster and Emil Selig's Beau Ideal and Beau Brummel, which finished second and third, respectively.

Molly Bawn, a chestnut mare, the property of Mrs. Charles F. Hubbs, starred in the saddle-horse class for members of the Riding and Driving Club, the prize for which was the Cartledge Cup. The smallest of the entrants, she went through her paces, driven by Miss Margery Hubbs, in a style which quite caught the fancy of the judges and experts alike. Miss Margery Gaynor on Miss Janet C. Bowers's Babbie came in for third prize.

Quite the biggest field of the series turned out for the saddle horses up to carrying 200 pounds. After the weeding-out process was accomplished and the field narrowed down to six the final adjudication was Dr. Crockett, the Woften Farm entry, ridden by Ed. Brennen. The doctor found early favor in the eyes of close followers of the game, and the verdict was well received. Lady Mary, ridden cleverly by Miss Elfrieda A. Weber, came in for a share of the honors with fourth prize as her portion.

A surprise for the sharps developed in the combination harness and saddle horse class, which had been voted a good thing for Fantasy, Mrs. Hubbs's chestnut mare. This event was for a $250 plate, to be won twice by the same owner before becoming permanent property. Last year Andrew Morrison won with Sonia, but he was without a candidate this year. Every test asked for was properly answered by Watchful, the entry of Myron H. Oppenheim, driven perfectly by George Gross, and he was placed at the top of the list, with Fantasy, handled by Miss Margery Hubbs, second. The summary:

Harness Horses, Pairs, 15.1¼ Hands and Over. William M. Alford and David F. Butcher Prizes.—Avondale Farm's Nola, b. s., 15.3½ hands, 9 years, and Avondale, b. s., 15.3½, 8 years, driven by Jack Donnolly, first; William H. MUSIC NOTES.

A testimonial concert will be given for Mme. Violetta Colville Kendall by her pupils, at the residence of Mrs. Edward W. Lowe, in Bay Ridge, next Saturday evening.

N. Valentine Peavey will give a piano recital in Association Hall, Fulton and Bond Streets, Brooklyn, to-morrow evening.

The pupils of the Music School Settlement will give a concert this afternoon, at 4 o'clock, at Mendelssohn Hall. The orchestral numbers will be directed by David Mannes, director of the school, and Edgar S. Stowell, conductor of the junior orchestra.

SOCIAL NOTES.

The marriage of Miss Sophie E. Langdon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury G. Langdon, and the Rev. Barrett P. Tyler, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Morristown, N. J., will take place this afternoon at 3:30 at the home of the bride's parents, 719 Fifth Avenue.

Henry Clews will give a luncheon to-day for President Taft at his residence in West Fifty-first Street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sloane plan to go to Mount Kisco to-day for the Summer.

Mrs. John Hay came here from Washington yesterday to meet her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Wadsworth, Jr., upon their return from Europe to-day. They will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Payne Whitney, the latter also a daughter of Mrs. Hay, until the last of the week.

Mrs. Reginald Ronalds, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Charles H. Strong, at Erie, Penn., is at the Plaza, where she will remain indefinitely.

Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant gave a luncheon at Sherry's yesterday for Mrs. Taft. Covers were laid for sixty-five.

Cecil Barrey, who is to marry Miss Gladys H. Gittings of Baltimore, Md., on Saturday, will give his bachelor dinner at the University Club to-night.

Miss Elizabeth Claiborne, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert R. Claiborne, and August Rust-Oppenheim will be married this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Hotel Buckingham.

The hour of the concert, which is to be given this afternoon by the pupils of the Music School Settlement under fashionable patronage at Mendelssohn Hall has been changed to 4 o'clock.

SYMPHONY CLUB'S CONCERT.

Programme in Assembly Room of Colony Club Followed by a Supper.

The Symphony Club of New York, organized ten years ago, gave its eleventh annual concert last evening in the assembly room of the Colony Club, and the concert was followed by a supper given by Mrs. John A. Hartwell, the Vice President, for a number of guests in the Winter garden of the Colony Club.

David Mannes is the conductor of the club, and Mrs. George Montgomery Tuttle is the soloist. Miss Callender is the President, Mrs. John A. Hartwell Vice President, Mrs. Reuel B. Francis Wilson at Criterion May 8.

Francis Wilson will return to the Criterion Theatre on Monday, May 8, to begin a limited engagement there in "The Bachelor's Baby," his third New York engagement in that comedy since it was produced in December, 1909. Mr. Wilson and his company will come from Springfield, Ill., where they will appear next Thursday night before the Illinois State Legislature, before whom there is pending a bill to exempt stage children from the operations of the factory law in that State.

Select Mob for "Lights o' London."

There was much excitement at the Lyric Theatre yesterday morning when William A. Brady selected a mob of "supers" to take part in the revival of "The Lights o' London." Mr. Brady had announced that he wished 300 men and women to take part in the play and that those who showed most talent would have parts in other productions next season. The crowd began to gather at 8 o'clock, and by the time the manager arrived Forthy-third Street near the stage door of the Lyric was filled with men and women. The applicants were photographed and then passed into the theatre and were photographed again on the stage. The process of selection took only a short time, for Mr. Brady wanted the mob to look like farm hands and costers, and it was a simple matter to pick out the tall people from among the group.

MRS. DUGAN WEDS IN GRACE CHURCH

MISS RAND A BRIDE

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Rand Married to Stuart Corlies Adams in Church of the Incarnation.

The wedding of Mrs. Laura Amory Dugan, widow of Thomas Clay Dugan of New Orleans, La., and the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Amory of Boston, Mass., to Amory A. Lawrence of Boston, took place at noon yesterday in Grace Church. The ceremony was performed by the Right Rev. William Lawrence, a brother of the bridegroom, assisted by the Rev. Charles L. Slattery.

The assembly at the church was made up mostly of relatives and intimate friends of the couple. There were no bridal attendants nor ushers. Charles B. Amory gave his daughter in marriage and Amos A. Lawrence acted as best man for his father.

The bride wore a trailing gown of gray crêpe de chine and a large black hat with gray plumes. She carried a bouquet of orchids and gardenias.

The chancel was banked with palms and ascension lilies. A short musical programme was rendered while the guests were arriving. The couple left on their bridal trip almost immediately after the church ceremony, the usual wedding breakfast and reception being dispensed with. They will spend the early Summer at Mr. Lawrence's place at Beverly, Mass., and will go abroad later, probably in June.

Their engagement was announced only a few weeks ago. Mrs. Lawrence, who formerly resided in Boston, has made her home at 161 Madison Avenue, this city, and is well known in New York society. She is an adopted sister of Mrs. Charles E. Perkins of Burlington, Iowa; Lieut. Charles B. Amory, Jr., U. S. A.; John Austin Amory, and Roger Amory. She is also related to the Iselin family of this city, some of whom, including Mrs. Philip Livermore, were at the wedding.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Harvard, class of '70, and a member of the Somerset, Country Club, the New Riding, the University, and other clubs in Boston. His children are John S. Lawrence, who married Miss Emma Atherton; Amos A. Lawrence, and Mrs. Harold Jefferson Coolidge.

Married to Miss Marjorie Rand in Church of the Incarnation.

The wedding of Stuart Corlies Adams, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Adams, and Miss Marjorie Rand, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Rand, was celebrated at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Church of the Incarnation, the Rev. Dr. William Grosvenor assisted by the Rev. Dr. Gwynne of Summit officiating.

The church chancel was decorated on both sides by large mound-like masses of daisies and clusters of Ascension lilies on standards. The pillars dividing the pews on the nave from those at the side had fastened on them a dozen feet or so from the floor large masses of foliage and Ascension lilies.

The bride, who walked up the nave with her father, wore a white-satin gown covered almost completely with point applique, even to the long square train, which was worn by her maternal grandmother and her mother at their weddings. Her tulle veil was held cap fashion with orange blossoms, and she carried gardenias and lilies of the valley.

The attendants were in pale blue and pink Watteau gowns topped by large flat hats.

Mrs. Newton Adams was the matron of honor and wore a trailing pale blue chiffon gown with white chiffon fichu and sash, a large pale blue hat faced with black and trimmed with white lace, and blue and pink flowers. Miss Florence Rand, a sister of the bride, was her maid of honor and wore pink satin and chiffon with touches of blue, a large pink hat faced with black, and the bridesmaids, the Misses Helen Rand, another sister; Caryl Ransom, Alice Richard, and Elizabeth Deming, were in blue satin frocks with touches of pink, and flat leghorn hats trimmed with pale blue satin ribbons and small pink and blue flowers. All the gowns had white chiffon fichus with sash effects at the back. The attendants carried large baskets filled with shaded pink roses.

Mr. Adams had his brother, Newton Adams, as his best man, and the ushers were a young uncle of the bridegroom, Howard Corlies; the bridegroom's brother, E. W. Corlies Adams; Emmet Harris, Harold Tappin, Lee Gwynne, and Hubert Kernan, the latter of Utica.

The wedding reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, 347 West End Avenue, which was decorated with Spring flowers.

The bride's going away gown was a dark blue silk serge trimmed with red and topped by a blue hat with red trimmings.

After their honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Adams will live in West Orange in the house presented as a wedding gift from Mr. Rand to the bride.

Among the guests at the church were Mr. and Mrs. William Sturgis, Dr. Martin Shiels and Mrs. Shiels, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Adams, Mrs. Richard, Judge Ransom and Mrs. Ransom, Mrs. George Hewlett, Mrs. Arthur Carroll, Mrs. Philip Van R. Schuyler, Miss Mildred G. Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Eastman, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Torrance, Mrs. Mabie, Miss Sands, Miss Dorothy Weir, Mrs. Litchfield, and Miss Litchfield, Bishop Talbot, Mrs. Kellogg, the Misses Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin, Mrs. Curtis and Miss Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Cox, and others.

MISS CRANNIS A BRIDE.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Grannis Married to Simeon T. Toby.

The wedding of Miss Marjorie Grannis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Grannis, to Simeon Thomas Toby of Elizabeth, N. J., was solemnized yesterday in the Church of the Holy Communion, South Orange, N. J. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Appleton Grannis, brother of the bride. The maid of honor was Miss Anna Flichtner, and the flower girls Miss Amy Grannis and Miss Catherine Toby. The best man was William Irwin of New York. The ushers were Thomas T. Gray, Alanson M. Gray, Hazlett Glazebrook, Paul Debevoise, all of Elizabeth, N. J., and Pierrepont E. Grannis and James A. Grannis of South Orange.

A reception to relatives and intimate friends followed at the residence of the bride's parents, Mountain Station.

WEDDED AT THE ST. REGIS.

Miss Adelaide K. Coates Married to J. Clark Matthai of Baltimore.

The wedding of Miss Adelaide Kinsley Coates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Coates, and J. Clarke Matthai of Baltimore, Md., took place last evening at the St. Regis. The ceremony was performed by Bishop David H. Greer at 8 o'clock in the marble ballroom before a large gathering of friends.

The bride, whose father gave her in marriage, wore a gown of white satin embroidered with orchids and trimmed with rose point lace. She also wore a rose point cap with her tulle veil, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids.

Miss Adele B. Acker acted as maid of honor. She wore a gown of white satin with an overdress of fillet lace trimmed in silver, and carried a shower bouquet of green daisies and green orchids.

The bridesmaids, who were the Misses Marion Shaw, Leila Morris, Irma Babbitt, and Florence Ingram, the latter of Baltimore, Md., wore costumes of pale green chiffon with overdress of fillet lace, and carried shower bouquets.

Howard Matthai was best man, and the ushers were Charles Ingram, a cousin of the bridegroom; Charles Presbrey, Nathan Middleton of Baltimore, and Frank Rollins of St. Louis.

The ceremony was performed under a large bower of smilax and roses, which had been erected at the south end of the ballroom, leading up to which were a number of white posts connected with white satin ribbons and festooned with bridal roses and smilax. Following the ceremony a large reception was held in the Louis XVI. room, the couple receiving the congratulations of their relatives and friends against a bank of palms and Spring flowers. A wedding collation was served for 350 guests.

Later the bride and bridegroom left on an extended tour through the South and West, and in the Fall they will take up their residence in Baltimore.

NEW PHILHARMONIC LEADER.

Sir Henry Wood Admits He Has Been Asked to Come Here.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 26.—Sir Henry Wood to-day confirmed to THE NEW YORK TIMES the report that he had received the offer of conductorship of the New York Philharmonic Society. He added that no decision would be made this week.

Sir Henry was born in London in 1870 and was knighted on last New Year's. His wife was formerly Princess Olga Ourousoff of Pedolia, Russia. Sir Henry is an accomplished organist, and early in his musical career gave many recitals. His first work as a conductor was with the Rousbey Opera Company in 1889. Ten years later he founded the Nottingham City Orchestra, and in the same year conducted the London musical festival. He was continuously engaged in concert work up to 1907, when he conducted the Birmingham symphony concerts.

Gustav Mahler's illness, which prevented his conducting the final Philharmonic concerts of the season, has also made it necessary for him to give up all idea of returning as conductor of the Philharmonic next season. No new conductor to take his place has as yet been announced, but it is said that a member of the Board of Directors is now in Europe for the purpose of securing his successor. Besides Sir Henry Wood, Frank van der Stucken, Wassily Safonoff, and several other prominent conductors have been spoken of in connection with the position.

HOGAN NO MATCH FOR AD WOLGAST

Referee White Stops Fight in Second Round to Prevent a Knockout.

Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion of the world, made short work of One Round Hogan, hitherto considered one of the strongest contenders for the title when the pair came together last night before the Madison A. C. in Harlem.

The champion conclusively demonstrated in four minutes of fighting that he is Hogan's superior both in giving and taking punishment. The reputed "One Round" punch landed on the champion several times in the first round, while he was backed against the ropes, and when it seemed that he was being badly punished he came back smiling and as strong as ever. In the second round, after the champion had driven Hogan around the ring, raining blow after blow upon him without getting anything like a return, Referee Charlie White humanely waived Wolgast to his corner and saved Hogan from being knocked out.

Both boys were below 133 pounds, the prescribed weight. At 8:15 o'clock they presented themselves at the Madison Club, but it was discovered that the scales were broken, so a taxicab was engaged and the two boys, with their managers, Tom Jones and "Smiley" Franey, were taken to a Turkish bath establishment on 125th Street to weigh in. Wolgast tipped the beam at 131 pounds and Hogan weighed 132½ pounds.

While the second preliminary was going on Jim Jeffries entered the clubhouse, and interest in the boxers gave way to glimpses of the former champion. No ovation marked his arrival, but a large part of the crowd arose to get a look at Jeffries. He did not come in at once to the centre of the arena, where a box had been reserved, but remained at the extreme rear of the hall, chatting with friends for fifteen minutes. When he walked to the box he was easily recognized, and all eyes seemed to centre on him, but there was not the faintest bit of applause.

The size of the crowd was far below expectations, and the spacious clubhouse was far from being filled. The prominence of Wolgast, the popularity of Hogan, and the chance that the lightweight championship title might change hands were thought to form an attractive combination capable of filling the big Casino, but this they failed to do. When the preliminaries began the crowd was so small that it was generally commented upon, scarcely 1,500 being in their seats at the time. But members filed in fast for awhile, and when the principals of the main bout climbed into the ring about 3,000 persons were present. Empty chairs were visible in many parts of the house and the big space under the south balcony, which afforded plenty of standing room, held very few spectators. Ringside seats were filled, and the crowd in this section numbered many notables from all walks in life.

The attendance caused some consternation in the Hogan camp, as Hogan's manager had refused a flat guarantee and taken a percentage. Wolgast's guarantee was large enough to make Hogan's share of the remainder somewhat slim in comparison.

Before the principals of the main bout climbed into the ring Announcer Joe Humphrey introduced Abe Attell, Knock-Out Brown, Freddy Welch, Tommy Maloney, and Tommy Murphy. Owen Moran, Leach Cross, Buck Crouse, Sailor Burke, and the original Young Griffo were later introduced. A few calls for Jeffries sounded through the house, but the former champion showed no disposition to respond.

Hogan climbed through the ropes at 10:45, and Wolgast followed a minute later.

Both boys got a warm reception when they were introduced, that accorded Hogan overshadowing Wolgast's to quite an extent.

The men agreed to box straight rules, break at the order of the referee, and protect themselves at all times.

Hogan opened with a left, and they went into a clinch. He followed with a right and landed some light lefts. The entire round was marked by considerable action. Wolgast did his best work in the clinches and rained uppercuts on Hogan's jaw. Hogan jabbed in the open fighting, and just before the bell drove Wolgast to the ropes, pounding him hard with both rights and lefts. But they had little effect on the champion. After Hogan had done his best in an effort to knock out Wolgast, the champion came back smiling and drove a hard left to Hogan's jaw. Hogan was loudly cheered as he took his corner.

Wolgast tore after Hogan as soon as the bell rang for the second round, and a series of hard right and left swings with a hard left to the stomach soon had Hogan in distress. He backed around the ring, unable to protect himself, and Wolgast had no trouble hitting him as hard and as often as he pleased.

Blood began to flow from Hogan's mouth, and it was easily seen that the finish was near. There were cries of "Stop it!" from different parts of the house, as they evidently did not wish to see a knockout, and a little more than a minute after the round began Hogan staggered to his corner, helpless from the avalanche of blows.

Referee Charlie White stepped between the men and waved Wolgast to his corner. The action met with unanimous approval, as Hogan would surely have taken the count had the fight been allowed to continue.

The preliminary bouts furnished twenty-one rounds of boxing before the main event went on. The semi-final, between two clever boxers, Joe Blum of Philadelphia and Frank C. Fleming of Canada, went the full six rounds with neither gaining any decided advantage. The same was true of one six-round and two four-round preliminaries. Another was stopped in the first round.

Morris and Palzer Not Matched.

TULSA, Okla., April 26.—Frank B. Ufer, manager of Carl Morris, to-day denied the report that Morris would fight Al Palzer of New York in a twenty-round match here on July 4. Ufer said the two men are under no agreement to fight.

Brooks Easy for Delaney.

Soldier Delaney, the new white hope find of Manager Jim Buckley of the Sharkey Athletic Club, quickly disposed of his negro opponent, Battling Brooks of New Jersey, last night at the Sharkey Athletic Club in the second round of their scheduled ten-round bout.

Bouts at the Princess A. C.

After three rounds of fast fighting between Bobby Williams and Young Rover at the Princess Athletic Club, last night, the referee stopped the bout, as it had become too one-sided, and he thereby saved Rover from a knockout.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

The bout scheduled for to-night at the Whirlwind A. C. in Brooklyn will be a near-championship affair, as the principals in the main bout, Joe Coster and Patsy Kline, have both scored heavily with Abe Attell, who may never enter the ring again as the result of his recent injury. Both boys are anxious to succeed Attell at the head of the featherweight division, and each looks upon the bout as a chance to eliminate the other from the running. As both are in the best condition the bout promises to be fast. It may not go the limit as each carries a hard punch. Before the main event there will be thirty-five rounds of boxing, the usual musical programme and other features.

The Metropolitan Association A. A. U. boxing championships, which will be held to-night and Saturday night under the auspices of the Irish-American A. C., have attracted the best men of the district in the various classes. Every club in this territory has entered its champions, and the show promises to eclipse any held under Winged Fist auspices. Frank Hufnagle, the champion of America at 125 pounds, will be seen in action. This youngster is considered to be the best lad developed in the amateur ranks in years. Jimmy Jarvis, U. S. A. C. 135-pound National champion, will also compete. Aside from the individual trophies, the point banner will engender spirited competition. Charlie White, the well-known referee, will be the third man in the ring.

Johnny Kelly, the champion lightweight of Harlem, and Young Sam Langford, the so-called colored 135-pound champion of New York, are the nominations as the star card at the Metropolitan A. C. bouts to-night. A semi-final at six rounds and a bunch of preliminaries are also offered.

Thirty-two rounds of boxing have been arranged for at the New Polo A. A. to-morrow night. In the main attraction, Frankie Fleming of Canada will endeavor to outbox Kid Ghetto, a local bantam who has been beating most of the little men with comparative ease. Willie Reilly and Battling Reddy will be the principals in the semi-final, while several four-round affairs will lead up to the main bouts.

PRATT BOYS OUTCLASSED.

Columbia Scores 102 Points to 6 for Institute Lads on South Field.

Columbia University athletes easily vanquished the track and field boys of Pratt Institute of Brooklyn on South Field yesterday, scoring 102 points to Pratt's 6. Pratt scored one second and three third places, the second place going to Ogg in the quarter mile, in which last year, against Columbia, he came out first. None of the performances reached a high mark, as Columbia was not pushed in any of the events. In eight of the events the home collegians won all three places.

The best work was done in the sprints, but even this was only fair. Jacobs, the Columbia sprinter, won both of the dashes, the 100 yards in 10 2-5 seconds and the 220 yards in 23 3-5 seconds. In the hurdles Van Alst of Pratt Institute pulled out third in the 120 yards high and 220 yards low hurdles. Pratt's other point was made in the shot-put by MacKenzie. In the running board jump Babcock and Ward tied for first place, while three Columbia men tied for the honors in the running high jump.

STEVENS SENIORS WIN.

Class of 1911 Captures Fourth Successive Interclass Athletic Honors.

For the fourth time in succession the class of 1911, now seniors, won the interclass track and field championship at Stevens Institute, held yesterday afternoon. During the early part of the meet, class 1913 threatened to put up a good fight for the championship, but weakness of this class in the field events caused 1911 to win by a fair margin. The point score was: Seniors, 56; Sophmores, 39; Freshmen, 23; Juniors, 17.

As individual performer, Harris of 1911 easily took the lead, scoring nineteen points for his class. Howe of 1911 scored eleven, and Zeiger, the crack sprinter of 1913, made fifteen for the sophomores.

The relay race was undoubtedly the most interesting event. Bartlett, the first runner for 1911, allowed the other runners to get by a lead of twenty yards, but later runners representing the seniors, by some splendid running, succeeded in getting third place in the race.

Bradford City Wins Football Cup.

LONDON, April 26.—Bradford City defeated Newcastle United in the play-off of the tie for the Association Football Cup at Manchester to-day by the score of 1 to 0. Seventy thousand persons witnessed the contest.

Three Amateur Billiard Games.

Three games were decided yesterday, two in the afternoon and one in the evening, in the continuation of the amateur three-cushion carrom billiard tournament which started Monday at Maurice Daly's Billiard Academy, Forty-ninth Street and Broadway. The best game was the first of the afternoon series between John Cope and Louis Nelson. The contest resulted in a victory for Cope by the score of 50 to 44, and he had to play his hardest in order to win, as Nelson displayed remarkable form and made many difficult shots. The winner made the high run of 8. In the second game of the afternoon Isaac Peiser defeated John Rich by the score of 50 to 28. Peiser's high run was 2. Peiser again won in the evening contest, this time by defeating George Ettlinger, by the score of 50 to 39, and making another high run of 2. The tournament will be continued to-day.

Harvard Beats Crescents at Squash.

In a lively series of interclub squash matches the team of the Harvard Club defeated the team of the Crescent Athletic Club on the courts of the latter club yesterday, by the score of 5 love. The summary:

Harvard Club at Crescent Athletic Club.—Dr. Alfred Stillman, 2d, Harvard, defeated Charles M. Bull, Jr., Crescent, 15—12, 15—6; John W. Prentice, Harvard, defeated W. W. Pell, Crescent, 18—14, 15—9; George Whitney, Harvard, defeated Henry C. Martin, Crescent, 15—11, 11—15, 15—9; H. S. Satterlee, Harvard, defeated N. L. Feary, Crescent, 15—13, 15—11; J. H. Hunt, Harvard, defeated H. E. McGowan, Crescent, 15—12, 15—10.

St. George A. C. Games.

The all-around indoor championships of the St. George Athletic Club for the cup presented by the Rev. Hugh Birchhead was held last night at the club, 207 East Sixteenth Street. Nearly every athlete in the club took part in the competition, and the struggle for the points was keen. M. Denecke won the premier honors with a total of 886 1-5 points. The cup has to be won outright for three years before it becomes the property of the holder. J. W. Price, who finished second with a total of 850¾ points, has already secured two legs on the cup.

ST. ANTHONY PLACED FIRST IN RELAY RACE

Loughlin Lyceum Team Disqualified for Cutting Corners in Armory Event.

The annual indoor games of the church of St. Ignatius Loyola attracted a crowd of nearly 4,000 persons last night to the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory and was productive of some good sport, as many of the races were keenly contested and furnished close finishes.

The feature event was the one-mile relay handicap, closed to the Catholic Athletic League, and after finishing first by less than a foot the team of Loughlin Lyceum was disqualified for cutting corners, which gave the second team to finish, which was the four from the Knights of St. Anthony, the premier honors.

W. Lynch, with a start of 35 yards, proved too much for the field in the half mile handicap, closed to the church boys, and romped home an easy winner by fully 25 yards. V. McNally, who started from the 45-yard mark and J. McGrath with a mark of 10 yards, put up a hot fight for second place, but the former won out by a few feet. The winner's time for the half was 2:10 1-5.

A second disqualification resulted in the half-mile walk, when T. J. McNamara of the Mott Haven A. C., after finishing third, was disqualified for running. J. Gallagher of the McCaddin Lyceum, who started from the 15-yard mark, won the walk in good style, after being forced all the way by F. R. Plant of the Long Island A. C., and after McNamara was withdrawn it gave Frederick H. Kaiser, the noted walker of the Morris A. A. of the Bronx, the third place. Morris had only a 6-second start.

J. A. Kelly of the Knights of St. Anthony, was disqualified in the one-mile handicap after finishing in third place. The race was one of the fastest of the card, with about thirty athletes facing the starter on marks ranging up to 100 yards. F. M. Heller, with a mark of 50 yards, from the Knights of St. Anthony, won the honors after a great finish, in which he worked up from third place to the lead on the bell lap. The summaries:

65-Yard Dash, Handicap, Closed to Catholic Athletic League.—Won by E. J. Schleich, Dominican Lyceum, (6 feet;) E. Healey, Dominican Lyceum, (9 feet,) second; E. J. Ward, Paulist A. C., (4 feet,) third. Time—0:07 2-5.

65-Yard Dash, Junior, Closed to Boys Under 15 Years, St. Ignatius Boys' Club.—Won by C. F. Balzer; F. Ulrich, second; C. Vallely, third. Time—0:08 1-5.

65-Yard Dash, Senior, Handicap, Closed to St. Ignatius Boys' Club.—Won by J. J. Lee, (4 feet;) E. A. Sullivan, (3 feet,) second; H. Seney, (scratch,) third. Time—0:07 3-5.

704-Yard Relay, Junior.—Won by Dominican Lyceum team, composed of Desmond, Mack, Leslie, and Dempsey; St. Ignatius, team composed of McEwen, Banta, McCauley, and Lawrence, second; Ozanam A. C., team composed of Amacino, Valente, Rovitti, and Labella, third. Time—1:35.

One-Mile Run, Handicap, Closed to Catholic Athletic League.—Won by F. M. Heller, Knights of St. Anthony, (50 yards;) T. Long, Holy Cross Lyceum, (94 yards,) second; W. Banfield, Loughlin Lyceum, (88 yards,) third. Time—4:36 2-5.

One-Mile Relay, Handicap; closed to Catholic Athletic League.—Won by Knights of St. Anthony, (8 yards,) team composed of McGowan, Miller, McLaughlin, and Holmes; Dominican Lyceum, (16 yards,) team composed by Schleich, Healey, Gordon, and Gilmore, second; St. Ann's A. C., (46 yards,) team composed of Rogers, Nihill, Ringwald, and Staib, third. Time—3:41 4-5.

880-Yard Walk, Handicap, Open.—Won by J. Gallagher, McCaddin Lyceum, (15 seconds;) F. R. Plant, Long Island A. C., (10 seconds,) second; F. H. Kaiser, Morris A. A., (6 seconds,) third. Time—3:30 2-5.

300-Yard Run, Handicap, Closed to St. Ignatius Boys' Club.—Won by J. J. Lee, (6 yards;) R. Leahy, (15 yards,) second; R. Carroll, (8 yards,) third. Time—0:36 4-5.

880-Yard Run, Handicap, Closed to St. Ignatius Boys' Club.—Won by U. Lynch, (35 yards;) V. McNally, (45 yards,) second; J. Shanley, (35 yards,) third. Time—2:10 1-5.

220-Yard Dash, Handicap, Closed to Catholic Athletic League.—Won by E. J. Schleich, Dominican Lyceum, (5 yards;) E. Healey, Dominican Lyceum, (9 yards,) second; A. G. Jones, McCaddin Lyceum, (8 yards,) third. Time—0:25 2-5.

"Tech" Crew at Annapolis.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 26.—The eight-oared crew of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology arrived here to-day for practice prior to their race with the navy next Saturday. This event will open the 'Varsity season for the Midshipmen.

Keene and Croker Horses Outrun.

NEWMARKET, England, April 26.—The Two Thousand Guineas Stakes of 100 sovereigns, was run here to-day and won by Sunstar. Stedfast was second and Lycaon third. There were fourteen starters. The United States was represented by Richard Croker's Clonbern and J. R. Keene's Runnymede and Iron Mask II.

The race for a selling plate of 103 sovereigns, for two-year-olds, distance the last four furlongs of the Rous Course, was won by H. P. Whitney's Jinks gelding. Glengarry was second and Acsu third. Thirteen horses ran.

New Rochelle Appointments.

Commodore Myrick of the New Rochelle Yacht Club announces the following appointments: Fleet Captain—Horatio Page; Fleet Surgeon—Dr. F. E. Cassidy; Fleet Chaplain—The Rev. R. G. McGregor. The clubhouse at Harrison Island will be opened informally by a shadbake on April 30, and the club will go into commission on Saturday, May 6, at 4 P. M. The quarterly meeting of the club will be held on the evening of that day.

PATHFINDER'S PROGRESS.

Glidden Tour Officials Pass Through New York—Now at Waterbury.

The pathfinding car which is mapping the route for the Glidden reciprocity tour reached Broadway yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. The crew, composed of Howard Longstreth, S. M. Butler, E. L. Ferguson, N. Lazarnick, and pilot, left Washington, D. C., early Monday morning en route for Ottawa, Canada.

After a short stop at the American Automobile Association's headquarters on Fifth Avenue, the crew drove up to Waterbury, Conn., via New Rochelle, Greenwich, Stamford, and Bridgeport. The night stop was made at Waterbury. The car will proceed to Boston to-day.

Whitman Lectures on Ignition.

There was a big turnout of members at the clubrooms of the Long Island Automobile Club, Prospect Park Plaza, last night, to hear an interesting lecture by Roger B. Whitman on "Ignition and Ignition Methods." Mr. Whitman explained what ignition is, and demonstrated its uses for automobiles by charts and diagrams.

BOSTON A.A. TO SPEND $65,000

Hub's Premier Athletic Club Will Make Great Improvements in Club House.

Improvements which will warrant the spending of $65,000 will be begun at once by the Boston Athletic Association. A good part of the amount will be spent on the racket and tennis and bath departments. At present the organization has 2,150 members, with 725 on the waiting list. There are fifty-six athletic members.

According to the report of the Treasurer nearly $10,000 was added to the Treasury during the past year despite the loss of $14,079.22 in the restaurant. The bar and cigar departments turned in profits of over $12,000. The loss on athletics amounted to $798.15. Some of the expenses were: Fencing, $820.20; boating, $1,504.27; boxing, $1,258.90; shooting, $220.99; outdoor grounds, $2,826.71.

Roller Race in Local Rink.

A two-mile amateur roller skating race will be the feature for this evening at the Metropolitan Rink. There is a good entry, in which are included many of the competitors in the recent Eastern championships.

Teeth Like Natures

In our New York office we maintain the finest and most completely equipped private dental laboratory in the world, and here we do all the mechanical work pertaining to the restoration of teeth by our Martinolar Method.

None of it is turned over to some public laboratory to be made up—hit or miss.

The average dentist does not have the equipment to do his laboratory work. He sends this most important part of the process out to be done at long range by a public laboratory.

In our office your case is in the hands of a specialist who follows it through, step by step, until it is ready to be put in your mouth.

The work is individual—made for the person who is to wear the teeth, and nature's teeth are copied so closely as to deceive anyone.

Each little characteristic of the natural teeth is kept in mind, so that the new teeth will make no undesired change in the looks or speech of the wearer.

Read the following letter from Mr. Mortimer L. Hinchman of Brooklyn:

Dr. G. Gordon Martin (Inc.)
Dear Sirs:—
The dental work you recently completed for me, without any inconvenience whatsoever, is as mechanically and artistically perfect a substitution of teeth as is possible, and I recommend your method for mouth comfort, health, and efficiency.
MORTIMER L. HINCHMAN.

We invite you to call at our office for a consultation and examination of your mouth, for which there will be no charge, and let us explain what we can do for you.

If you cannot call at once, send for our book,
"MARTINOLAR DENTISTRY."
It is sent free upon request.

*Sweeney out, hit by batted ball.
†Batted for Mattern in the ninth inning.

First base on errors—Boston, 1; New York, 3. Two-base hits—Snodgrass, Graham, Miller, Murray. Three-base hit—Graham. Sacrifice hits—Raymond, 2; Merkle. Sacrifice fly—Bridwell. Stolen bases—Miller, Clarke, Merkle. Left on bases—Boston, 8; New York, 4. Double play—Snodgrass, Bridwell and Merkle. Bases on balls—Off Raymond, 2. Struck out—By Raymond, 7; by Mattern, 1. Passed ball—Wilson. Umpires—Messrs. Johnstone and Eason. Time of game—One hour and fifty minutes.

Arthur Devlin, the Giants' third baseman, made a gorgeous stop of a stinging grounder and a quick-thinking play in the third inning against Boston on the Hilltop yesterday that smothered the enemy's ambitious attempt to pry "Bugs" Raymond cloudward. Two men were out and Josh Clarke was camping on second base after he had singled and stole second. Miller hammered a two-bagger to left field, which scored Clarke and added a rosy hue to the Boston outlook. Goode nipped a wide outshoot, which whistled on its way along the third base line. Devlin jumped in front of the ball, and Miller started from second base at a gallop. The swift impact of the sphere drove Devlin into foul territory and nearly knocked him over. There was no hope of throwing Goode out at first base. Devlin had to make up his mind in a jiffy, and as Miller slid feet foremost into third Devlin executed an Annette Kellermann dive and tickled Miller on the shoe tops and retired the side.

Agitated fielding and throwing that was seriously wild made both teams look like two troops of Yannigans having their first workout of the season. The Giants won 6 to 3, but Bill Sweeney's errors at second base were responsible for three of the tallies, while clean-cut hitting off the service of Southpaw Mattern gave the other three. Boston got two of their three runs as a result of a lurid exhibition of undignified throwing by Devlin and Devore. The other run was earned by faithfully connecting with the ball. It was a mixture of good and bad baseball, with an occasional contribution that was very mushy.

Raymond was hit freely, but with men on the bases he was stingy with his hitable tosses. Eight of the Bostonians who got to the bases never bloomed into run collectors. At times "Bugs" was shaky enough to evoke slight signs of heart failure in the crowd, but the team rallied behind him and he climbed out of the holes. Mattern's pitching was just as good as Raymond's, and at times a little better. The Boston infield surrounded the Southpaw with a tissue-paper defense, and the best part of his tossing went for naught.

In the seventh inning the Giants almost put Boston's error-making ability in the shade. With two out, Clarke walked and Tenney rolled an easy grounder to Devlin. The third baseman threw the ball high over Merkle's head and Clarke scored. Devore captured the runaway ball near the right field stands, and tried to throw it over the grand stand and almost succeeded. The throw went into the boxes, and Tenney jaunted home.

Boston took the lead in the third inning, when Clarke's single and Miller's double gave a run and Goode's crack at third base gave Devlin an opportunity to execute the most thrilling feature of the game. The Giants tied the score in the next inning, when, with two out, Merkle singled, stole second, and scored when Bridwell's grounder filtered through the sievelike defense of Sweeney.

The fifth inning saw the Giants do a little smart hitting. Devlin and Wilson singled and Raymond sacrificed them along a station on their homeward journey. Devore was victimized by Mattern's pitching and Larry Doyle's hit to centre scored Devlin and Wilson. Doyle tried to stretch himself as far as second base, but he was trapped in the attempt. Murray's two-base hit to left field in the sixth inning placed him in a very favorable position to score when "Peaches" Graham and Sweeney made a brace of errors.

Boston got two runs in the seventh inning on the free arm exercises of Devlin and Devore, and in the same chapter Wilson's single, Raymond's sacrifice, and hits by Doyle and Snodgrass added two more to the Giants' arithmetic chest. Graham threatened trouble in the ninth, when he opened the final round with a tremendous smash to left field for three bases. The next three men following, however, couldn't follow suit.

Newark Loses at the Start.

Newark went down to defeat before the Rochester champions in Newark yesterday. The score was 4 to 2. This was the second victory in three games for the visitors. The game was better to look at than the others. Twice it appeared as though the Indians would break things up, but Moran, the fleet-footed centre-fielder of the Bronchos, made sensational catches when men were on bases. McConnell did good work in the box and with the stick. The score:

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., April 26.—A lurid exhibition of baseball when it is not full of back lot sketches and winding up with a back lot score was furnished this afternoon by the Red Sox and the New York Yankees at the Huntington Avenue Grounds. Boston won out finally 11 to 8, but only after some heart-breaking moments of suspense for the Donovan adherents. In the first place the locals took Pitcher Harry Able's measure for eights runs in two innings. As the Yankees managed to push one over in the first inning, this gave the locals a start of 8 to 1. It was nearly the handicap they needed, for near the end they were staggering, while the Chase men were just warming to the race and tearing things up in such a fashion that they drove "Knuckles" Cicotte to the stable with a fusillade of bangs in the next to the last chapter.

One of the war correspondents who sends us all that nice reading about the war in Mexico might be able to do justice to the battle. It was filled with casualties and the thunder of big guns, but when it was all over it didn't amount to much as a historical proposition.

Ables, he of the mighty mitts, lasted two rounds. And such rounds. In the first the Sox rapped him for four runs, but they were helped some by timely "boots." In the second he had them two down and one to play, golfically speaking. The inning should have been over, but Larry Gardner, the third man up, batted a home run, and in the next few minutes the carnage was terrific. The inning netted the Donovans four more. Ables went to the stable in favor of "King" Brockett. The latter wasn't any better than the law requires, but the Red Sox made but three runs off his delivery, which was fairly good going for the day.

For six long and somewhat satisfactory innings, from the Boston point of view, Cicotte held forth without being seriously damaged. His support was bad at times, but the final blowing up didn't come until later. In the six rounds the Yankees made three runs. In the first an error by Gardner and a triple by Hartzell were ingredients. In the third a trio of singles by Walsh, who batted for Brockett, Wolter, and Daniels, helped the New Yorks to one more. A single by Cree followed by a stolen base and wild heave to second by Carrigan, and an infield out were the makings of the third run, the same being propelled around in the fifth round.

These runs came through easily and gracefully the Sox putting up a careless opposition and playing like sailors on pay day, as far as their nice lot of tallies were concerned. Then the seventh inning blew along. Williams managed to foozle Wolter's rap at the very outset. Daniels hit to Cicotte, and the latter slung the ball to centre field by way of showing that he meant to peg to second. Chase beat out an infield hit and filled the bases, and Wolter scored on Hartzell's sacrifice fly to Hooper. Then Knight singled and scored Daniels, and Cree singled and scored Chase, and Johnson hit a fly to Speaker that brought Knight in. This made it four runs. The Sox had gathered their 11 before this juncture. The lead had dwindled to the magic figures of 11 to 7. Cicotte started the next inning, but when a double by Wolter and singles by Daniels and Chase had produced a run, Hall was rushed to the rescue. His first attempt was eminently successful, in so much as he induced Hartzell to belt into a double play which closed the round, and he waded through the ninth inning without being scored against.

There was but one inning in the whole game that both teams did not have men on the sacks. That closed season was the New York second. Otherwise there was always something doing. New York, by making six errors of a glaring sort, and Boston, by booting and muffing for a total of four, helped the carnival considerably when it was stowing up. Twenty-six hits helped to keep it lively otherwise.

Athletics in Their Stride Again.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—Washington was again defeated here to-day, the score being 7 to 2. Groom weakened in the fifth inning, when three hits, including doubles by Oldring and Collins, two bases on balls, and an error netted five runs. The inning wound up by Milan making one of the greatest one-hand running catches ever seen at Shibe Park, the play robbing Davis of a possible home run. Bender struck out twelve of his opponents. "Frat" Baseball League at Columbia.

An interfraternity baseball league was formed at Columbia University yesterday, and fifteen of the twenty-six secret societies at the university were represented at the meeting. A silver cup will be given to the winning team, and only those who are taking regular work at the university will be eligible to play. No 'Varsity squad men will be allowed to play, but the freshmen do not count, and the different fraternities can play their freshies. The first games in the series will be played on Saturday, when Alpha Delta Phi plays Delta Tau Delta and Delta Upsilon meets Phi Kappa Psi.

Chance Sprains Ankle Badly.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 26.—Frank Chance, Captain and manager of the Chicago National League Baseball team, so seriously sprained his ankle in to-day's game with Cincinnati that he had to be carried from the field. First reports indicated that the injury would keep him out of the game for several weeks.

FLIES TO GARDEN CITY.

Earle Ovington Makes Successful Trip from Belmont Park.

Special to The New York Times.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., April 26.—Earle L. Ovington made a flight in the 1911 Blériot monoplane from Belmont Park to Garden City at 6:30 to-night. The plane carries a 70 horse power engine, the highest powered Gnome motor ever brought into the United States. Ovington flew at an altitude of from 500 to 600 feet. He was expected to have visited the Mineola Aviation Field, but got no further than Garden City. Ovington, who has made recent sensational flights abroad, was formerly Secretary of the League of American Wheelmen.

A biplane belonging to Mr. Talmage was also seen on the field from the train, but no further details of this afternoon's flight could be learned from the clubhouse, which was closed.

COLLEGE CREWS FOR REGATTA

Yale and Harvard May Row on Hudson River Memorial Day.

It is probable that Yale and Harvard will send crews to the Memorial Day regatta on the Harlem River. John A. Nagle, Chairman of the Regatta Committee of the Harlem Regatta Association, announced last night at the meeting of the association that he had received letters from the rowing coaches promising to send crews if possible. If the Blue and Crimson rowing associations are represented on the Harlem it will be the first time in ten years a regular college crew, with the exception of Columbia, has competed in the Memorial Day regatta. The last college eight was Pennsylvania.

In order to make the event successful, the New York Athletic Club has offered the Harlem and Metropolitan Rowing Clubs the use of their boats for the regatta. The offer was accepted, and these two organizations, whose clubhouses were recently destroyed by fire, will send entries. The Nassau Boat Club sent word by its representative that it would not be represented at the regatta.

Owing to the inability of Capt. E. F. Haubold of the New York Athletic Club to officiate as referee, J. A. Miller, Jr., of the same organization was selected for the position. It was announced that Philadelphia had promised a number of entries.

No Davis Cup Tennis in England.

In answer to a cablegram received from the English Lawn Tennis Association, inviting the American team to play the preliminary matches for the International Cup in England during coronation week, the following message was cabled yesterday afternoon by Dr. Dwight, President of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association:

"Must decline. Hope to meet you in New Zealand. DWIGHT."

The American association has found it impossible to organize a team which can go both to England and New Zealand this year, so in all probability the preliminary matches for the Davis Cup, as well as the finals, will be played in Australasia, where the cup is now held.

BROOKLYN PITCHERS GET SEVERE BEATING

Ryan and Knetzer Driven Out of Box by Philadelphia National Batsmen.

Quaker batting averages took a decided jump yesterday afternoon when the league-leading Phillies and tail-end Superbas came together at Washington Park, and the Dooin brigade had no trouble in again resuming their winning stride, which was temporarily abandoned the day before. It required only an inning for the boys from Quakertown to don their best batting togs, and once they started there was no let up. They practically salted the game away in the second and third innings and finished up seven runs to the good. The final score was 10 to 3.

Every one of the Dooinites managed to connect for at least one bingle, and Manager Red repeated his performance of the day before by turning in three hits. Knabe was the only Quaker outside the breastworks when the eighth inning opened, and he made a hit in that inning. A majority of the drives were of the Texas leaguer variety, with just enough steam to carry beyond the infield and within the outer line, but they came with such regularity that they proved as good as longer wallops. Only one of the fourteen hits made by the Phillies was good for more than a single cushion, and that one exception would have been sufficient for a dozen, if such a thing were possible. It was a home run by Titus in the third inning, and it cleared the high fence in right centre field, landing out in First Street. Titus was the first man to face Ryan in the third inning, so the wallop counted for only one run.

Dahlen picked Pitcher Ryan to humble the Phillies, and he proved the easiest kind of a proposition to the visitors. He got away well in the first inning, but in the second four successive singles followed a pass, and in the next inning he was reached for a home run and a pair of singles. With one out Manager Dahlen called him to the bench and sent Knetzer to the mound. He proved just as easy, and in the next five innings the Phillies doubled their score. Knetzer's wildness had him constantly in trouble, and he was also hit when bingles counted. Alexander went the full distance for the Phillies, and except for two innings—the sixth and seventh—he had no difficulty. His control was not the best, but he kept his passes almost as well scattered as his hits.

A pass to Magee and successive singles by Paskert, Luderus, Doolan, and Dooin gave the Phillies two runs in the second inning. Poor base running prevented a larger score. In the third Titus's home run, Tooley's error, and singles by Magee and Luderus accounted for three more Quaker runs. In the sixth three passes were bunched with singles by Dooin, Alexander, and Lobert for another trio of runs. Again in this inning wild base running kept down the Phillies' score. Passes to Luderus and Doolin and another single by Alexander brought in a run in the seventh inning, and the last run was scored in the eighth inning on Knabe's single and steal and a hit by Magee.

Daubert's single, Knabe's error, and Zimmerman's hit after two were out gave Brooklyn her first run in the sixth inning. Two others came in the succeeding chapter on a pass to Tooley, Daubert's double, and Hummel's single.

The fielding features were three fast double plays by the home team and a running catch by Magee of Coulson's long fly near the left field foul line in the fourth inning. The score:

Ultimatum to Waterbury Club.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 26.—President W. J. Tracy of the Connecticut Baseball League announced to-day that if the Waterbury management persists in playing Outfielder Hoey, who is a subject of dispute, he will suspend Hoey, and that if this step does not insure the result aimed at he will notify the league umpires to forfeit all games in which Hoey participated to the opposing teams.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

CATSKILL AQUEDUCT.

Sealed bids will be received by the Board of Water Supply, at its offices, seventh floor, 165 Broadway, New York, until 11 A. M. on Tuesday, May 16, 1911, for Contract 63, for the construction of a portion of the city tunnel of the Catskill aqueduct, a circular tunnel in rock 15 feet inside diameter, and about 21,200 feet long. From the northerly end of the work in Yonkers, about 200 feet north of the New York City line, between Jerome and Mt. Vernon Avenues, the tunnel line extends in a general southerly direction through the Borough of the Bronx, under Van Cortlandt Park and Jerome Park reservoir, and crosses beneath the Old Croton aqueduct and Aqueduct Avenue to Burnside Avenue, near University Heights. Tunnel construction will be carried on through five shafts, spaced from 3,500 to 5,000 feet apart, and varying in depth from 215 to 240 feet.

At the above place and time the bids will be publicly opened and read. Pamphlets containing information for bidders, and pamphlets of contract drawings can be obtained at the above address by depositing the sum of ten dollars ($10) for each pamphlet. For further particulars see Information for Bidders.

BOND MARKET BROADENS

Enlarged Demand for High-Grade Issues—Increasing Quiet in Steel Trade.

At the opening of the market yesterday prices receded from those prevailing at the close of the previous day, with United States Steel suffering the loss of a substantial fraction over night. This movement reflected the influence of the corporation's quarterly statement, which revealed earnings considerably smaller than had been expected, although this unfavorable feature was modified by the fact that the March earnings showed a large recovery from the January figures. After the first selling movement had run its course the market strengthened, and with relatively few exceptions the closing prices of the session, after a day of light trading, showed fractional net gains. One of the exceptions to this movement was Amalgamated Copper, which earlier in the week had advanced more rapidly than the rest of the list. A further contraction in the steel trade during the past week was the noteworthy feature of the usual trade reviews issued yesterday. The Steel Corporation is now operating 67 per cent. of its blast furnace capacity, and finishing mills in most lines have lowered their rate of production. Commenting on the Steel Corporation's showing for the March quarter The Iron Age says that the figures show that an important percentage of the business done during the first three months of the year was based on export prices. The 50 cents per ton reduction in the price of iron ore does not appear to have stimulated purchases in the face of the fact that merchant furnaces are supplied with ore for a long time ahead.

Much less perfunctory than the dealings in the stock market were the transactions in the bond department, where further advances were recorded on a substantially increased volume of trading. Both the Stock Exchange dealings in bonds and the over-the-counter sales indicated a broadening of the demand for bonds, which is a most gratifying development. It is noteworthy that this demand is making itself felt almost entirely for high grade issues, which are being purchased by institutions, and on a smaller scale by individuals. Thus continued ease in money is having its logical effect upon the investment markets. A small fraction was added to the previous high record of New York City 4¼s, and improvement was also noted in the prices of other New York City issues. One of the influences in this market appears to be the law proposed at Albany, which would require deposits of city money to be secured by city bonds. To the extent to which this is a factor in the situation the position of the bonds is being artificially influenced. It is clear, however, from the general movement of the bond market that genuine investment demand is showing substantial improvement.

The upward movement in cotton continued yesterday and the new crop options were carried forward with the old crop months. Wheat and corn were both higher, export demand for wheat being a factor in the day's grain markets. Somewhat larger demand for call loans at the day's maximum rate of 2½ per cent. was an incident of the money market here, while in London discounts were firmer at 2½ per cent. The latter was reflected by firmer sterling exchange rates. The banks' loss to the Sub-Treasury since Friday last was increased yesterday to $3,296,000, which contrasts with a loss of $648,000 during the corresponding period a week ago.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—Notwithstanding the disappointing United States Steel Corporation report a firm tone developed on the local Exchange to-day after a slight flurry in the first hour, which was due chiefly to short covering. Reading's strength was due to a report that a block of no less than 50,000 shares of that stock had been taken over this week by a single Wall Street interest at a private sale at a price of 150. If this is a fact the technical position of Reading shares should be exceedingly strong. The final dealings in this city this afternoon were enlivened by a sudden development of demand for the local tractions.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Upturn in Prices General, but Trading Continues in Small Volume on Curb.

BUTTE COALITION DOWN

Sells Off from 17⅝ to 16¾ on Small Transactions in the Face of General Upturn—C. & O. Notes Active.

With few exceptions yesterday, Curb stocks were firm, and although trading was not in greatly increased volume, some substantial advances were made. Inspiration advanced from 6⅞ to 7⅝, closing after sales of 1,200 shares at 7¼. Braden opened up fractionally at 4 and sold, 1,000 shares, at that price. British Columbia rose from 5⅛ to 5¼. Giroux also opened higher, selling, 400 shares, at 6. Greene-Cananea, on sales of 1,500 shares, sold up from 6¼ to 6½. Ray Central sold up from 1⅜ to 1 7-16 on sales of 2,500 shares. Butte Coalition was one of the exceptions to the general trend of prices and sold off from 17⅝ to 16¾. In the bond list Chesapeake & Ohio 4½ per cent. notes, "when issued," were the dominant feature, trading totaling $150,000, all at 99 13-16.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Wednesday.

Commission house business on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was on an encouraging scale, with the market active and broad. Commission brokers handled a large number of odd lot orders, and there were indications that the recent decline had stimulated a better public interest. Odd lot transactions were effected in a number of stocks of which no sales were reported on the New York Stock Exchange. In this class were New York Air Brake, which sold at 70; Pacific Mail, which sold at 23⅛, and American Beet Sugar, which changed hands at 42¼ and 42⅜.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Misnaming Our Trusts Abroad.

A well known London daily newspaper made recently this reference to the American market: "Dealers in American securities have relinquished all idea of a revival in business until the decisions of the Supreme Court with regard to certain trust companies has been announced." It is doubtful if the Standard Oil Company and the American Tobacco Company would recognize themselves under this description. One inference which seems to be suggested by this London reference to the impending decisions in the "anti-trust" cases is that from a distance the importance of these decisions seems very much less than it has appeared to those who have been watching for them here at home. Across the Atlantic these two great corporations, whose affairs have been attracting so much attention, particularly in recent months, are reduced to the unimportance suggested by the hazy reference to them as "certain trust companies."

Bond Market Expanding.

The transactions in the bond department of the Stock Exchange yesterday reached $4,027,000, which is the largest trading in bonds since January 30, when the dealings amounted to $6,519,580. The business in bonds on the Stock Exchange has been increasing for several days as an incident in the broadening demand for investment issues, which so far has been confined in large measure to high grade issues. New York City bonds contributed more than $1,000,000 to yesterday's totals, a new high price of 103⅜ being recorded for the latest issue of 4¼ per cent. bonds. Lake Shore debenture 4s of 1931 was another of the day's active issues which made a new high price for the year. Besides these and a small number of other active bonds the day's transactions included a large variety of issues in which the dealings were limited to a few transactions.

Payment of Duty by Check.

Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh has sent our circulars instructing collectors of customs and internal revenue to accept certified checks on and after June 1 in payment of duties and taxes. This is in accordance with a law enacted by the last Congress doing away with the requirement that they be paid in gold or other "lawful money." Under the present system the banks make special deposits every morning at the Sub-Treasury of the amounts to be paid that day. The bank desiring to make a payment then makes an order or "request" on the Collector to transfer the sum specified to the account of "duties paid" and the Collector makes a corresponding order on the Assistant Treasurer, under which the amount is credited to the Collector. Any money not transferred by the Collector at the end of the day is returned to the bank making the deposit. The deposits so made by the banks each day run from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

Sharp Recovery in Steel Earnings.

Never in the previous history of the United States Steel Corporation did monthly earnings show such a sharp recovery as between the first and last months of the quarter just ended. Earnings of $5,869,416 in January increased to $7,180,928 in February, and in March had reached $10,468,859. This gain of $4,599,443 compares with the largest previous recovery in a single quarter made between January and March, 1910, when the gain was $3,367,988. Between April 1 and June, 1909, there was an increase in earnings of $3,352,775. The next quarter should show the seasonal advantage of open weather, which brings heavier earnings from the transportation lines of the corporation, besides the gain which is incident to increased building operations throughout the country. The last and first quarters of each year are for this reason the poorest in the annual round, and, without exception so far, the United States Steel Corporation's quarterly reports have shown better business in the second than in the first quarter.

Higher Cotton.

The new crop options shared in the rise in cotton prices on the Cotton Exchange yesterday, influenced by the fear that too much rain in the belt would hurt the new crop, and quotations rose to levels which have not been reached since early in December. The rise was approximately $1 a bale, and sent many large short contracts to cover. April went to 15.12, May to 15.20, July to 15.34, August to 15.08, October to 13.34, and December to 13.32. The close was from 2 to 9 points of the top.

Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—At the beginning of business to-day the condition of the United States Treasury was:

Working balance in Treasury offices, $22,928,972; in banks and Philippine Treasury, $31,407,521.

The total balance in general fund was $80,606,595.

Ordinary receipts yesterday were $1,855,607, with ordinary disbursements of $1,517,262.

The deficit to date this fiscal year is $2,333,531, as against $19,008,141 at this time last year.

These figures exclude Panama Canal and public debt transactions.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 26.—While there was not quite so much activity in the Boston market as was witnessed during yesterday's session, the undertone was strong and offerings of stocks appeared to be rather light. Price changes were comparatively small, all being confined within a fraction of a point, and there was no particular feature worthy of note.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 26.—Prices generally ruled higher on the local Stock Exchange to-day, though there was only moderate activity to trading. Sears-Roebuck was among the strongest features, with an advance of more than a point, while there were smaller gains made by Diamond Match, People's Gas, American Can, common and preferred, and South Side Elevated shares. Illinois Brick, Subway, and Chicago Railways 2s were unchanged at the close.

METAL MARKET REPORTS.

At the Metal Exchange yesterday a slightly easier tendency was shown. Copper was unchanged for nearby deliveries, but about ⅛c lower for futures. Tin was down ⅛c in the bid and ¼c in the asking price. Lead and spelter were unchanged.

The closing bid and asked prices follow:

	Wednesday. Bid.	Wednesday. Asked.	Tuesday. Bid.	Tuesday. Asked.
Stand. Cop.
Spot	11.70	11.80	11.70	11.80
April	11.70	11.80	11.70	11.80
May	11.70	11.80	11.80	11.90
June	11.70	11.80	11.80	11.90
Lead	4.40	4.50	4.40	4.50
Spelter	5.40	5.50	5.40	5.50
Tin	42.37½	42.75	42.50	43.00

On the Metal Exchange in London yesterday quotations for spot and future deliveries of copper and pig tin are noted in the following summary. These are the closing prices and compare with the final figures of Tuesday:

	Wednesday. £	s.	d.	Tuesday. £	s.	d.
Copper, spot	54	2	6	54	3	9
Pig tin, futures	190	10	0	190	5	0

The market ended dull. Spanish pig lead was easier at a recession of 1s 3d. to £12 17s 6d. Cleveland warrants were quoted at 26s 6d. Spelter was steady at £24.

Augusta-Aiken Ry. & Electric Corporation
5% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds
Dated November 15, 1910 Interest payable June and December 1 Due December 1, 1935

Coupon bonds in denominations of $100, $500, and $1,000, and registered bonds of $1,000, etc. Coupon bonds of $1,000 and registered bonds interchangeable. Coupon bonds may be registered as to principal. Redeemable as a whole or in part for sinking fund at 105 and accrued interest on any interest date. Central Trust Company, New York, Trustee.

For full information we refer to a letter, copies of which may be obtained at our office, from Mr. J. H. Pardee, Vice-President of the Corporation, from which we summarize as follows:

1. These bonds will be secured by a direct first mortgage on the entire railway and lighting property, subject only on a part thereof, to an issue now limited to $967,000 and which is annually being reduced.
2. A gradually increasing sinking fund beginning in 1916 will, it is estimated, retire over $1,300,000 of these bonds by maturity.
3. Net earnings of the combined properties are steadily increasing as follows:

1907	1908	1909	1910
$203,515	$207,193	$245,707	$278,283

4. Earnings for 1910 are officially reported:

Gross Earnings	$614,031.74
Operating Expenses and Taxes	335,748.33
Net Earnings	$278,283.41
Prior Interest Charges	55,000.00
Balance	$223,283.41
Interest on this Issue	120,000.00
Surplus	$103,283.41

5. The property comprises the entire street railway and electric lighting system of Augusta, Ga., and its suburbs, the railway to Aiken, S. C., as well as valuable real estate, terminals and other property. Augusta is a very important railroad center, being served by seven railroads and two river lines, thus insuring exceptionally cheap freight rates. It is now one of the largest inland cotton centres in the United States, and is growing steadily.

Messrs. J. G. White & Co., Inc., have reported for us on all the engineering and operating features. The greater part of this issue having already been sold, we offer, subject to sale or advance in price, the balance at

This well-known company, dealing in Milk, Creamery Products, etc., was organized and commenced business in 1902. It acquired the business of the following successful firms: Thomas W. Decker & Sons, Slawson Brothers, and the Sheffield Farms. The Company has shown a steady growth in volume of business and net earnings.

In addition to its equipment, accounts receivable, etc., the Company owns real estate in New York City and elsewhere, including warehouses, stores, creameries, etc., to an inventoried value of approximately $1,400,000. The Company reports as of December 31st, 1910, that these properties are free and clear, except for mortgages amounting to about $338,000.

HEREAFTER NO ADDITIONAL MORTGAGE INDEBTEDNESS AGAINST ANY OF THE COMPANY'S PROPERTY, NOR ANY BONDED DEBT, MAY BE CREATED WITHOUT THE CONSENT OF TWO-THIRDS IN INTEREST OF THE PREFERRED AND COMMON STOCKHOLDERS.

The Company's net earnings for 1910, after depreciation charges, were over twelve times the amount required to pay the preferred stock dividends.

The Company's accounts have been audited by the Audit Company of New York, and this issue of preferred stock has been made under advice of our counsel, Messrs. Krauthoff, Harmon & Mathewson, of New York, N. Y.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF LIQUIDATION OF THE CITY DEBT.
Room 206, City Hall Annex,
New Orleans, La., April 4th, 1911.

The Board of Liquidation of City Debt, acting under authority of Act No. 19 of the General Assembly of the State of Louisiana for the Session of 1906, and Act No. 116 of said General Assembly for the Session of 1908, and Act No. 23 of said General Assembly for the Session of 1910, as amended by Act No. 5 of said General Assembly for the Second Extra Session of 1910, which said Acts No. 19 of 1906 and No. 116 of 1908 have been adopted and ratified by Constitutional Amendment, and have become part of the Constitution of the State of Louisiana, will receive sealed proposals at its office in the City of New Orleans, State of Louisiana, up to twelve o'clock noon on the eighth day of May, 1911, for the purchase of $7,000,000.00 in face value of New Public Improvement Bonds of the City of New Orleans, authorized by and to be issued under and subject to the provisions of the acts aforementioned, and the Constitutional Amendments ratifying same.

Said bonds are of the denomination of One Thousand Dollars each and bear interest at the rate of four per cent. (4%) per annum, evidenced by interest coupons attached, payable semi-annually on the first days of January and July of each year respectively. Said bonds are by law exempt from taxation, State, Parish, and Municipal.

Said bonds are payable January 1, 1942, and are subject to call at the option of the City of New Orleans after January 1, 1928, and are and will be issued under and subject to the statutes aforementioned, all of which are hereby referred to and made part of this advertisement for greater certainty and particularity.

Said proposals shall be received under and subject to the following conditions to wit:

1. That no sale shall be made of any of the said bonds unless the aggregate of bids received shall be for the full amount of said bonds, to wit, $7,000,000.00 in face value.
2. Said bonds shall be adjudicated to the highest bidder or bidders, provided that said bonds, or any part thereof, shall not be adjudicated for less than par and accrued interest, less a commission or deduction not to exceed six per centum (6%) on the principal thereof.
3. All matured interest coupons on said bonds shall be cut from said bonds and canceled, and the successful bidder or bidders shall pay the interest which may have accrued on said bonds up to the date of delivery.
4. Said bonds shall be paid for by the successful bidder or bidders in cash as fast as they can be signed and delivered, and all of said bonds shall be delivered in not more than sixty days from the date of the opening of said bids.
5. No bid will be received or considered unless accompanied by a certified check on some chartered bank in the City of New Orleans for an amount equal to three per cent. of the amount of the said bid; said check shall be made to the order of the Board of Liquidation of the City Debt, and the check or checks of the successful bidder or bidders shall be cashed and the proceeds retained by the Board of Liquidation of the City Debt as a guarantee that the successful bidder or bidders, respectively, will comply with its or their bids, and the said proceeds shall be applied to the payment of the bonds last delivered to the said bidder or bidders respectively. In case of the neglect or refusal to comply with any bid the proceeds of said check shall be forfeited to the Sewerage & Water Board.
6. Any local bank or banks that may bid for said bonds may stipulate in its or their bids that it or they desire to be awarded the custody of the Public Improvement Fund, as provided by Act. No. 23 of the General Assembly for the Session of 1910, amended by Act No. 5 of said General Assembly for the Second Extra Session of 1910.
7. If any local bank or banks should, pursuant to the statutes aforesaid, be awarded the custody and deposit of the Public Improvement Fund, as established by law, the said local bank or banks shall be required to pay the rate of interest on daily balances as may be fixed by the Board of Liquidation of the City Debt, pursuant to the statutes aforementioned, and shall comply with all the provisions of said statutes as to security and other matters.

Mark all bids "Proposals for the purchase of New Public Improvement Bonds."

Further particulars and information will be furnished upon application to T. Wolfe, Jr., Secretary Board of Liquidation, City Debt, Room 206, City Hall Annex, New Orleans, La.

STEEL WIRE WORKS GOING UP AS PLANNED

NOT OPPOSING LEGISLATION

Output of Finished Steel Products Falls Off in the Last Week—Business Done on Concessions.

Announcement from Birmingham, Ala., that the United States Steel Corporation had abandoned further work on the new wire plant of the American Steel and Wire Company at Corey, Ala., were modified yesterday by Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Steel Corporation. He made it clear that while the corporation thought the proposed tariff changes a menace to the wire business in the South, the plant at Corey will be completed even if it has to be used for some other branch of the steel industry. He said:

"The subsidiary companies of the United States Steel Corporation have been working upon a plan for the expenditure of large sums for extensions and new buildings and equipment at Birmingham. A large part of the buildings has been constructed and they will be promptly completed. In fact, the work could not be interrupted without serious detriment. This includes a large reservoir and water plant and a large number of by-product coke ovens for the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company, and also includes a large wire plant for the manufacture, among other things, of wire products by the American Steel and Wire Company. It was intended to erect a large number of residences for occupancy by the men to be employed, and it was also intended to install expensive machinery.

"It has seemed to the officials of the Steel Corporation that House Bill No. 4,413, reported by the Committee on Ways and Means to the House of Representatives, if it should become a law, would seriously affect the manufacture and sale of some wire products in the Birmingham district because of the low cost of production of these articles in foreign countries and the low rate of transportation in returning ships.

"Therefore, local officials were advised to suspend or postpone consideration of the question of making contracts for residences or for extensions or equipment of the mills until after the whole subject matter could be carefully considered. The advices seem to have been misinterpreted to some extent, and all or much of the work on the buildings in progress of construction was interrupted. Upon learning this fact the local officials were advised of the real intention of those in authority, as above stated, and work was thereupon resumed.

"There has been no intention or effort to influence or antagonize legislation. We present our views and reasons when asked, but submit without question to the decision of those who are responsible for legislat[illegible] and its results. We have a good opin[illegible] of the Birmingham properties and hope in time to operate them at a reasonable profit. Our action, however, has been and will be based on what we consider sound business principles."

Commenting on general conditions, and particularly on the price concessions, the Iron Age says:

> In steel bars, for example, while the 1.40 cent basis is maintained, makers of hard steel bars have been more active and as low as 1.27½ cent Pittsburg has been quoted, while in Western markets bars rolled from [illegible] crop ends have been sold at concessions.

Of the reduction in ore prices the same authority says:

> A Pittsburg ore company has sold from its Mesaba Range 200,000 tons of Bessemer and 550,000 tons on non-Bessemer ores on a $4.25 and $3.50 basis respectively, or a reduction of 50 cents a ton from last year's prices. Cleveland firms have sold several blocks of ore at the same reduction, and with the price thus fixed various reservations made in the past few months become contracts.

The Iron Trade Review says:

> The fixing of prices of Lake Superior iron ores by sales rather than by agreement, as in old days, was the most interesting feature of the week. The reduction of 50 cents per ton made on lake ores and 25 cents on crude Fort Henry ores has failed to arouse much activity among buyers. A few sales are reported and some reservations are being converted into contracts, but the furnaces are so well supplied with ore that they see no necessity for making contracts and increasing their financial obligations, which are already heavy, until trade conditions develop more clearly.

The output of finished steel products in the past week has been the smallest in two months, according to the leading trade authorities, and with the falling off in new business reports of price cutting has naturally followed. There was no confirmation obtainable among the larger producers yesterday of price cutting, although it was admitted that a number of the smaller independent concerns have been taking business at concessions.

BANK NOTE COMPANY GAINS.

Net Profits Increased and More Disbursed in Dividends.

The United Bank Note Company, which is the holding company for the American Bank Note Company, which has a practical monopoly of the business of the Stock Exchange, made net profits in the year ended Dec. 31 of $716,520, according to the annual report made public yesterday. This is an increase of $51,939. Other income, totalling $35,084, brought total net earnings up to $751,604, which is $43,470 better than the earnings in the previous year.

After the usual reductions there remained a balance of $606,604 for dividends. The preferred dividend, $269,735, was $22,447 larger than in the previous year, and the common dividend of $179,822 was an increase of $14,997. The surplus at the close of the year was $155,992, which added to the previous surplus, made the total surplus $1,026,841.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, April 26.—Money was scarce and dear to-day. Discount rates were harder.

The stock market was irregular, with most sections showing weakness. British securities and rubber shares declined under realizing, and Consols fell three-sixteenths on fears of a new loan, while Kaffirs closed easy. Copper and industrial stocks and Mexican rails were harder.

American securities were quiet and irregular during the early trading. In the afternoon Wall Street buying improved values sharply and made the closing steady.

Bar silver quiet, 24 13-16d per ounce.

Money, 2¼@3 per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 2¼@2 9-16 per cent.; for three months' bills 2¼@2 9-16 per cent.

Gold premium at Madrid, 8.45; at Lisbon, 10.

Bullion amounting to £128,000 was taken into the Bank of England on balance to-day.

PARIS, April 26.—The Moroccan situation depressed prices on the Bourse to-day.

Exchange on London, 25f 31c for checks.

BERLIN, April 26.—Prices closed irregular, but mainly higher, on the Boerse to-day.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 45 pfennigs for checks.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following foreign trade opportunities abroad. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to.

6,599. MACHINERY OF VARIOUS KINDS.—A botanist in Mexico writes that he has inquiry from parties wanting to get estimates and descriptions of ropemaking and fibre machinery; also from firms that would establish factories for extracting wax from plants.

6,600. AMERICAN SPECIALTIES. — An American consulate in the United Kingdom reports that a large cutlery house on one of the important streets in his district has filled its windows with a display of American articles, which are selling well, owing to their superiority over similar articles of domestic origin.

6,601. REPRESENTATION IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES.—The Bureau of Manufactures is in receipt of a communication from a correspondent who states that he has just returned from a foreign trip and would like to get in touch with firms in the United States desiring representation abroad.

6,602. PORTABLE HOUSES.—A report from an American consular officer in England states that a concern in his district has requested him to place it in communication with an American transportable and portable buildings company.

6,603. AMERICAN MANUFACTURED GOODS.—An American consulate reports that there were notable increases in the imports of the following articles in his district during the past year: Alcohol, beer, flour, hardware, iron and steel manufactures, soap, sugar, and several other lines. All these articles, he states, can be advantageously imported from the United States, and American exporters would do well to investigate this field, as there is little doubt that profitable connections could be established with the local importers. The consulate would be pleased to receive samples and prices of beer, soap, sugar, biscuits, and soda crackers.

6,604. FOOD AND DRUG ARTICLES.—An official of a chemical company in the United States writes the bureau that he would like to secure the representation in South Africa of one of two reliable firms, preferably those handling a branded line of either food or drug articles. He states that he is well acquainted with this field, has good connections there, and can produce excellent references. He is willing to work on a straight salary or salary and commission, including expenses.

6,605. NUTS, BEANS, AND WOOL.—An American Consul in the Levant reports that a business firm in his district is desirous of establishing commercial relations with American importers of filiberts, walnuts, wool, and beans. Correspondence may be in English, but French is preferred.

6,606. LUMBER AND HARDWOODS.—A report from an American consular officer in Italy states that a local business man would like to secure the agency for American firms exporting pitch pine, lumber, and hardwoods of all kinds.

6,607. SKINS.—A well-known exporter of skins in a city of Turkey desires to get in touch with American importers so as to do business direct. He is the proprietor of a brand which is favorably known on the American market, but has hitherto done business through French houses. He claims that if he deals direct with American houses he can give better skins at more advantageous prices, as he will then eliminate the middle man.

6,608. BIDS FOR AN ELECTRIC LIGHT AND STREET RAILWAY CONCESSION.—Consul General G. Bie Ravndal of Constantinople telegraphed under date of April 18 that the Turkish Minister of Works invites bids up to July 15 for an electric light and street railway concession at Aleppo, Asiatic Turkey. Further particulars were given in daily consular and trade reports for Dec. 23, 1910.

6,609. MOTOR LAUNCHES.—An American consulate in the Levant reports that a company has been formed in his district to run motor launches on a large body of water in that region. It is now in the market for four or five launches of from 20 to 100 tons to carry freight and passengers. The firm has already been corresponding with British manufacturers.

6,610. AMERICAN GOODS FOR PALESTINE.—The Bureau of Manufactures is in receipt of a communication from a business man in Palestine who states that he is anxious to do business with American firms producing articles suitable for the trade of that country. He desires catalogues, price lists, and descriptive circulars from concerns willing to cater to this market.

6,611. TENDERS FOR THE SUPPLY OF STEEL RAILS.—Consul General G. Cornell Tarler of Bangkok has forwarded copies of tender and specifications for the supply of steel rails for the southern line of the Royal Siamese State Railways. Bids will be received until July 29, 1911. Copies of the forms can be obtained upon application to the Bureau of Manufactures.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—Trading in wheat was very quiet all day with the market showing a stronger tone at the close. There was evidence of selling pressure early on the crop and weather news, but the decline was small and prices began slowly to work up, showing considerable strength in the afternoon. The early selling movement was based on the American crop and weather news. This news, while very favorable, did not bring any pressure of wheat on the market, and when early sellers tried to cover prices were bid up easily in a narrow market. The foreign markets were somewhat irregular and in some cases higher. There was, however, very limited foreign demand, and export sales were only about 17 loads, largely of Manitoba wheat. Operators, however, were a little afraid of another advance abroad similar to the sharp rise of last week. The Kansas State report which was given out before the opening was very favorable. This showed a condition of 78.5, against 78 April 1 by the Government report and 75 last December. The abandoned area was 23 per cent., against 30 per cent. last year. The acreage sown was 6,950,000 acres, and now standing 5,330,000 acres. The figures pointed, it was claimed, to a crop of 90,000,000 bushels. Private reports from other sections of the Winter wheat belt continue optimistic. The Northwestern Miller's special reports from the Spring wheat sections were very promising, and seeding is expected to be completed by the end of this week. Seeding in the Canadian Northwest is advancing rapidly. Cash wheat was quoted No. 2 red, 94½c, free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.06¼; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.04⅝; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.02⅛.

CORN.—The corn market was firm all the day, closing steady. The cables were firm and showed continued strength abroad. There was not so much export inquiry and only 9 loads were reported, but the cash markets were strong and showed an advance of ½c to ⅝c at the West. Receipts have increased considerably the last few days at the interior, but this improvement in movement does not seem to have had much influence on the future market. The close was very steady. No. 2 corn was quoted 59½c, free on board; steamer, 59c; No. 3, 59½c; No. 4, 57½c, all in elevator, export rate.

OATS.—The market showed firmness, with fair trading. Prices slowly worked up, influenced by the late strength in corn and wheat. Cash oats were firmer and offerings did not seem to be very large. No export business was reported. The close was stady. Standard oats were quoted 39c; No. 2 white, 39½c; No. 3 white, 38¾c.

PROVISIONS.—There was considerable irregularity in the future market, with prices steadying late. There was some selling on reports of slow cash demand, but the hog market was very firm at a number of points through the West and prices were influenced by this toward the close.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Values moved over a comparatively small range during yesterday's session, but the same undertone of strength that has been manifest since the beginning of the week was again in evidence. Bears are inaggressive, apparently, pending the extent of the upward movement in lard, while the strength in the cotton market, reflecting less favorable conditions in the South, also had a sentimental effect. Advices relative to consumptive demand are that the steadiness of the oil market on this advance has had the effect of improving inquiries slightly, with foreigners also interested, although there are further resales noted for interests abroad. Crude was firm, quoted at 5.17 to 5.20. Future quotations follow:

COTTON.

The new crop months assumed a prominent position in the cotton market during yesterday's session, advancing over ¼c per pound and retaining a greater portion of the gain until the close. Old crop options were also active and firm, but it was ostensible that in this set of months profit taking was in evidence on the bulges, while the distant deliveries had been sold speculatively for some time, with a short interest naturally formed, and on the development of less favorable weather conditions this was disclosed, buying for a time being general and outside participation in the market larger than for several months.

The morning weather map showed a storm of marked intensity off the Texas and Gulf Coasts, and this in conjunction with better Liverpool advices than anticipated accounted for the higher openings. While considerable realizing was encountered as prices advanced, offerings were readily absorbed, with Wall Street and the West conspicuous on the buying side. Spot interests also gave support, with part of the demand from those sources thought to represent hedge buying for account of trade interests. Bulls appeared to be utilizing the strength of the near months to accept profits, and this was the basis for the opinion that no squeeze of shorts or corner was contemplated. It was not denied, however, that underlying conditions were as strong as ever, and that the market may probably advance considerably further on the scarcity of actual cotton, while a renewal of bull support on a recession of importance is not to be unexpected so long as Southern spot advices continue of a bullish tenor and Manchester trade accounts optimistic. American trade conditions have not changed materially, but are receiving little consideration at the moment, advices from the South generally conceding that American spinners are not largely interested, but foreign consumers, particularly the Continent, are showing a good demand.

Sentiment appeared to be more bullish, as was emphasized by the improvement in outside demand, but bears were claiming that the technical position of the market has been weakened, and relative to crop complaints they state that the general increase in acreage offsets a certain percentage of damage reports. At all events, at the highest scored May was only 30 points below the record price of the season, July 14 points, and October 45 points.

Southern spot markets were unchanged to ⅛c advance from the previous close; the local spot market quiet, .20c advance; middling uplands, 15.35. Future quotations below:

COFFEE.

Interest in coffee was centred on the May position, as it was first notice day for May contracts, and about 59,000 notices were issued. There was considerable liquidation in May, and switching into the later months prices were barely steady, although final figures for the entire list were 2 points decline to 5 points advance, with sales of 70,250 bags. The foreign markets were steady, Havre closing at an advance of ¼f, while Hamburg was unchanged. Rio was unchanged, and Santos unchanged to 50 reis higher. Spot coffee, 11⅛c for Rio No. 7.

FISKE & CO. GET DISCHARGE.

Court Reverses Referee Who Thought Brokers Should Be Kept in Bankruptcy.

Judge Hough of the United States District Court has reversed the findings of Referee Miller in the bankruptcy proceedings of J. M. Fiske & Co. Mr. Miller refused the discharge of the bankrupts on the ground of an alleged fraudulent transfer of collateral they made to the Mechanics and Metals Bank. Judge Hough has found that there is no evidence that such transfer was fraudulent of the other creditors and has granted the discharge of the bankrupts. Of the transfer of collateral the Judge said:

> By wholly uncontradicted evidence it appears that the bankrupts (pursuant to a custom of brokers) had negotiated a clearance loan with the bank on the morning of the day of the failure. As the day progressed the stock market became more and more depressed and in a way which, to the knowledge of many persons, would seriously injure the bankrupts. An officer of the bank with which the loan had been negotiated went to the bankrupts' place of business and from one of the partners received a large amount of additional collateral in order to carry the clearance loan through the day.
> There was nothing secret about the transaction and nothing fraudulent unless it be a fraud for a broker in trouble to hand over his securities as collateral to a bank which is certifying checks for him.
>
> The Master has found that when these securities were transferred by one of the bankrupts to the bank all parties to the transaction were aware of the insolvency of the firm.
>
> It may well be that if this conclusion of fact be well founded there sprang into existence a preference which may be avoided by the trustee in bankruptcy.
>
> But the Master continues: "The particular reason why the bankrupts desired to prefer the bank above all other creditors the evidence does not disclose, but it is apparent that they did transfer and remove practically all of their securities and property with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud their other creditors."
>
> It is not thought necessary to dwell upon the difference between a voidable preference and a fraudulent transfer; the distinction is well known and obvious.
> No opinion is expressed as to whether such a voidable transfer did occur on the occasion referred to in the testimony in the Master's report; but if it did, it is held that the evidence as matter of law does not show, nor tend to show, a transfer with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors.

As the referee did not assert that any of the other objections raised by the creditors were sustained by the evidence the court ordered the discharge of J. M. Fiske & Co.

The bonds will run for fifty years and will be sold to refund several issues bearing higher rates of interest.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

H. B. Claflin Company Secures Duty Reduction on Belts—Other Decisions.

The H. B. Claflin Company was successful yesterday before the Board of United States General Appraisers in an attempt to secure a reversal of Collector Loeb's classification of silk elastic belts with fancy metal buckles. The belts are more or less elaborately decorated with steel points or studding. They were returned for duty by the Appraiser of the Port as "silk, India rubber, and metal wearing apparel," with a tax of 60 per cent. under the tariff act of 1897.

The Claflin Company set up the contention that the goods are dutiable properly at the rate of 45 per cent. under the provision in the tariff for "articles or wares not specially provided for in this act composed wholly or in chief value of iron, steel, or other metal." Other claims were put forward, but the board regards them as being without merit. Counsel for the importer and the Government stipulated and agreed in writing that such of the belts bearing certain marks on the invoices and invoiced at a net price of not less than 36 francs per dozen are composed in chief value of metal. General Appraiser Howell states in his decision that the board so finds, the Collector being reversed.

The board has refused to reverse Collector Loeb in his assessment of duty on braids, embroideries, and other articles composed in chief value of artificial silk. The merchandise was taxed at the rate of 45 cents a pound and 60 per cent. ad valorem under the present tariff act. Lower rates than those assessed were claimed, but denied. The importers concerned are R. H. Macy & Co., Burr & Hardwick, G. Sidenberg & Co., Haughton & Lee, S. Oppenheimer & Levy, Zadek Brothers, and Kern, Loewi & Mandel.

R. J. Horner & Co. were partially successful in securing lower duty on wool and silk furniture. All of the merchandise was returned for duty under the wool schedule at 44 cents a pound and 55 per cent. ad valorem. The goods were claimed to be dutiable as manufactures in chief value of silk with duty at the rate of 60 per cent. and at various other alternative rates.

The only testimony in the case was taken under a commission issued by the American Consul General at Paris. General Appraiser McClelland, who writes the decision, says that from the findings of the commission the conclusion is justified that certain of the items on the invoice are made in chief value of silk. To this extent the protest is sustained. One of the protests, however, does not make a claim under the silk schedule and is accordingly overruled without affirming the correctness of the return made by the Collector.

The board declined to disturb the classification imposed by the Collector on Egyptian shawls imported by the American Express Company, N. E. Zaloom, and Snow's United States Sample Express Company, Limited. The shawls were assessed at 15 cents a pound and 60 per cent. ad valorem as manufactures in chief value of lace. This classification will stand.

CANAL IMPROVEMENT BONDS.

$10,000,000 Issue in the Hands of Guaranty Trust and Fisk & Robinson.

The new $10,000,000 issue of 4 per cent. canal improvement bonds of New York State are being offered at 106 and accrued interest, yielding 3.73 per cent. net, by the Guaranty Trust Company, Fisk & Robinson, and Rhoades & Co. of this city. The bonds also will be sold in London by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, in Boston by Parkinson & Burr, in Philadelphia by Townsend, Whelan & Co., and in Chicago by the First Trust and Savings Bank.

The bankers offering these bonds point out that the net funded debt of New York State is equivalent to only about four-tenths of 1 per cent. of the total assessed valuation, and regard the offering as affording individual investors, estates, and financial institutions a most atractive investment opportunity.

REFEREES' NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW York.—SANTE TALAMINI, Plaintiff, against CAROLINA B. DUCKER and GEORGE M. DUCKER, Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action, and bearing date the 4th day of April, 1911, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 8th day of May, 1911, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Herbert A. Sherman, auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County, and State of New York, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the northerly side of Sixty-ninth Street, distant one hundred sixty-four (164) feet two (2) inches westerly from the northwesterly corner of Sixty-ninth Street and Amsterdam (formerly 10th) Avenue; running thence northerly, parallel with Amsterdam (formerly 10th) Avenue, one hundred (100) feet five (5) inches to the centre line of the block; thence westerly, along said centre line, twenty (20) feet six (6) inches; thence southerly, parallel with Amsterdam (formerly 10th) Avenue, and partly through a party wall, one hundred (100) feet five (5) inches to the northerly side of Sixty-ninth Street; and thence easterly, along the northerly side of Sixty-ninth Street, twenty (20) feet six (6) inches to the point or place of beginning. Be said several distances and dimensions more or less. Said premises being known as and by street No. 213 West 69th Street, in said Borough of Manhattan.

Subject to a mortgage of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) and interest, now a prior lien on said premises, and

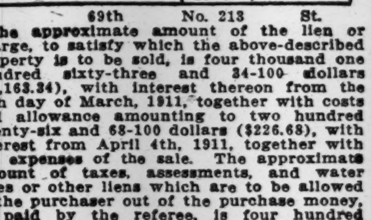
JAMES OLIVER, Referee.

CHARLES ZERBARINI, Attorney for Plaintiff, 346 Broadway, New York City.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold; its street number is 213 West 69th Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City:



The approximate amount of the lien or charge, to satisfy which the above-described property is to be sold, is four thousand one hundred sixty-three and 34-100 dollars ($4,163.34), with interest thereon from the 27th day of March, 1911, together with costs and allowance amounting to two hundred twenty-six and 68-100 dollars ($226.68), with interest from April 4th, 1911, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of taxes, assessments, and water rates or other liens which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the referee, is four hundred sixteen and 62-100 dollars ($416.62) and interest.

Dated New York, April 7th, 1911.
JAMES OLIVER, Referee.

SUMMONSES.

SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW York, County of New York.—EMMA KEMPNER, Individually and as Executrix of and under the last Will and Testament of Pedro Benjamin Barrenechea, deceased, Plaintiff, against LEOPOLDO BARRENECHEA, Defendant.

To the above-named defendant:

You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer on the plaintiff's attorney within twenty days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, and in case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint.

REFEREES' NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF New York, County of New York.—ANNIE DRUCKER, Plaintiff, against WILHELMINA SINGLER, Elizabeth Geissler, Cecilia Drucker, Anna Drucker, Mary Drucker, Joseph J. Drucker, Eduard J. Drucker, John H. Drucker, Othmar J. Drucker, Mary Elizabeth Drucker, the Province of St. Joseph of the Capuchin Order, Rose Rogers, George Rall, as Executor of the Last Will and Testament of HENRY DRUCKER, Deceased, and the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, Defendants.

I, the undersigned, duly appointed referee by an interlocutory judgment dated January 23d, 1911, and entered herein on the 30th day of January, 1911, and pursuant to an order of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, made in the above-entitled action, dated the 24th day of March, 1911, and entered herein on the 24th day of March, 1911, hereby require each person, not a party to the action, who, at the date of said order, had a lien on any undivided share or interest in the several pieces or parcels of real property affected by this action and a portion of which is sought to be sold herein, and all of which said several parcels are hereinafter described, to appear before me on or before the sixth day of May, next, at my office, number 35 Nassau Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County, and State of New York, to prove his lien and the true amount due or to become due to him by reason thereof.

The said several parcels of real property are described in the complaint in the above-entitled action as follows:

PARCEL NUMBER ONE.

"All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the building thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the Seventeenth (formerly Eleventh) Ward of the City of New York, and designated on a map made by Edward Doughty, City Surveyor, dated May 1, 1829, on file in the office of the Register of the City and County of New York, by the number 209 and being bounded and containing as follows: Commencing at a point on the southerly side of Second Street distant one hundred and eighty-seven (187) feet and eleven (11) inches easterly from the southeasterly corner of Second Street and First Avenue; running thence easterly along Second Street twenty-five (25) feet; thence southerly and parallel with First Avenue and partly through a party wall one hundred and five (105) feet and eleven and one-half (11½) inches to the centre line of the block between First and Second Streets; thence westerly along said centre line and parallel with Second Street twenty-five (25) feet; and thence northerly and parallel with First Avenue and partly through a party wall one hundred and five (105) feet and eleven and one-half (11½) inches to the southerly side of Second Street, the point or place of beginning."

PARCEL NUMBER TWO.

"All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, situate, lying, and being in the Thirteenth (formerly Tenth) Ward of the City of New York, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at the corner formed by the intersection of the northerly side of Grand Street with the easterly side of Goerck Street, running thence easterly along the northerly side of Grand Street twenty-five feet; thence northerly and parallel with Goerck Street seventy-five feet; thence westerly parallel with Grand Street twenty-five feet to the easterly side of Goerck Street, and thence southerly along said easterly side of Goerck Street seventy-five feet to the point or place of beginning."

PARCEL NUMBER THREE.

"All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the building thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the City of New York, and known and described on a certain map of the lots belonging to the estate of Abraham Cannon at Corlears Hook, made from actual survey by R. Graves, City Surveyor, bearing date the sixth day of August, 1810, filed in the office of the Register of the City and County of New York, by the number 50, and more particularly bounded and described as follows, to wit: Beginning at a point on the northerly side of Grand Street, distant twenty-five feet easterly from the northeasterly corner of Grand and Goerck Streets; running thence northerly and parallel with Goerck Street seventy-five feet to an alley; thence easterly along said alley twenty-five feet; thence southerly and again parallel with Goerck Street seventy-five feet to the northerly side of Grand Street; and thence westerly along the northerly side of Grand Street twenty-five feet to the point or place of beginning."

The portion of the said real property to be sold herein consists of the said above-mentioned parcels designated as Parcels II. and III.

Dated at the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, the 27th day of March, 1911.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Pressure is generally low over the northern hemisphere, with unsettled weather, except over the Middle Atlantic Coast and the eastern portion of the United States, where high pressure continues with generally clear weather.

The storm that was off the Gulf Coast Tuesday, to-night is central over Southern Louisiana and has been attended by high winds and general rains.

Temperatures are generally higher, and in the Northwest are 12 degrees above the seasonal average.

There will be rain Thursday in the South Atlantic and Gulf States, and probably Thursday night or Friday in the lake region and the Middle Atlantic States. Over the Western half of the country unsettled weather will continue.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate south; Middle Atlantic Coast, light to moderate southeast to south; South Atlantic Coast, moderate to brisk east.

Steamships departing Thursday for European ports will have moderate south winds, with fair weather, to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND FRIDAY.

Eastern New York—Fair Thursday. Friday, increasing cloudiness; light to moderate south winds.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Thursday. Friday, cloudy, probably showers; moderate to light south winds.

New England—Fair Thursday and Friday; moderate south winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1910.	1911.		1910.	1911.
3 A. M.	57	48	4 P. M.	61	60
6 A. M.	56	47	6 P. M.	56	56
9 A. M.	57	53	9 P. M.	52	52
12 M.	65	61	12 P. M.	51	51

This thermometer is 108 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 54; for the corresponding period last year it was 58; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 51.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 50; at 8 P. M. it was 52. Maximum temperature, 63 degrees at 1:30 P. M.; minimum, 46 degrees at 5 A. M. Humidity, 71 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 72 per cent. at 8 P. M.

REAL ESTATE SHOW OPENS IN GARDEN

An Artistic Exhibit of What Is Being Done to Make Life in the Country Attractive.

MINIATURE MODEL FARMS

Real Vegetables Growing and Live "Chicks" in the Yard—Panoramic Views of Home Sites.

Never have the delights of the country and the charm of owning one's home in the suburbs been so attractively and artistically displayed to New Yorkers as was done in Madison Square Garden last night. The second annual real estate and ideal homes show was opened there yesterday, to continue for a week, and if before its close the exhibit does not play an important part in relieving the congestion in some of New York's cliff dwelling localities, even the Mayor's Committee on Congestion may well feel that the solution of the problem is almost hopeless.

No one, except perhaps some hardened bachelor who has been linked so long to hotel life as to wish for no escape, can visit this diversified suburban display without falling in love with the country. It is a stimulus to home building, an encouragement to saving the pennies until one has the dollars to become a land owner, small though the patch may be, within sight of the trees and the beauties of nature, and an education to all of the wonderful progress that has been made in recent years by development companies toward furnishing comfortable home sites in desirable residential localities.

No longer need the buyer of a suburban homestead feel that he must wait years for the simplest improvements to come within sight of his domicile. Like the flat dweller, who has all the conveniences of a well-regulated house supplied for him, so the suburban homeseeker will find roads already laid out and graded, water, sewerage, and electric light installed, transit facilities close at hand, and countless other comforts that a few years ago were only obtainable at great expense. Living in the country has been made attractive, wise management on the part of real estate concerns, building and loan associations, and mortgage lenders have made it easy for the man of small means to own his place. The real estate show is a great object lesson of all these facts, and the interest revealed by the thousands of spectators last night showed how powerful is the lure of the country.

Practically all of the large development concerns which have earned the confidence of their patrons are represented in the exhibit. The booths and decorations breathe the fragrance and beauty of the country. Many of the booths are arranged in pergola fashion, covered with climbing roses, wistaria, and other flowering vines. As one enters the Garden he sees on the left of the main aisle a miniature reproduction of the gardens at Kensington, the Great Neck Development of the Rickert-Finlay Company. Artistic concrete samples of garden furniture stand on the lawns through which lead well kept gravel paths. To the right is a large exhibit of the homes one will see at Brightwaters, the T. B. Ackerson properties near Bay Shore, L. I. All of the booths embody some characteristic feature of the property held forth for public consideration. Many of them show topographical plans of the developments, with hills, woodland, houses, railroad tracks, and other attractions clearly displayed so that one has a perfect birdseye view of the broad acres being laid out for future homes.

The McKnight Company shows a large plan of its estates of Great Neck, a fine old house standing on top of the hill overlooking the bay where the new $1,000,000 hotel is about to be built; the Leonia Heights Company's exhibit has a fine view of its new bungalow section back of the Palisades, with trolley cars running through the property and a panoramic view in the distance of the tall buildings, with Grant's Tomb on the New York side, the two shores being connected with the proposed Hudson River bridge; the Saltaire Company shows a strikingly characteristic marine view of Fire Island, with the light shining in the lighthouse, and ocean liners rolling in the surf in the distance.

The booth of the Neponsit Realty Company is a reproduction of the porch of one of its houses at Neponsit, West Rockaway, and shows an inter-locking, hollow tile stucco house front, with door and windows complete as a background. At either end of the porch are oil paintings depicting on one side a view of the beach and ocean, and on the other of Jamaica Bay.

A small pond with eight live wild ducks swimming in it is a feature of the Scarsdale Estate exhibit. They were taken from the park at Greenacres Farm. Another feature is an oil painting of the new tea house which the company will open about May 15, near the Hartsdale station.

One of the most attractive exhibits is a miniature reproduction of one of Wood, Harmon & Co.'s little farms at Annadale, near Huguenot, Staten Island. A charming bungalow house, about four by five feet, stands in front. The living room is furnished in mission style, the little chairs being less than four inches in height. On the turn of the stairs stands an old fashioned grandfather's clock, eleven inches tall. A tiny hatrack stands in the entry, while the dining room and kitchen are furnished with range, sink, etc., all being faithfully reproduced. Upstairs the three bedrooms are furnished in different style, the decorations and furniture harmonizing in tone.

But the most interesting feature is the farm plot in the rear, where there is a chicken yard in which are about twenty live, newly hatched "chicks," while in the vegetable garden are rows of real turnips, tomatoes, onions, celery, lettuce, radishes, potatoes, beets, spinach, beans, and other vegetables, while the green lawn in the rear with its croquet set has flowering apple trees, in addition to peach, pear, and cherry trees. Several of these farms of one-quarter of an acre are already under cultivation.

Another decided novelty is seen in the W. C. Reeves & Co.'s exhibit at the Fourth Avenue end of the Garden. Here is a large pond filled with 800 speckled brook trout, and occasionally spectators are permitted to try their luck in catching the gamy fish, and what they catch they may take home.

Almost in the very centre of the Garden there is a model of a fireproof house exhibited by the National Fireproofing Company. The building shows the uses of hollow terra cotta blocks in walls, floors, and partitions, and demonstrates a fireproof substitute for wood which is being used in and around New York City. The house is left unfinished, so that visitors can see and understand the method of construction. One section of wall has no stucco upon it, the rough surface of the blocks being left visible. Another section has an outer surface of face brick made directly against the blocks. Another section, the front, is finished in gray stucco, the most common form for the exterior of these fireproof buildings.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Realty Operators Buy Three Entire Blocks in West Harlem from Pinkney Estate—West Side Apartment House Deal—Bush Terminal Buildings Mortgaged for $12,000,000—Bronx Market.

The important feature of the realty market yesterday was the sale for close to $1,000,000 of three entire blocks on the upper west side. This is the largest deal of property in that locality that has been recorded for some time, and an additional element of interest is that the blocks comprise a part of the Mary G. Pinkney estate, which has been advertised for sale at auction next month.

Bing & Bing, the firm of well-known operators and builders who have been interested in several big deals in different parts of the city were the buyers, and it is understood that the greater part of the three blocks will be cut into large building plots and resold for high-class improvements. The property includes the block bounded by Morningside and Amsterdam Avenues, 119th and 120th Streets, 161 by 450, opposite Columbia University, and containing about thirty lots; the block bounded by St. Nicholas and Manhattan Avenues, 122d and 123d Streets, 237 by 224.2 by 201.10 by 100.3, about fourteen lots, and the block bounded by St. Nicholas and Edgecombe Avenues, 137th and 140th Streets, 719 by 140 by 658.7 by 24, about twenty-six lots in area, making a total of seventy city lots.

The deal was negotiated through A. & C. Levis and Joseph P. Day. In speaking of the deal, Abram I. Elkus, representing the executor of the Pinkney estate, said that negotiations for the sale of the three blocks had been under way before the entire estate was advertised for sale and that the option then made to Bing & Bing had just been taken up by them, thus withdrawing the parcels from the open market. The remainder of the Pinkney estate property, including several entire blocks and other large parcels in Harlem and on the Heights, will be sold by Joseph P. Day in the Vesey Street Salesrooms beginning May 15.

Big Deal in West 93d Street.

The eight-story apartment house known as the Norman, at 35 West Ninety-third Street, has been sold by W. H. Dolson & Co. for the Tourneur Realty Company, Julius Tichman, President. It occupies a plot 75 by 100.8½ and irregular. The adjoining three-story and basement private dwelling, 16.8 by 66 and irregular, at 47 West Ninety-third Street, was also sold by the same company so that the apartment house might in addition to a gore about 25 by 25 at the rear and at the westerly end of the Norman, thereby secure permanent light for the eight-story building.

55th Street Deal for Apartments.

The Herald Square Holding Company (George Backer and Arnstein & Levy) has bought from Andrew Freedman through Edward C. Williams & Co. 140 and 142 West Fifty-fifth Street, occupied by two two-story stables on a plot 47 by 100, which they will improve with an apartment house with small suites. Last year the buyers recognized the demand for small apartments centrally located, and bought through the same brokers from the Barney estate a plot, 50 by 120, on the north side of Fifty-fifth Street, adjoining the Hotel Wellington, where they are now erecting a twelve-story building exclusively for bachelors.

Investors Buy Tenements.

Mortimer M. Singer has sold for Mrs. Dora Glantzman to an investor the two five-story brick tenements, 229 and 231 West Sixty-second Street.

John R. Davidson has sold for George C. Engel to Isaac Heinmann the southeast corner of Second Avenue and Ninety-eighth Street, a five-story flat on lot 26 by 100.

James P. Mack has sold through John P. Kirwan to an investor 258 West Forty-first Street, a five-story tenement on a lot 25 by 98.9.

William P. Jones & Son have sold for Martha L. Feig to Philip G. Becker, M. D., for investment the five-story and basement brownstone triple flat 418 West Forty-seventh Street, located on the south side of Forty-seventh Street, 200 feet west of Ninth Avenue.

Many Private Dwellings Sold.

H. C. Senior & Co. have sold for Carrie M. Edgar the three-story dwelling 71 West Ninety-second Street, on a lot 20 by 100, to a client for occupancy.

Thomas J. O'Reilly sold for Dr. John P. Nolan the three-story and basement private house 70 West Ninety-first Street, on a lot 21 by 100.

Percy W. Sherman has sold 24 East Fifty-fifth Street, a four-story dwelling, on lot 20 by 80, between Fifth and Madison Avenues.

The estate of Sarah C. Cisco has sold through Pease & Elliman 15 East Fortieth Street, a four-story dwelling, on a lot 25 by 98.9. The buyer is Frank B. Taylor of the realty firm of Taylor Brothers.

J. P. Whiton-Stuart has resold 43 East Seventy-fourth Street, a four-story dwelling, on a lot, 20 by 102.2, between Madison and Park Avenues.

The Operatic Realty Company has bought from Daniel Rosenbaum, through Leon S. Altmeyer, the three-story and basement residence, 153 East Eighty-second Street, on a plot 19.2 by 100. Mr. Rosenbaum bought the property two months ago and spent several thousand dollars remodeling the house for his own occupancy, but illness necessitated a change of plans.

Enlarges 88th Street Holdings.

Slawson & Hobbs have sold the two three-story brownstone dwellings for Jessie B. Bingham, 266 West Eighty-eighth Street, 17 by 100.8½, and for Eugenia Wilf 264 West Eighty-eighth Street, 18 by 100.8½, to Harry Schiff, who recently purchased the five houses located at the southeast corner of West End Avenue and Eighty-eighth Street, through the same brokers. This enlarges Mr. Schiff's plot, giving him 100.8½ feet on the avenue by 135 on the street, upon which he will immediately erect a twelve-story fireproof house, somewhat similar to the one which he has practically completed at the northwest corner of West End Avenue and Eighty-second Street.

$12,000,000 Mortgage on Bush Terminal Buildings.

A supplemental mortgage for $12,000,000 to the Columbus Trust Company as trustee was recorded yesterday by the Bush Terminal Buildings Company. The mortgage covers the model loft buildings at the Bush Terminal docks in South Brooklyn in addition to the New York holdings, included by this supplemental mortgage, comprising properties in Broad, Bridge, Pearl, and East Twenty-ninth Streets. The mortgage bears 5 per cent. interest and is due April 1, 1960.

Pays $40,000 for a Bronx Corner.

The southeast corner of Grand Avenue and Fordham Road, 90 feet on the boulevard and 104 feet on Fordham Road, has been sold by Maurice J. McCarthy for the H. U. Singhi Realty Company to a builder, who will immediately improve the property with four five-story elevator apartment houses. The consideration for this corner was $40,000.

Bronx.

Kurz & Uren, Inc., have sold for P. Levy 814 Courtland Avenue, a six-story apartment house, on plot 50 by 92.

Thomas J. O'Reilly sold for John P. Nolan to the L. & H. Holding Company the six lots, 150 by 117 by irregular, situate on the east side of Sedgwick Avenue, 50 feet south of Fordham Road.

F. M. Weiss & Co. have resold the plot, 75 by 100 by 130 by irregular, on the south side of Eastchester Road, (Silver Street,) 116 feet west of Williamsbridge Road, for the Wellman Finance and Realty Company, to Thomas B. Watson.

David Amolsky has sold the six-story apartment house, on plot 50 by 100, on the west side of Washington Avenue, 50 feet north of 169th Street. The buyer is the Katz-Polacek Realty Company, which gave in exchange the plot, 150 by 100, at the southeast corner of Forest Avenue and 168th Street.

Clement H. Smith has made the following sales in the Bronx: A lot 25 by 100, on the west side of Prospect Avenue, 50 feet south of Oakland Place; 1,723 Washington Avenue, 25 feet south of 175th Street, a two-family house, and he has resold 4,053 Park Avenue, a two-family house.

Big Deal in the Flatlands.

Edward J. McCormack and Edward C. Boyce have purchased 640 lots located on either side of Flatlands Avenue, between Eightieth and Eighty-sixth Streets, Brooklyn, adjoining Flatlands Avenue station of the elevated railroad. The consideration was $212,000. This and other recent purchases in the neighborhood indicate a movement similar to that which took place in Brownsville on the opening of the Williamsburg Bridge. Transit improvement and increasing population are the chief factors which make possible the quick absorption of the fast diminishing undeveloped Kings County property. This particular section of the city is brought into prominence just now because of the Jamaica Bay Harbor improvement.

Brooklyn.

John H. Delack and Clinton Spader have sold to close the estate of Addie W. Bogert 108 Macon Street, Brooklyn, a three-story and basement brownstone house, on lot 19 by 80, to John H. Nottmann, who will occupy same.

A. A. Follmer has purchased through H. A. Fisher the three-story and basement dwelling on the north side of Herkimer Street, 245 feet east of Rogers Avenue.

Acreage Sale Near Morristown.

Edward P. Hamilton & Co. have sold sixty-two acres of land with frontages on Woodland and Spring Valley Roads, at Convent Station, Morristown, N. J. The purchaser is Mrs. Helen Hartley Jenkins.

Suburban.

In the Greenacres tract at the Hartsdale Station the Scarsdale Estates have sold to William F. Walsh a plot adjoining his residence. They have also sold to A. C. Ayer a plot at the corner of Walworth Avenue and Greenacres Avenue, Greenacres. This plot will be used by Mr. Ayer for the construction of a road in connection with his own house. J. W. Johnson is also the purchaser of a plot on Walworth Avenue, Greenacres. This plot will be improved within the next thirty days.

Sheldon & Becker have sold for Mrs. William Moran her property on the Park Circle at Larchmont, N. Y. The purchaser, after extensive alterations, will occupy.

C. J. Elgar sold for a client to Dr. Joseph C. Watson 44 Washington Avenue, Grantwood, N. J., a three-family house, on a plot 50 by 100. The property was held at $14,000.

P. G. Ullman, Jr., has sold a dwelling and acreage tract in the Fifth Ward, Borough of Richmond, to James Meadows. The property is near the shore road.

Old Brewster Factory Rumor.

It was rumored yesterday that the syndicate, known as the Atlas Development Company, holding the lease on the old Brewster carriage factory, on Broadway and Forty-seventh Street, was making plans to improve the property with a high-class commercial building. Plans were filed several weeks ago to remodel the structure for restaurant purposes on the ground floor, but no effort has yet been made to carry out this contemplated improvement.

West Side Taxpayers to Meet.

A regular meeting of the West Side Taxpayers' Association will be held this evening at 267 West Thirty-fourth Street at 8 o'clock. Reports will be received from members of regular and special committees, and complaints of inferior quality gas furnished to members will be recorded. John J. Pheelan, counsel for the association in matter of excessive water meter charges and removal of same, and as Chairman of committee in matter of proposed removal of tracks from Tenth and Eleventh Avenues at the hearing in the City Hall, will make his reports.

Estates at Auction.

Joseph P. Day will sell in the Vesey Street Salesroom to-day a long list of well-distributed properties located in Manhattan, Bronx, and Brooklyn. Among the properties to be offered are 63 Riverside Drive, 917 Third Avenue, 239 West Thirty-fifth Street, 151 and 153 West Nineteenth Street, lot on Eagle Avenue, 245.92 feet north of East 149th Street; 22 East Seventy-sixth Street, 423 and 425 East Ninth Street, 35, 37, and 39 West Forty-fifth Street; 542 West 162d Street, 250 and 252 West Twenty-third Street, through to 261 and 263 West Twenty-second Street; block front, Belmont Avenue, between Euclid Avenue and Doscher Street, Brooklyn; 20 and 22 West 129th Street; block front East Sixty-first Street and Sixty-second Street, Avenue A and East River; 91 Bedford Street, 46 East Fifty-eighth Street.

New Home for Black, Starr & Frost.

Plans have been filed for a five-story fireproof store and loft building on the southwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-eighth Street for Black, Starr & Frost, at a cost of $350,000. It will be a handsome structure of marble in the modern Renaissance style, with massive bronze entrance doors. There will be a balcony at the first story, the rest of the facade being ornamented with Corinthian columns from the third to the fifth floors and symbolical figures carved around the coping at the top. Carrere and Hastings are the architects.

Building for the Blind.

Plans have been filed for building a four-story workshop for the New York Association for the Blind at 338 and 340 East Thirty-fifth Street, at a cost of $45,000. The building will have a frontage of 50 feet and a depth of 76.4 feet, with a facade of brick and limestone and fireproof in construction. Vaughan & Griebel are the architects.

Connect Rockefeller Houses.

Plans have been filed for connecting the two dwellings at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fourth Street, by an inclosed passageway, at a cost of $2,000, for the owner, William Rockefeller. Henry S. Ihnen is the architect.

Notes.

Justice Blanchard of the Supreme Court has appointed Thomas Shiels receiver of the rents of 522 to 528 West 158th Street, two six-story flats, pending a suit brought by Samuel Wacht to foreclose two second mortgages of $84,000. The prior mortgage on the property amounts to $96,000.

The Dyckman Taxpayers' Association will hold a meeting this evening in the office of John N. Golding, 547 Fifth Avenue.

The Brody, Adler & Koch Company have removed their offices from 132 Nassau Street to the Arena Building, 38 and 40 West Thirty-second Street.

Edward McVickar, Inc., has removed its offices to 150 Broadway.

George N. Bruno has leased for Adolph Schmeidler to a client the six-story tenement house, with stores, at 323 and 325 Bleecker Street, for a term of years.

Organization

To give the PROPER attention to details means a thorough organization—a thorough organization means a trained force of men capable of mastering details—

We have all heard of "Little Grains of Sand" and the "Little Drops of Water" and the POWER they bring through their co-ordination—if it is so in dealing with natural forces, why not so in dealing in a big business.

The smallest parcel or the largest estate will receive the careful attention of my entire organization personally supervised by me.

BROADWAY TO AMSTERDAM AVENUE
Eighty-Sixth to Eighty-Seventh Street

¶ Because it is the largest of all apartment houses the BELNORD permits of features of construction which cannot be enjoyed in smaller structures.

¶ BELNORD COURT, the spacious, quiet, formal park around which the BELNORD is built and upon which nearly all sleeping rooms face, is one of these features.

¶ Apartments are rendered independent of each other by six passenger and eight service elevators which serve every section of the building.

¶ The BELNORD'S privacy appeals strongly to those who have experienced the publicity of living in the average apartment building.

TOAST GOV. WILSON AS NEXT PRESIDENT

New Jersey Senators Indorse Him for the White House in 1912.

AT DINNER IN THE ASTOR

Lawmakers, Guests of Senator Ackerman, First See "The Pink Lady"—Governor Joins in Singing.

All but two of the twenty-one State Senators of New Jersey forgot party lines and toasted Gov. Woodrow Wilson as the next President of the United States, at a dinner given last night in the Hotel Astor in their honor and the Governor's by retiring President Ernest R. Ackerman of the New Jersey Senate.

Gov. Wilson himself, speaking after many of the Senators had spoken, most of them had sung, and not a few of them had danced, emphasized the spirit of unity and elimination of party lines in Jersey politics, which he said, by furnishing him with a co-operative instead of a combative Senate, had enabled him to carry out his promised reforms and to reform "if not everything, at least everything in sight."

The dinner was informal—witness the dancing, more hearty than graceful, in which Senators Frelinghuysen, Osborne, and others amused themselves and others during a brief intermission between courses. Senator Ackerman was toastmaster at the large round table, and the Governor sat at his right, in the centre of the nineteen Senators who had spent the afternoon as guests of Senator Ackerman at a performance of the "Pink Lady" in the New Amsterdam Theatre. The dinner was Senator Ackerman's return for a similar dinner given recently in his honor at Atlantic City by the Jersey Senators.

Throughout the dinner the guests, including the Governor himself, joined in robust chorus in all the selections furnished by the orchestra, singing with equal fervor, sincerity, and lung power everything from "When good fellows get together" to "Any little girl that's a nice little girl is the right little girl for me," and that most sincere of ballads for commuting Jerseymen, "My wife's gone to the country, hooray! hooray!" Senator Ackerman explained to reporters that Gov. Wilson is extremely fond of after-dinner songs, joining in them with almost boyish enthusiasm.

In the midst of the dinner Lieut. Commander Eckford de Kay, military secretary to Gov. Dix, entered the room to pay Gov. Wilson the respects of Gov. Dix, who had stopped for a brief time at the dinner of the Sixty-ninth Regiment down stairs. Gov. Wilson responded to Gov. Dix's greetings.

A little later a committee consisting of Majority Leader Senator John D. Prince and Minority Leader Senator Harry V. Osborne was appointed to express the greetings of the New Jersey Governor and Senate, to President Taft, who was also at the dinner down stairs, and to wish him a pleasant sojourn in this city.

Senator Ackerman then proposed a toast to the President of the United States. After this toast had been drunk Senator Silzer of Middlesex County proposed:

"A toast to the next President of the United States!"

All Drink to Wilson.

Amid a burst of cheers, indistinguishable as to Republicanism or Democracy, every Senator present rose and, extending his glass toward Gov. Wilson, drank heartily to that toast.

"I suppose you mean Gov. Dix," said Gov. Wilson modestly as the freshest of his former college freshmen.

"No," cried Senator Frelinghuysen, who is a Republican, "no, we mean you!"

Senator O'Gorman, who also had attended the dinner of the Sixty-ninth Regiment downstairs, appeared a little later to pay his respects to Gov. Wilson, after a committee consisting of Senators Frelinghuysen and Silzer had been sent down to greet and congratulate him. Senator O'Gorman and Gov. Wilson chatted together for some minutes while the table was being stripped for oratory. The Senator got away before it began.

Senator Ackerman spoke first and briefly, expressing to Gov. Wilson and to his brother Senators his appreciation of the courteous treatment they had ever accorded him and venturing the hope that his own rulings, which, he said, often may have been arbitrary, had met with pardon and forgiveness among them. Apparently they had; for Senators Osborne, Prince, Bradley, and Frelinghuysen, who followed him, joined in declaring that no fairer and abler President had ever sat in the Jersey Senate or left it to the deeper regret of his fellows, regardless of party.

"This year," said Senator Frelinghuysen, "I have served under a Governor whom I respect and admire, and it has been a real and deep pleasure to assist him in carrying out his reforms, which, we felt, are reforms that both parties stand for. Let us hope that he will continue to carry out the measures for which he stands, and that they will result ever in the good of the State we represent."

Gov. Wilson, who had not intended to make a speech at the dinner, rose amid hearty cheers from every diner at the great round table.

"I cannot tell you how gratified I am to see the wish I hazarded at our first dinner at the Ritz-Carlton some time ago now fulfilled," he said. "At that time, you may remember, I expressed the wish that I might grow into intimate acquaintance and friendship with all of you, and to-night I may proudly and contentedly say I am not only among acquaintances but among friends, and many intimate friends, and for not a few I have formed a true and deep affection. It is fortunate for New Jersey that her Senate is a small body, small enough to come together just as we are together to-night—to come together and understand each other, each other's characters and motives.

Never Used Any Pressure.

"It has grieved me much to find newspaper correspondents in the last year reporting that the Senate had yielded to reform measures under pressure of the Governor, as if I had exerted pressure and found the Senate unwilling of its own accord to espouse the reform measures it finally passed. That has not been the case. I am aware of no pressure exerted by me, and I know only of the earnest and hearty co-operation I have ever met in the Senate. Never have I found anything more than honest difference of opinion existing between some members of the Senate and myself.

"Most men are beginning to realize that it is only an artificial process that divides Democrats from Republicans in the State Senate, or in State politics, as, in fact, in city and county politics and issues, which have little or no connection with the great party divisions in National politics. We have realized that in the present session of the Senate, and realized, too, that we are living in a day that differs from the days that have gone before and requires different political attitudes and measures.

"The only essential difference in American politics to-day is the difference between progressives and reactionaries. We have in the last ten years come out of the period of merely negative politics, politics which consisted wholly of attacking abuses and heaping objurgation upon men and measures of other political faith.

"We have passed out of that earlier period into one of constructive legislation. Formerly we contented ourselves with pointing out what things were to be feared. To-day we no longer need merely to point out what is to be feared; we have learned now to escape and master our fears and build up positive measures of reform and solid achievement in politics.

"New Jersey is not backward in her thought—she may have paused longer than others, but it was only to consider her course better while she paused. We have not done everything in the way of reform, as Senator Johnson seemed to think a few moments ago; we may still be able to find more things to do when the Legislature convenes again. But if we have not done everything, we have at least done everything in sight at the last session. We have done, and done thoroughly, all the main things that were waiting to be done—and we have accomplished them with a perfect unanimity of counsel.

"It pleases me especially, and beyond the power of words, that you have come to credit the professions made by me when I sought the office I now hold, that you feel that I seek and will support reforms irrespective of from what political house they come. Your confidence in me is my greatest happiness. It has been a real delight to me to see Republicans in the Legislature resort to my house as freely and often for conference as members of my own party.

"All these things weave us together as a common family, seeking to serve well, as we have served, our great Commonwealth."

URGE RELIGIOUS UNITY.

Denominationalists Speak at the Third National Congress of Liberals.

The third National Congress of the Federation of Religious Liberals opened last night with a service in the Church of the Divine Paternity, (Universalist,) Seventy-sixth Street and Central Park West. Speeches were on the programme to be delivered by an Episcopalian minister, a Presbyterian minister, and a Unitarian minister and a rabbi.

"Religious Unity" was the topic, and the speakers touched upon the need of it, the hopes for it, and the pity and unreasonableness of schism. Henry W. Wilbur, the President of the federation, presided. "The Catholic Idea, One Church," was the subject of the sermon by the Rev. J. Howard Melish, rector of Holy Trinity Church, Brooklyn. "The Protestant Idea, One Faith," was taken up by the Rev. Francis Brown, President of Union Theological Seminary.

The Rev. S. A. Eliot, President of the American Unitarian Association, followed with "The Liberal Christian Idea, One Spirit."

Dr. Melish gave it as his hope that as the Church of Rome had patterned itself after the Roman Empire, and as the Church of England is but the spiritual side of the English Government, so the churches of America would federate in sympathy with the great political idea which brought about the union of States.

NO CRIME TO WEAR A BEARD.

Mayor Gaynor So Informs a Syrian Priest, Whose Whiskers Are Mocked.

The Rev. Basil M. Kerbawy, pastor of St. Nicholas's Syrian Greek Orthodox Church in Brooklyn, is feeling greatly relieved after hearing from Mayor Gaynor that it is no crime to wear a beard in this city. The clergyman had complained to the Mayor that, apparently because of his luxuriant whiskers, he had been abused and insulted in the neighborhood of his church. Replying to him, the Mayor wrote:

"Your letter informing me that as you walk about the city visiting the homes of your parishioners people apply opprobrious names to you, and throw empty cans and rubbish at you, and otherwise assault you, is at hand. You ask me, 'Is it a crime in the City of New York to wear a beard?' No, it is not. I wear one myself and nobody ever takes any notice of it.

"How is it they take notice of your beard? Have you trimmed it in some peculiar way contrary to the Scriptures? For you know the Scrptures say, 'Ye shall not round the corners of your heads, neither shalt thou mar the corners of thy beard.'

"Yes, if they assault you, throw cans at you, you have a right to defend yourself to the last extremity; but if you find it necessary, I will have a detective go around with you for a few days until we arrest some of those who are wronging you. Are you certain that it is your beard which is the cause of the trouble?"

NEGRO SUITOR SENT TO JAIL.

Black Man's Threat to a White Girl Is a Breach of Peace, Court Holds.

Because he persisted in writing love letters to Florence C. Hendrickson, organist of the Judson Memorial Church, and living at 313 West Twentieth Street, William Robinson, a negro laborer, of 413 West Fifty-second Street, was sent yesterday to the Workhouse by Magistrate House, sitting in the West Side Court.

A dozen letters were shown to the court by Miss Hendrickson, who said that both she and the Rev. Dr. Edward D. Simmons, assistant pastor of the church, had pleaded with Robinson to cease his attentions.

Robinson is said to have written to the girl's father, saying he would sue her for breach of promise of marriage. He said he had asked her to marry him, and as she had not answered, he took silence to be consent.

Robinson told the court that while he was only a negro laborer, he loved the girl, and would make her happy. He said he did not consider it unlawful for him to write to her to that effect. Magistrate House disagreed with him.

"In my opinion," said the Magistrate, "it tends to a breach of the peace for a colored man to force his attentions upon a white girl. Therefore I sentence you to six months in the Workhouse."

SAYS HE WON'T WOO MRS. BELMONT AGAIN

Dr. Jackola Admits Sending Flowers and Love Letters, but Escapes Workhouse.

HER ACTION SURPRISED HIM

Since She Had Thanked Him for His Gifts in a Note He Has Put Away in a Safe Deposit Vault.

Dr. John Jackola, ardent advocate of woman suffrage, pleaded guilty in the West Side Court yesterday to annoying Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont by sending her love letters, flowers and poetry, but he wasn't sent to the workhouse, because at the last moment Mrs. Belmont relented and refused to press the charge on condition that Dr. Jackola cease his attentions.

Mrs. Belmont, accompanied by her secretary, James McMahon, who made the charge against Dr. Jackola, and her lawyer, Herbert Reeves of 165 Broadway, reached the courtroom before 3 o'clock, but the case was not reached until nearly two hours later. All of this time Mrs. Belmont and her companions occupied seats half way down the courtroom among the usual motley crowd which, for nothing else to do, congregates daily to see the wheels of justice move.

As time dragged along Mrs. Belmont became evidently impatient, and finally Mr. Reeves went to the desk and spoke to the Magistrate. This hurried up things somewhat, for the Jackola case was the next called.

Mrs. Belmont did not come within the rail and from where she sat it is doubtful if she could hear much of what was being said. Mr. Reeves did all the talking for her, while Dr. Jackola did his own talking, though he was accompanied by counsel.

Dr. Jackola is a graduate of the University of Washington and also of Chicago University. He is a physician and for many years practiced in Duluth, Minn. He is a native of Finland, where all are suffragists, but he never warmed up to the cause very greatly, according to his own story, until April two years ago, when he crossed the Atlantic in the same ship with Mrs. Belmont. His admiration for her, he says, also dates from that time. For several months he has been a lecturer for the woman's suffrage cause.

Assuming that the Magistrate knew this much background, Mr. Reeves had substantially this to say in court about the doctor's suit for Mrs. Belmont's hand:

"Your Honor, this man for months past has been pressing his attentions on Mrs. Belmont, and she has been wholly unable to get rid of him. He tries to follow her wherever she goes, he stops where she stops, and starts when she starts. He has been in the habit of sending her flowers and writing to her the most ardent poetry and letters. These she has been unable to avoid receiving for he will not be discouraged.

"He stands in front of her office on Fifth Avenue and waits for her to come. Then he speaks to her, whether she wishes to speak to him or not. When she leaves the office there he is again at the door to press his attentions. Sometimes he has hopped into the elevator after Mrs. Belmont has entered and ridden up or down with her, all the time trying to talk to her, no matter how pointedly she tries to make it clear that such actions are disagreeable to her. There seemed nothing to do but prefer a charge of disorderly conduct against him, and for Mrs. Belmont to seek the protection of the court.

"Now, Mrs. Belmont only wishes to have an end put to his attentions to her. If he will promise the court, and keep his word, never to write to Mrs. Belmont again, never to speak to her, or send her flowers or poetry, or annoy her in any way, she will not press the charge."

"What have you to say to this complaint?" Magistrate House asked Dr. Jackola, who was dressed in a light colored Spring suit and overcoat, and carried a cane. He is a low-spoken, mild-mannered man.

"Do you understand," continued the Magistrate, "that you have annoyed this lady, and are liable to be sent to the workhouse for six months for so doing?"

Dr. Jackola replied that he understood that he was charged with annoying Mrs. Belmont, but he did not know what the penalty was.

"Do you admit that you are guilty?"

"I do."

"Are you willing to promise this court you will never annoy Mrs. Belmont again?"

"Yes, your honor," was the meek response.

"All right," said the Magistrate, "you have admitted your guilt in open court and you have given your word in open court never to trouble Mrs. Belmont again, so, as she does not wish to press the charge, I'll let you go. But if you are ever brought here on a similar charge by her, and I am sitting I'll send you to the workhouse for as long as the law will allow."

Dr. Jackola bowed, and was told he could leave the courtroom. On his way out he had to pass within a foot of Mrs. Belmont, but he rushed past, and disappeared down the dingy stairway to the street, where he consented to pause long enough to be photographed.

He was willing to talk just a little about the charge, declaring, however, that he would never have opened his lips if Mrs. Belmont's friends hadn't spoken first.

"I am surprised, sorely surprised, at Mrs. Belmont's action," he declared in deep mortification. "She received the flowers I sent her with my poetry. For these flowers I received acknowledgment and thanks. I have the note in a safe deposit vault, where one keeps things safe from harm and prying. Although I cannot truthfully say that I had received reason to believe that my feelings were reciprocated, I certainly did not expect to be summoned to court."

Japanese Prints Not at Aldine Club.

The exhibition of Japanese color prints by the Japan Society of New York is not being held in the rooms of the Aldine Club as announced in Sunday's TIMES, but in Room 1,210-1,228 of the Fifth Avenue Building, northwest corner of Twenty-third Street and Fifth Avenue. The prints are open to public inspection without charge daily from 10 A. M. until 6 P. M.

Bank of North America Dividend.

Shareholders of the failed National Bank of North America, which paid its depositors in full, have been notified of the declaration of a second dividend of 10 per cent. on the par value of the bank's stock in the liquidation which is being effected by John W. McKinnon of the Assets Realization Company as shareholders' agent. The dividend is payable April 26.

CITY BREVITIES.

The Alumni Society of St. Gabriel School, 275 members in all, dined at O'Donnell's Restaurant, Sixtieth Street and Broadway, last evening.

Because Policeman Charles R. Fetcher has Shield No. 737, he has been summoned to Headquarters dozens of times to face irate storekeepers who have cashed checks for a man wearing a police uniform and Shield No. 737. Each time the complainants have had to confess that Fetcher is not the man. Every policeman has now been notified to look out for the impostor.

The New York Police Band played last night at a private entertainment given by the Modern Woodmen of America at the German Club rooms in Stapleton, S. I. It was said that the members had received twenty hours' furlough with the understanding that they would perform.

BOY SHOT IN GAMBLERS' FIGHT

Bystander Wounded When Enemies Open Fire on Each Other.

A row between gamblers led to pistol battle between men in a taxicab and men on the sidewalk at Ninth Avenue and Thirty-eighth Street last night at 10 o'clock. Between ten and twenty shots were fired, one of which seriously wounded Nicholas Ametreo, a thirteen-year-old schoolboy, who lives at 532 Ninth Avenue. He was shot through the shin bone. He was taken to the New York Hospital, where it was said he might lose his leg below the knee, as the bone is badly splintered.

The gamblers have been at war along Ninth and Columbus Avenues, persons in the neighborhood said, ever since the opening of the baseball season, when several poolrooms opened for the purpose of taking bets on ball games. These poolrooms were linked by a private telephone system over the roofs, and in some places attached to the elevated railroad structure. The private telephone-telegraph system established some years ago by the poolroom and handbook operators was also supplying a baseball and racing news service.

One of the men in the sidewalk party was said to have been identified as "Big Jim," the head wire stringer of the private telephone system of the handbooks and poolrooms. According to gossip in the neighborhood, he started out at the opening of the baseball season to wreck the rival telephone system of the baseball gamblers. He has been out, the report is, with his men every afternoon during baseball hours cutting the wires of rival systems.

"Big Jim" has been making his headquarters in a hotel for men further down the line of the elevated, it is said, and had been driven off the roof yesterday by a force of baseball men, who were out to protect their wires. He appeared near Forty-second Street last night with two companions, and walked slowly south on the west side of the street. As he reached Thirty-eighth Street a southbound taxicab passed close to the curb, and two men in the body of the car opened fire. "Big Jim" and his companions returned the fire, taking refuge behind a pile of paving stones in Thirty-eighth Street, which is torn up for repairs. Bystanders said that one of the men in the taxicab made an exclamation, and from that it is believed that he was wounded.

The importance of the telephone system along Ninth and Columbus Avenues is said to be due to the fact that the line follows the elevated railroad from the downtown headquarters to lucrative territory in Forty-second Street, Columbus Circle, Lincoln Square, Harlem, and Washington Heights.

WOMAN ACCUSES LAWYER.

Wm. A. Hayes Charged with Defrauding George Storm's Daughter.

William A. Hayes, a lawyer, with an office at 10 Wall Street and apartments at 403 West 110th Street, was arrested in his office yesterday on a bench warrant issued by Justice Davis in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court. Hayes had been indicted for grand larceny. It is charged that he obtained $38,000 from Mrs. Adelaide C. Davidson of 200 West 107th Street by fraud. After a short examination he was committed to the Tombs in default of $10,000 bail.

According to the story told by Mrs. Davidson, who is the daughter of the late George Storm, the cigar manufacturer, she and her sister, Mrs. Emma L. Charlick of 212 West 103d Street, as trustees for their mother, Mrs. Eva M. Storm, invested $50,000 in first and second mortgages on property at 204, 206 and 208 Third Avenue. A question over the equity in the property arose and Mrs. Davidson put the matter in Hayes's hands, promising him $2,000 if he disposed of the mortgages. Hayes, she says, sold the mortgages for $40,000 and brought her a certified check for $38,000 having kept his retainer. She indorsed the check, also indorsing for her sister, Mrs. Charlick, who was in Europe, and handed the check back to Hayes with the understanding that he was to deposit it in a trust company which would pay 4 or 4½ per cent.

Instead of doing this, she charges, Hayes deposited it in his own name and then came to her saying that he had invested it in a first mortgage on property at Park Avenue and Sixtieth Street. The following June he brought $400 to Mrs. Davidson, saying it was the interest of the mortgage. Several things occurred which caused Mrs. Davidson to become uneasy and she repeatedly tried to get the lawyer to show her the bond or mortgage as evidence that he had really invested the $38,000.

Hayes kept putting her off, however, and one day Mrs. Davidson read a notice in the paper saying that the Park Avenue property had been bought by the Park Avenue Holding Company, a corporation headed by Walter Russell, H. Russell, said to be his wife, and Hayes. Mrs. Davidson then put the matter in the hands of the District Attorney.

GROCERY TRUST MEN HELD.

Hearing Before the Magistrate Postponed and Officials Under Bail.

Proceedings against the officials of the Harlem Hebrew Grocers' Association began yesterday before Chief Magistrate McAdoo in his office at 300 Mulberry Street. The defendants were Joseph Brill, President of the Association, a baker, living at 1 East 112th Street; Samuel Calman, grocer, 149 East 103d Street, and the Secretary of the association; Michael Cohen, Vice President, grocer, 240 East 104th Street, and Louis Bornstein, organizer of the association, and a grocer, 126 East 123d Street.

All four men are charged with violating the Donnelly anti-trust law, and were represented by former Secretary of State Samuel S. Koenig and William Blau. The District Attorney's office was represented by Assistant District Attorney Lavelle and Lawyer Bernard H. Sandler of 257 Broadway, who got the evidence against the association.

Mr. Koenig asked for an adjournment until May 3, as he was not familiar with the complaints. The adjournment was granted, the defendants being held in $1,500 bail each.

Assistant District Attorney Lavelle said last night that he had fifty new complaints, and that the surface of the alleged conspiracy had only been touched.

The association was started in 1909 on a small scale in Harlem, but is said to have extended to the Bronx and the lower east side, and to be composed of about 800 members. Harry Eisenberg and Max Korner, two Harlem grocers, are the principal complainants. They say that because they failed to keep up their prices as the association ordered they were boycotted by all tradesmen, and that threats of violence had been made against them.

REMOVE GARBAGE AT NIGHT.

Ashes, Too, to be Carted Away While the City Sleeps.

Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards, all the officers of his department, and 500 men of his force were at work from midnight till well after sunrise yesterday, collecting the garbage and ashes from three sections of New York. When the Commissioner drove up to his home at the Hotel Marie Antoinette at daybreak yesterday morning, his satisfied smile suggested that the experiment on its first night gave promise of a long run. If at the end of the month it is found that the system meets with general approval, the ashes and garbage of the entire city will be collected and carried to the scows, while the city sleeps.

The idea was Mayor Gaynor's. It is being done in other cities of the country, and he wanted it tried here.

It was argued against the scheme that the noise of clattering cans would rob the city of its sleep, and that is why the injunction was strongly made last night that the work should be done swiftly and silently, with emphasis on the silence.

Complaints yesterday were fewer than usual. Several of them were based on the fact that the entire population of the districts selected for the experiment had not caught the idea, so that their cans were not ready. There was just one complaint that the noise had been found disturbing, and that was made jocularly.

Alexander E. Brown Dead.

Alexander E. Brown, aged 59, President of the Brown Hoisting Machinery Company and inventor of numerous ore and coal handling devices, died at his home in Cleveland, Ohio, yesterday. He was stricken with paralysis a few months ago. Mr. Brown was educated in the schools of Cleveland. In 1872 he took a special course in civil engineering at the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute. In 1877 he married [illegible], a daughter of [illegible] of Cleveland. He [illegible] American Society of [illegible] Mechanical Engineers.

LIVELY BIDDING YET AT HOE LIBRARY SALE

Third Day Brings in $49,338, Making the Total Nearly $300,000.

$3,300 FOR A DENTON WORK

"Robinson Crusoe" First Edition Bid Up to $1,425 in a Spirited Contest—High Prices for Other Works.

The total for the two sessions of the Robert Hoe library sale held yesterday was $49,338, of which $24,182 was realized at the afternoon session and $25,206 last evening. The grand total up to date is $299,568.

An uncut copy of Daniel Denton's "Brief Description of New York," printed in London in 1670, brought the top price of the evening session, $3,300, being knocked down to Dodd & Livingston. There is a copy of this rarity in the E. D. Church library, which now belongs to Henry E. Huntington, who recently purchased the library for $800,000.

The first editions of all three volumes of Daniel Defoe's "Life and Strange Surprising Adventures of Robinson Crusoe," London, 1719-20, brought $1,425, after a lively contest in which Walter M. Hill of Chicago, George D. Smith, and James F. Drake took part. Mr. Hill succeeded in getting it.

There were a number of other Defoe first editions, among them "The Fortunes and Misfortunes of the Famous Moll Flanders," large copy of the first edition, London, 1721, $870, (Smith;) "The Fortunate Mistress," London, 1724, $500, (Smith,) and "The Life and Adventures of Roxana," London, 1755, $130, (Smith.)

"The Village Coquettes, a Comic Opera in Two Acts," by Charles Dickens, an autograph presentation copy from the author, with inscription on title page, went to Dodd & Livingston for $430. Two rare works by Bishop Garvin Douglas, "The Palis of Honoure," London, 1553, and his translation of Virgil's Aeneid, London, 1553, realized respectively $585 (Smith) and $950, (E. D. Brooks.)

William Drummond's "Poems," Edinburgh, 1616, sold for $1,250, (Smith,) and his "Forth Feasting," Edinburgh, 1617, $1,210, (Smith.) Among the other items which brought $500 or more were:

First edition of "Hypnerotomachia Poliphili," by Francesco Colonna, printed by Aldus Manutius in Venice in 1499, a masterpiece of the Venetian art of wood engraving, $900, (Smith.)

"Cronique et hystoire," by Philippe de Commines, Paris, 1524, binding by Lortic, $800, (Dr. Rosenbach.)

"Poetical Blossomes," by A. C., (Abraham Cowley,) London, 1633, a first edition of Cowley's first production, $510, (Smith.)

"The Isle of Guls," first edition of John Day's first book, London, 1606, uncut copy, $855, (Smith.)

John Day's "Law Tricks, or Who Would Have Thought It," first edition, London, 1608, in rare uncut state, $855, (Smith.)

The highest price of the afternoon session was $3,800, for a copy of Samuel Daniel's "Delia, Contayning Certayne Sonnets; with the Complaint of Rosamond," a small quarto, published in London in 1592. It is the first issue of the first edition. Only two copies are known, the other one being in the Bodleian Library. The competition for it was between Mr. Smith and Dr. Rosenbach, and Mr. Smith got the rarity.

Other Daniel items were "The Worthy Tract of Paulus Jovins," London, 1585 first edition of Daniel's earliest printed book, $270, (Quaritch;) "The First Fowre Bookes of the Civile Warres Betweene the Two Houses of Lancester and Yorke," first edition, London, 1595, $300, (Smith;) "The Tragedie of Cleopatra," London, 1599, $625, (Quaritch;) "The Poeticall Essayes of Sam. Danyel," London, 1599, $210, (Smith;) second edition of his "Works," folio, London, 1601, $550, (Dodd & Livingston;) "A Panegyrike," London, 1603, $125, (Smith;) third collected edition of his poems, London, 1605, $150, (Dodd & Livingston;) "Certaine Small Workes," London, 1607, $115, (Smith,) and "The Civile Warres Betweene the Houses of Lancaster and Yorke, Corrected and Continued," London, 1609; a copy owned formerly by Thomas Killigrew, the dramatist and wit, with his autograph signature on one of the pages, $550, (Dr. Rosenbach.)

Only a few minutes before this work was sold a pass, signed by Oliver Cromwell and dated July 5, 1652, bought $60, (Smith.) Two lines in the handwriting of Sir William Davenant, (a rare autograph,) who sympathized with Charles I. in his fatal struggle with the Parliament, went for $25, (order,) and an intersting letter of William Cowper, the English poet, May 21, 1782, referring to a book by Benjamin Franklin, $75, (Smith.)
